Fauna and Flora, Earth and Sky Trudy Dittmar, 2005-04 Fauna and Flora Earth and Sky is in fact the most intelligent thoughtful original challenging and highly entertaining work of nature writing since Barry Lopez's Arctic Dreams It is her broad scope of contemplation combined with her fiercely beautiful and detailed renderings of passion natural and human that give Trudy Dittmar's first but fully mature book its remarkable originality and considerable power Robert Finch Los Angeles Times Book Review Honest self scrutiny is irresistible especially when told with a knack for diction of place as this author demonstrates on every page She is both of the landscape and an informed observer of it willing to examine her conflicts between the experiences that play in her imagination and the scientific knowledge she's gleaned through training and reading The Bloomsbury Review Trudy Dittmar is an elegant stylist and an acute observer She's read everything there is to read about the physics of rainbows the habits of the porcupine the winter survival skills of the moose and the orbits of the planets but even her learning is outdistanced by her patient powers of looking smelling hearing touching and tasting Her originality arises out of this patience And magically she is able to read into and out of the rich endangered natural world an Emersonian understanding of self This is at once the most objective and subjective book I have ever read Edmund White author of A Boy's Own Story Dittmar writes about life with the precision of a scientist and the introspective lyricism of a poet illuminating for us those parts of the world we barely remember to notice from the complex emotional lives of cows and pronghorns to the dazzling leaves of a silver maple to the teeming hidden pools of bright salamanders Reading this book is like finding a geode in a stream bed crack it open and it sparkles

Jo Ann Beard Dittmar who won a Rona Jaffe Foundation Writer Award in 2000 and whose writings have appeared in numerous publications provides a fascinating look at natural and personal history in these ten essays on animals plants and other natural phenomena An excellent choice for both public and academic libraries Library Journal In essays with settings that range from the Wind River Mountains of Wyoming to the mountain town of Leadville Colorado to the Pine Barrens of New Jersey Trudy Dittmar weaves personal experience with diverse threads of subject matter to create unexpected connections between human nature and nature at large Life stories elegantly combined with mindful observations of animals plants landscape and the skies theories in natural science environmental considerations and touches of art criticism and popular culture offer insights into the linked analogies of nature and soul A glacial pond teeming with salamanders in arrested development is cause for reflection on the limits of a life that knows only bounty The hot blue lights of celestial phenomena are a metaphor for fast flashy men he loves of a life and a romantic career is interpreted Watching a pronghorn buck battling for and ultimately losing his harem leads to a meditation on a kind of immortality Fauna and Flora Earth and Sky is testimony to the bearing and consequence of nature in one life and to the richness of understanding it can bring to all human lives Trudy Dittmar was born and raised in New Jersey farm country In addition to holding an MA in English literature from the University of Chicago she is a graduate of Columbia University s MFA program in writing and the founder and former director of a writing program at Brookdale Community College in New Jersey Her work has appeared in such publications as The Norton Book of Nature Writing Pushcart XXI Georgia Review and Orion She divides her time between her family home in New Jersey and her cabin in Wyoming

Nigeria Lorna Robson,2005 One of a series of titles that take an in depth look at various countries around the world covering each country s physical geography natural environment politics and more Rethinking Environmental Protection Phillip F. Cramer,2000-01-01 Despite widespread popular support for environmental action Phillip F Cramer argues that current U S environmental policy approaches fail to address the real threat of environmental insecurity Cramer traces this failure to a reluctance to recognize and address the interconnectedness of natural forces just as all elements within the environment are linked so too should our perspectives on and responses to environmental degradation be linked In this book Cramer provides an innovative holistic approach to environmental protection that incorporates the best lessons learned from the fields of biology ethics philosophy political science law ecology and international relations He especially advocates local action and providing illustrative examples demonstrates how local action around the world is most effective when carried out within a global framework that supports information dissemination and international coordination This book will energize to thought and action any scholar student or general reader concerned with environmental issues and our current trajectory toward environmental decay Art of Living Dangerously Richard Bangs,2023-11-07 In 1973 Richard Bangs founded Sobek Expeditions the original and now the largest adventure travel company in the world with over a million clients guided since its beginning But this is not just a story of an unusual company one that profoundly transformed the way we travel and experience the world It presents true stories both perilous and awe inspiring from the full array of adventure travel trekking climbing sailing diving adventure cruising kayaking back country skiing mountaineering biking cultural immersions canyoneering and more Sobek pioneered scores of adventures from trekking in the Himalayas to cruising the Galapagos and Antarctica to first descents of some eighty rivers around the world The author personally led thirty five first river descents capsizing on six continents a unique albeit dubious distinction and organized and led the first trips into North Korea Libya Yemen Djibouti Saudi Arabia Pakistan New Guinea Iran and even China back in 1978 Sobek clients have included Bill Gates Jeff Bezos Mick Jagger Barry Diller and Daryl Hannah It is the shadow company behind National Geographic Adventures New York Times Active Journeys and Smithsonian Expeditions This book traces fifty years of adventure travel and how it has evolved through times of war and peace terrorism the rise of the internet the pandemic and
