Evidence of Bad Character J R Spencer,2016-09-01 This is the third edition of J R Spencer's now well established book which seeks to explain this area of law for the benefit of judges criminal practitioners and academics teaching the law of evidence In the past the rule excluding evidence of the defendant's general bad character and disposition to commit the offence was sometimes described as one of the most hallowed rules of evidence Lord Sankey in Maxwell v DPP referred to it as one of the most deeply rooted and jealously guarded principles of our criminal law In reality it was not particularly ancient and as the years went by it was increasingly attacked On technical grounds the body of law surrounding it was criticised as over complicated and inconsistent and more radical critics condemned it as unduly favourable to the guilty In response to this the law was completely recast in Part 11 of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 This book now again updated to take account of further legislative changes case law and academic writing offers a thorough analysis of the bad character provisions of the Criminal Justice Act 2003 in the light of the way in which they have been interpreted by the courts Climbing the Sacred eroticism has been an important if neglected feature of Western esotericism from the early modern era down to the present day. Founded in Romania, the Movement for Spiritual Integration into the Absolute (MISA) turned sacred esotericism into the central feature of a mass movement gathering some 30 000 students worldwide. Based on extensive fieldwork and interviews, the book explores the history of MISA from its origins to the COVID 19 pandemic, presenting in detail its ideas about Tantra and eroticism. It also discusses MISA's approach to visual arts and cinema, including some of its members' early incursions into the slippery world of adult movies. The study concludes with a look at hostile reactions to MISA which have led to the issuing of arrest warrants against its founder amid a series of criminal accusations which the movement rejects as fabricated by opponents.
