

Economic decision analysis concerned with the evaluation of alternatives. These alternatives are often described by indicating the amount and timing of estimated future receipts and disbursements that will result from each decision.

It will be useful to think in terms of simple interest and then to expand this to consider the more common use of compound interest.

Andrew J. Hughes Hallett, 2012-12-06 The optimisation of economic systems over time and in an uncertain environment is central to the study of economic behaviour. The behaviour of rational decision makers, whether they are market agents, firms or governments and their agencies, is governed by decisions designed to secure the best outcomes subject to the perceived information and economic responses including those of other agents. Economic behaviour has therefore to be analysed in terms of the outcomes of a multiperiod stochastic optimisation process containing four main components: the economic responses, the dynamic constraints represented by an economic model, the objective function, the goals and their priorities, the conditioning information, expected exogenous events and the expected future state of the economy and risk management, how uncertainties are accommodated. The papers presented in this book all analyse some aspect of economic behaviour related to the objectives, information or risk components of the decision process. While the construction of economic models obviously also has a vital role to play, that component has received much greater or almost exclusive attention elsewhere. These papers examine optimising behaviour in a wide range of economic problems, both theoretical and applied. They reflect a variety of concerns: economic responses under rational expectations, the Lucas critique and optimal fiscal or monetary policies, market management, partly endogenous goals, evaluating government reactions, locational decisions, uncertainty and information structures and forecasting with endogenous reactions.

Fuzzy Sets in Decision Analysis, Operations Research and Statistics Roman Slowiński, 2012-12-06 Fuzzy Sets in Decision Analysis, Operations Research and Statistics includes chapters on fuzzy preference modeling, multiple criteria analysis, ranking and sorting methods, group decision making and fuzzy game theory. It also presents optimization techniques such as fuzzy linear and non-linear programming, applications to graph problems and fuzzy combinatorial methods such as fuzzy dynamic programming. In addition, the book also accounts for advances in fuzzy data analysis, fuzzy statistics and applications to reliability analysis. These topics are covered within four parts: Decision Making, Mathematical Programming, Statistics and Data Analysis, and Reliability, Maintenance and Replacement. The scope and content of the book has resulted from multiple interactions between the editor of the volume, the series editors, the series advisory board and experts in each chapter area. Each chapter was written by a well-known researcher on the topic and reviewed by other experts in the area. These expert reviewers sometimes became co-authors because of the extent of their contribution to the chapter. As a result, twenty-five authors from twelve countries and four continents were involved in the creation of the 13 chapters, which enhances the international character of the project and gives an idea of how carefully the Handbook has been developed.

Engineering Managerial Economic Decision and Risk Analysis Teddy Steven Cotter, 2021-11-18 This book directs the engineering manager or the undergraduate student preparing to become an engineering manager who is or will become actively engaged in the management of economic risk trade-off decisions for engineering investments within an organizational system. In today's global economy, this may mean managing the economic risks of engineering investments across national boundaries in international organizations, government or service organizations As such this is an applied book The book s goal is to provide an easy to understand up to date and coherent treatment of the management of the economic risk trade offs of engineering investments This book accomplishes this goal by cumulatively sequencing knowledge content from foundational economic and accounting concepts to cost estimating to the traditional engineering economics knowledge culminating in fundamental engineering managerial economic decision making incorporating risk into engineering management economic decisions

Probability Models for Economic Decisions, second edition Roger B. Myerson, Eduardo Zambrano, 2019-12-17 An introduction to the use of probability models for analyzing risk and economic decisions using spreadsheets to represent and simulate uncertainty This textbook offers an introduction to the use of probability models for analyzing risks and economic decisions It takes a learn by doing approach teaching the student to use spreadsheets to represent and simulate uncertainty and to analyze the effect of such uncertainty on an economic decision Students in applied business and economics can more easily grasp difficult analytical methods with Excel spreadsheets The book covers the basic ideas of probability how to simulate random variables and how to compute conditional probabilities via Monte Carlo simulation The first four chapters use a large collection of probability distributions to simulate a range of problems involving worker efficiency market entry oil exploration repeated investment and subjective belief elicitation The book then covers correlation and multivariate normal random variables conditional expectation optimization of decision variables with discussions of the strategic value of information decision trees game theory and adverse selection risk sharing and finance dynamic models of growth dynamic models of arrivals and model risk New material in this second edition includes two new chapters on additional dynamic models and model risk new sections in every chapter many new end of chapter exercises and coverage of such topics as simulation model workflow models of probabilistic electoral forecasting and real options The book comes equipped with Simtools an open source free software used throughout the book which allows students to conduct Monte Carlo simulations seamlessly in Excel

Behavioral and neuroscientific analysis of economic decision making in animals Tobias Kalenscher, Marijn Van Wingerden, The experimental analysis of animal behavior has a rich tradition in psychology behavioral ecology and many other scientific branches dedicated to the study of decision making However it has never enjoyed a similar popularity in economics This has recently changed with the dawn of neuroeconomics a discipline combining the analytic and experimental tools of psychology and economics with the technologies available in neuroscience to unravel the neurobiological mechanisms underlying economic behavior Since many of the sophisticated neuroscientific techniques can only be used on animals neuroeconomists have come up with a large and ever growing repertoire of animal models to probe economic decision making Besides the value of using animals as model systems to emulate human economic behavior the discipline of animal economic decision making exists in its very own right an abundance of animal species at various evolutionary stages show behavior that complies with many of the predictions of economic theory whilst at the same time demonstrating violations of optimal choice models that are reminiscent of similar anomalies found in human behavior Hence the analysis of animal choice does not only offer insights into the evolutionary origins of economic decision making it also testifies that the analysis of animal behavior is a convenient economical and sound way to test competing economic decision models in optimally controlled experimental environments to probe their neural implementation and to yield common denominators in choice behavior In short economic theory provides more than just an alternative language to describe animal psychology its combination with biology psychology and neuroscience gives way to synergy effects that open up new venues for studying economic choice In this special issue we would like to gather the latest results from this cross disciplinary topic address the overlap and discrepancies in the neurobiology of economic decision making found between species and identify the challenges that lie ahead in translating results from species to species and ultimately to humans The exclusive focus on non human animals makes this Research Topic unique and distinct from previous special issues which covered a broader range of matters and subjects in the neurobiological analysis of decision making
