Victorian Noon Carl Dawson,2020-03-24 Originally published in 1979 Carl Dawson looks at the year 1850 which was an extraordinary year in English literary history to study both the great and forgotten writers to survey journals and novels poems and magazines and to ask questions about dominant influences and ideas His primary aim is descriptive How was Wordsworth s Prelude received by his contemporaries on its publication in 1850 How did reviewers respond to new tendencies in poetry and fiction Who were the prominent literary models But Dawson s descriptions also lead to broader theoretical questions about such issues as the status of the imagination in an age obsessed by mechanical invention about the public role of the writer the appeal to nature and the use of myth and memory To express the Victorians estimation of poetry for example Dawson presents the contrasting views help by two eminent Victorians Macaulay and Carlyle In Macaulay s opinion the advance of civilization led to the decline of poetry Carlyle on the other hand saw the poet as a spiritual liberator in a world of materialists The fusion of the poet s personal and public roles is witnessed in a discussion of the two mid Victorian Poet Laureates Wordsworth and his successor Tennyson In analyzing the relationship between the two writers works Dawson also highlights the extent of the Victorians admiration for Dante To give a wider perspective of the status of literature during this time Dawson examines reviews prefaces and other remarks Critics he shows made a clear distinction between poetry and fiction Thus in 1850 a comparison between say Wordsworth and Dickens would not have been made

Dawson however does compare the two by focusing on their uses of autobiography Dickens surfaces again in a discussion of Victorian periodical publishing Here Dawson compares the Pre Raphaelites short lived journal The Germ with Dickens enormously popular Household Words and a radical paper The Red Republican which printed the first English version of The Communist Manifesto in 1850 In bringing together materials that have often been seen as disparate and unrelated and by suggesting new literary and ideological relationships Carl Dawson has written a book to inform almost any reader whether scholar of Victorian literature or lover of Dickens novels

Picturing the Past Rosemary Mitchell, 2000-07-13 This monograph is a wide ranging and sophisticated analysis of representations in text and image of the English past between 1830 and 1870 It consists of a series of inter related case studies of illustrated history books ranging from editions of David Humes History of England to W H Ainsworths The Tower of London 1840 It contributes to present debates on nationalism highlighting the complex and variable nature of cultural constructions of identity Simultaneously it offers an overall interpretation of historiographical change in early and mid Victorian Britain focusing in particular on the transition from picturesque reconstructions of the English past to the scientific approaches of the professional historian Genuinely interdisciplinary Picturing the Past presents new perspectives on traditional studies of Victorian historiography literature and illustration It explores relationships between text and image author illustrator and publisher in the production of illustrated historical texts often drawing on neglected material in publishers archives The tendency to analyse text and image fiction and non fiction popular and elite publications in isolation from each other is challenged in the interests of a more complex and nuanced portrait of the middle class Victorian historical consciousness

British Music and Literary Context Michael Allis, 2012 Despite several recent monographs editions and recordings devoted to the reassessment of British music in the late nineteenth and early twentieth century some negative perceptions still remain particularly a sense that British composers in this period somehow lacked literary credentials British Music and Literary Context counters this perception by showing that these composers displayed a real confidence and assurance in refiguring literary texts in their music The book explores how a literary context might offer modern audiences and listeners a way in to appreciate specific works that have traditionally been viewed as problematic Each chapter of this interdisciplinary study juxtaposes a British composer with a particular literary counterpart or genre Issues highlighted in the book include the vexed relationship between words and music the refiguring of literary narratives as musical structures and the ways in which musical settings or representations of literary texts might be seen as critical readings of those texts Anyone interested in nineteenth century British music literature and Victorian studies will enjoy this thought provoking and perceptive book

English Fiction of the Victorian Period Michael Wheeler, 2014-01-14 Professor Wheeler s widely acclaimed survey of the nineteenth century fiction covers both the major writers and their works and encompasses the genres and minor fiction of the period This excellent introduction and reference source has been revised for this second edition to include new material on lesser known writers and a comprehensively updated bibliography
