Journal of Contemporary Psychotherapy, 1989

Attachment in Psychotherapy David J. Wallin, 2015-04-27 This eloquent book translates attachment theory and research into an innovative framework that grounds adult psychotherapy in the facts of childhood development Advancing a model of treatment as transformation through relationship the author integrates attachment theory with neuroscience trauma studies relational psychotherapy and the psychology of mindfulness Vivid case material illustrates how therapists can tailor interventions to fit the attachment needs of their patients thus helping them to generate the internalized secure base for which their early relationships provided no foundation Demonstrating the clinical uses of a focus on nonverbal interaction the book describes powerful techniques for working with the emotional responses and bodily experiences of patient and therapist alike

What to Do When Children Clam Up in Psychotherapy Cathy A. Malchiodi, David A. Crenshaw, 2017-05-30 Therapists who work with children and adolescents are frequently faced with nonresponsive reticent or completely nonverbal clients This volume brings together expert clinicians who explore why 4 to 16 year olds may have difficulty talking and provide creative ways to facilitate communication A variety of play art movement and animal assisted therapies as well as trauma focused therapy with adolescents are illustrated with vivid clinical material Contributors give particular attention to the neurobiological effects of trauma how they manifest in the body when children clam up and how to help children self regulate and feel safe Most chapters conclude with succinct lists of recommended practices for engaging hard to reach children that therapists can immediately try out in their own work Psychotherapy and Mental Handicap

Alexis Waitman,Suzanne Conboy-Hill,1992-02-21 This thought provoking accessible book explores the role of psychotherapeutic talking therapies with mentally handicapped people The contributors discuss the use of a range of therapeutic approaches in this context including group analytic therapy and transactional analysis They also examine a number of specific issues relevant to working with this client group such as countertransference with mentally handicapped clients understanding secondary mental handicap as a defence against trauma group work around the stigmatised identity of being a handicapped person and reminiscence as a way of helping clients address the personal implications of moving from an institutional setting into the community Work with families with mentally handicapped children is also discussed Throughout the book aims to show how psychotherapy can be an important and empowering resource for a client group that has so frequently been denied such services It will be essential reading for all those working in the area of mental handicap and with psychotherapeutic and counselling approaches generally
