an interdisciplinary science is an approach which integrates topics under study across the usual traditional or classical branches of science Human ecology synthesizes part of the knowledge of several classical disciplines in a specific way Of the many possible research orientations for understanding the relationship of people to their environment not all are ecological and only a few can be considered human ecology More than 50 per cent of accumulated human knowledge is related to the study of man and some aspect of our environment If we called all this knowledge human ecology it would be a meaningless generalization Because science has been based on the study of specific topics for example such classic disciplines as physics geology biology anthropology and interactions such as genetics and ecology or problems such as auxology and evolution human ecology provides a definite transdisciplinary approach to study by assuming specific perspectives Human ecology may be considered to have two parallel foci 1 an academic human ecology as a scientific discipline and 2 an action oriented human ecology which is technological environmental engineering environmental preservation environmental education and health protection against environmental deterioration In human ecology several categorical divisions and research perspectives may be defined and delimited into 4 main groups 1 Philosophical problems of human ecology 2 Social and biological problems of the human environment 3 Ecological problems of human biology 4 Cultural adaptive behavior The works of about one hundred ninety persons were classified and included in this volume there are abstracts from others whose addresses are not included sent by other authors or by other institutions but worthy of being added

Biodiversity Change and Human Health Osvaldo E. Sala, Laura A. Meyerson, Camille Parmesan, 2012-09-26 Biodiversity Change and Human Health brings together leading experts from the natural science and social science realms as well as the medical community to explore the explicit linkages between human driven alterations of biodiversity and documented impacts of those changes on human health. The book utilizes multidisciplinary approaches to explore and address the complex interplay between natural biodiversity and human health and well being. The five parts examine health trade offs between competing uses of biodiversity highlighting synergistic situations in which conservation of natural biodiversity actually promotes human health and well being relationships between biodiversity and quality of life that have developed over ecological and evolutionary time the effects of changing biodiversity on provisioning of ecosystem services and how they have affected human health the role of biodiversity in the spread of infectious disease native biodiversity as a resource for traditional and modern medicine. Biodiversity Change and Human Health synthesizes our current understanding and identifies major gaps in knowledge as it places all aspects of biodiversity and health interactions within a common framework. Contributors explore potential points of crossover among disciplines both in ways of thinking and of specific methodologies that could ultimately expand opportunities for humans to both live sustainably and enjoy a desirable quality of life. Global Resources, Environment, and Population Act of 1987 United States.
