Kauffmann,Judith N. Martin,Henry D. Weaver,1992 Colleges and universities face the major problem of how to make a university education meaningful in a global society It is the thesis of this book that study abroad is one of the most powerful tools available for internationalizing the U S higher education curriculum After an Introduction giving a general overview of the book the study begins with four student case histories showing that an individual student's maturity and the extent of his or her immersion in the host country's culture are two key variables that determine to what extent study abroad affects the student. The next two chapters suggest first that as they study abroad students develop intellectually in three ways: 1 through language study, 2 through courses in the student's majors that offer new perspectives, and 3 through knowledge acquisition in broad general areas; and second that as they study abroad students change in their perceptions of the host culture, their own culture, and global understanding. In chapter 5 a theoretical framework is proposed for understanding the effects of study abroad and the growth which results from it. The conclusion is reached that study abroad is not only a potentially powerful educational technique but also that program design and participant selection can have significant effects upon outcome. Finally a number of recommendations are offered whereby it is believed the effectiveness of study abroad programs in U.S. educational institutions can be increased and broadened. LBG

The global networking promoted by technology, globalization, and migration that are occurring at a large scale requires school systems that develop in the students new types of skills based on the ability to understand the world and its problems and instill a sense of responsibility and cooperation to enhance the resolution of the great problems of mankind. Rethinking education is essential in a global, transcultural, changing, and communicated world. Throughout the book Rethinking Education for a Global Transcultural World is argued and analyzed how to build relationships between the school and society and the possibilities of transcending the barriers in different national contexts: Chile, Israel, Mexico, Morocco, Poland, and Spain. The main goal we want to achieve with the contributions made in the book is to know how education systems and schools in different countries respond to the social changes caused by globalization, migration, and new communication technologies. The authors are professors of different scientific disciplines and different faiths, cultures, and points of view living the realities described in the chapters and thinking from these realities how to improve and how should be the education in a global, challenging, and ever-changing world. We stress the importance of this book and its implications in the education of children and youth and in the preparation of teachers. For this reason, this is a book designed for teachers of primary and secondary schools, parents, principals, supervisors, university teachers who prepare school teachers, university students, and those who want to know and think about education in a global and intercultural world and new forms of communication to face learning, whether at local or at world level. The mission of all is to continue building education and to facilitate this work. In this book are presented contributions and recommendations of professionals around the world that will allow the reader to know, analyze, understand, and appreciate the importance of education to prepare students to function with open and critical thinking in a global world. The chapters do not offer a panacea but offer many ideas on how through education prepare citizens for a global and transcultural society.
