Parad, 1962 Ego Psychology and Dynamic Casework Smith College (Northampton, Mass.). School for Social Work, 1958 New Developments in Casework Eileen Younghusband, 2021-11-07 Originally published in 1966 this book gives examples of the most advanced thought about casework by well known writers in England and the United States at the time The ground covered includes the use of some current sociological theory in casework analysis of the interpersonal relationships in casework new thought about the appropriate use of authority with people whose own internal controls are weak and unreliable and recent advances in understanding and working with people who respond to action more easily than to words These articles by well known authorities illustrate the increased range of insight and skill required of modern caseworkers and at the same time are highly readable conveying complex ideas in language refreshingly free from jargon Ego David Paul Ausubel, Ego Development and Psychopathology presents an original theoretical underpinning for classification and interpretation of the major mental disorders one based largely on the author's clinical experience Ausubel's central thesis is that the most significant and crucial factors predisposing persons to mental disorders are critical developmental defects that arise at vital transitional phases of ego development He sees both normal and pathological personality functioning as most cogently explained in terms of an individual's ego structure at a given point in the life cycle Ausubel relates his developmental theory to the phenomenology and related clinical problems of psychiatric diagnosis He classifies mental disorders in terms of their developmental history Such factors in his opinion offer the most precise delineation of etiological functional and phenomenological similarities and differences among the various psychiatric syndromes He provides an overview of ego development as well as major variants of the norm He also discusses development of conscience and moral values as well as psychopathological considerations that follow from deficiencies defects failure and distortions in ego development He examines at length classification of mental disorders such as anxiety states psychotic depression and mania schizophrenia autism antisocial and narcissistic personality disorders and defense mechanisms Ausubel is careful to point out that ego development is not the only significant determinant of normal and aberrant personality Genetic predispositions situational stress and sociocultural factors must always be taken into consideration since mental disorder is always a product of multiple causality However he believes ego development is by far the most critical factor and hence offers the most for classification of mental illness This intriguing study will be of interest to professionals as well as educated and concerned practitioners in the fields of psychology psychiatry psychoanalysis child psychotherapy and social work Psychosocial Framework: Oxford Bibliographies Online Research Guide Eda G. Person-Environment Practice Susan P, Kemp, James K. Whittaker, Elizabeth M. Tracy, 2024-11-01 Person Environment Practice addresses a core but long neglected dimension in social work and human services practice accurate environmental assessment and strategic environmental intervention. Despite the centrality of person environment as a key construct in direct practice the domain of environmental assessment intervention has received relatively little systematic attention in the practice literature. For a variety of reasons the core focus of direct practice assessment and change strategies has centered more on person than environment. This book seeks to redress that imbalance. Ironically the relative lack of attention to environmentally oriented practice persists even as current demands of practice fall increasingly under the rubric of what we here call environmental intervention defined as both action in the environment and the process of transforming individual and collective perspectives through critical analysis of the impact of environmental conditions. The authors argue that the ability to understand environment from the client's perspective and to function effectively in the environmental domain is central to many emergent areas of practice such as practice with extended families and personal networks practice from a strengths perspective and culturally competent practice. In Person Environment Practice the authors offer a coherent critique and overview of environmental assessment and intervention congruent with the demands of both newly emerging and established interpersonal helping approaches within social work's domain. Robert Halpern of the Erikson Institute for Advanced Studies in Child Development described the book as as clear thoughtful and subtle a discussion of how to consider the environment in interpersonal helping as I have seen in the literature and Anthony Maluccio of Boston College called the book a timely and exciting contribution with appreciation and respect for social work practices and qualities of inspiration as well as intellectual stimulation.
