Edward R Murrow And The Birth Of Broadcast Journalism Library Edition:

Friending the Past Alan Liu, 2018-11-27 Can today's society increasingly captivated by a constant flow of information share a sense of history? How did our media-making forebears balance the tension between the present and the absent, the individual and the collective, the static and the dynamic, and how do our current digital networks disrupt these same balances? Can our social media with its fleeting nature even be considered social at all? In Friending the Past Alan Liu proposes fresh answers to these innovative questions of connection. He explores how we can learn from the relationship between past societies whose media forms fostered a communal and self-aware sense of history, such as prehistorical oral societies with robust storytelling cultures or the great print works of nineteenth-century historicism and our own instantaneous present. He concludes with a surprising look at how the sense of history exemplified in today's JavaScript timelines compares to the temporality found in Romantic poetry. Interlaced among these inquiries, Liu shows how extensive network archaeologies can be constructed as novel ways of thinking about our affiliations with time and with each other. These conceptual architectures of period and age are also always media structures scaffolded with the outlines of what we mean by history. Thinking about our own time, Liu wonders if the digital networked future can sustain a similar sense of history. Library Journal, 2008

Starred Review Library Journal. Journalism permeates our lives and shapes our thoughts in ways we've long taken for granted. Whether we listen to National Public Radio in the morning, view the lead story on the Today show, read the morning newspaper headlines, stay up to the minute with Internet news, browse grocery store tabloids, receive Time magazine in our mailbox, or watch the nightly news on television, journalism pervades our daily activities. The six-volume Encyclopedia of Journalism covers all significant dimensions of journalism, including print, broadcast, and Internet journalism. U.S. and international perspectives, history, technology, legal issues, and court cases, ownership, and economics. The set contains more than 350 signed entries under the direction of leading journalism scholar Christopher H. Sterling of The George Washington University. In the A to Z volumes 1 through 4, both scholars and journalists contribute articles that span the field's wide spectrum of topics, from design, editing, advertising, and marketing to libel, censorship, First Amendment rights, and bias to digital manipulation, media hoaxes, political cartoonists, and secrecy and leaks. Also covered are recently emerging media such as podcasting, blogs, and chat rooms. The last two volumes contain a thorough listing of
