Education Opportunity And Social Inequality Changing Prospects In Western Society:

Education, Opportunity, and Social Inequality Raymond Boudon, 1974 Monograph on the sociological aspects of the expansion of educational opportunities in developed countries since 1945 with particular reference to the social implications for social mobility analyses the mechanisms generating unequal opportunities examines trends in school enrolment particularly for higher education etc and presents a theoretical model for educational level attainment and social mobility References and statistical tables Handbook of the Sociology of Education Maureen T. Hallinan, 2006-11-24 The aim of the Handbook of Sociology of Education is to present the most theoretically grounded and empirically rigorous sociological analyses of schools to date The authors are distinguished researchers in the field Their contributions to the Handbook offer major theoretical perspectives on the schooling process and describe significant empirical studies of schools and their effects on individuals and society The research presented in the Handbook is built on three fundamental tenets of sociology First the authors adopt the perspective that schools are a central institution in society An understanding of the function of schooling in social life is enhanced by viewing schools as interrelated with other societal institutions The study of how the context of schooling influences education processes is critical to an understanding of school outcomes Rather than being determined solely by ascribed and achieved characteristics an individual's cognitive and social development are influenced heavily by the structures and networks in which the individual is embedded Communities families schools and social groups are critical elements in the educative process By viewing the school as a societal institution and highlighting the interaction between context and individual behavior the Handbook chapters provide a broader and deeper understanding of the determinants of learning in contemporary society The second sociological insight that guides the research in the Handbook is that the school is a social system Changes in Inequality of Educational Opportunity Pia Nicoletta

Blossfeld, 2018-05-24 Pia Nicoletta Blossfeld provides a long term longitudinal analysis of the stepwise changes in transitions over the educational careers in East and West Germany using data from the National Educational Panel Study NEPS She examines how far reforms aimed to increase the permeability in the German educational system have changed the movements of children adolescents and young adults in Germany since the last four decades Her book contributes to the literature of educational sociology by studying the associations between various resources of family background and respondent's educational histories until final educational attainment A novelty of her book is the analysis of the role of intercohort changes in social background composition on final educational attainment Education Systems and Inequalities Andreas Hadjar, Christiane Gross, 2016-06-08 This is the first book to bring together an international roster of contributors to compare different education systems and their effects on social inequality Starting with basic premises such as how education systems can be characterized and what distinguishes them the book goes on to explore those systems links with social structures their role in expanding or ameliorating inequality and the social mechanisms that underlie that role It will be crucial to future debates on education and policy reform

Neoliberalism and Education Kalwant Bhopal, Farzana Shain, 2017-10-02 Neoliberalism and Education Rearticulating Social Justice and Inclusion offers a critical reflection on the establishment of neoliberalism as the new global orthodoxy in the field of education and considers what this means for social justice and inclusion It brings together writers from a number of countries who explore notions of inclusion and social justice in educational settings ranging from elementary schools to higher education Contributors examine policy practice and pedagogical considerations covering different dimensions of inequality including disability race gender and class They raise questions about what social justice and inclusion mean in educational systems that are dominated by competition benchmarking and target driven accountability and about the new forms of imperialism and colonisation that both drive and are a product of market driven reforms While exposing the entrenchment under current neoliberal systems of educational provision of longstanding patterns of racialised classed and gendered privilege and disadvantage the contributions presented in this book also consider the possibilities for hope and resistance drawing attention to established and successful attempts at democratic education or community organisation across a number of countries This book was originally published as a special issue of the British Journal of Sociology of Education

Agent-Based Modelling of Social Networks in Labour-Education Market System Alexander Tarvid, 2015-11-27 This book covers the modelling of human behaviour in the education and labour markets which due to their interdependency are viewed as one system Important factors influencing the decision making of individuals and firms in this system are discussed The role of social environment and networks is stressed The approach of agent based modelling is presented and compared with standard economic modelling and other simulation techniques in the context of modelling complex adaptive systems Practical questions in building agent based models of labour education market system with social networks are discussed These questions include modelling the structure of education system and agent behaviour there modelling and calibrating the labour market without and with firms generating the social network defining its behaviour and calibrating it and embedding the resulting system into a larger model

The Anthem Companion to Raymond Boudon Christian Robitaille, Robert Leroux, 2024-06-04 This book seeks to identify the main threads of a resolutely complex course of thought which has contributed greatly to sociology Although he founded no school Raymond Boudon certainly made original contributions to the discipline in his own time including his theory of rationality his interpretation of the work of the founders of sociology and his explanation of educational inequalities He also presented convincing arguments about how the overly narrow utilitarianism of mainstream economists was incomplete and betrayed major theoretical gaps It is true in any case that his thought laid the groundwork for many theoretical and empirical social studies Through an analysis of the most important parts of this thought each of the chapters will not merely demonstrate the scientific rigor which can be associated to his work but also show how it remains relevant to our understanding of contemporary society and how it can hence be used for future research projects There can be no doubt

Boudon's thought has for various reasons undergone new assessments. Chapters of this book hence reflect a variety of points of view on how his work can be understood, criticized and used for future research endeavors. Lessons of Cross-national Comparison in Education David Phillips, 1992-01-01. This collection of articles is a contribution to the debate about two important questions in the study of comparative education: What lessons can be learned from cross-national studies of issues in education and What problems of comparative method do such studies have to address. Research in Education, 1974.

Education and National Development Ingemar Faegerlind, Lawrence J. Saha, 2016-06-03. Education and National Development: A Comparative Perspective discusses the correlation between education and national development. The book is comprised of nine chapters that cover several concerns regarding the subject matter such as the theoretical underpinning, dimensions, policies and practice. The first chapter discusses the origins of modern development thought while the second chapter talks about how formal schooling can serve as an agent of change. Chapters 3, 4 and 5 cover the various dimensions of development which are economic growth, employment, quality of life and political system. Chapter 6 discusses strategies for educational reform while Chapter 7 deals with the evaluation of development policy. The eighth chapter provides a comparative discourse about education and development under capitalism and socialism. Chapter 9 talks about education, the state and development. The book will be of great interest to readers concerned about how education correlates with national development. Bourdieu, Habitus and Social Research Cristina Costa, Mark Murphy, 2015-07-17. This collection brings together for the first time a set of researchers whose research methodologies centre on Bourdieu's concept of habitus. Full of insight and innovation, the book is an essential read for anyone wanting to know more about approaches to social theory and its application in research. Radicalism and Education Reform in 20th-Century China Suzanne Pepper, 2000-07-10. The first comprehensive book to cover the whole sweep of twentieth-century Chinese education. Sociology, Gender and

Educational Aspirations Carol Fuller, 2011-07-07. Annotation. Social Stratification Dr Paul Lambert, Ms Roxanne Connelly, Professor Robert M Blackburn, Professor Vernon Gayle, 2013-02-28. Research into social stratification and social divisions has always been a central component of sociological study. This volume brings together a range of thematically organised case studies comprising empirical and methodological analyses addressing the challenges of studying trends and processes in social stratification. This collection has four themes. The first concerns the measurement of social stratification since the problem of relating concepts, measurements and operationalizations continues to cause difficulties for sociological analysis. This book clarifies the appropriate deployment of existing measurement options and presents new empirical strategies of measurement and interpretation. The conception of the life course and individual social biography is very popular in modern sociology. The second theme of this volume exploits the contemporary expansion of micro-level longitudinal data and the analytical approaches available to researchers to exploit such records. It comprises chapters which exemplify innovative empirical analysis of life course processes in a longitudinal context thus offering an advance on previous sociological accounts concerned with longitudinal trends and processes The third theme of the book concerns the interrelationship between contemporary demographic institutional and socioeconomic transformations and structures of social inequality Although the role of wider social changes is rarely neglected in sociological reviews such changes continue to raise analytical challenges for any assessment of empirical differences and trends The fourth theme of the book discusses selected features of policy and political responses to social stratification This volume will be of interest to students academics and policy experts working in the field of social stratification
