Bosworth, Gary Burtless, 1998-05-01 By 2030 when most American baby boomers will have retired all the large industrial economies will see a massive increase in the old age population This book examines population aging and its implications for public retirement programs in the five largest industrial economies Britain France Germany Japan and the United States The authors report on national demographic trends examine the current living conditions of the aged population explain the structure of the retirement system and offer estimates of future budgetary costs of the public programs They also discuss national debates over the potential reform of public retirement systems While all five countries share the prospect of an older population variations in the size and timing of demographic change as well as important differences in the structure of public programs for the elderly suggest that population aging will have widely different implications in each country In Germany and Japan for example the population will not only grow older but may actually decline because of low birth rates The United States will experience less aging but its debate over reform treats seriously the possibility of privatizing public retirement commitments The Aging Population and the Competitiveness of Cities Peter Karl Kresl,Daniele Ietri,2010-01-01 While much of the current literature on the economic consequences of an aging population focuses on the negative aspects this enlightening book argues that seniors can bring significant benefits such as vitality and competitiveness to an urban economy The authors illustrate the ways an aging population can have a positive impact on urban centers including the move by large numbers of seniors from the suburbs to the city where their disproportionate consumption of education and the arts helps rejuvenate city centers Given this the authors conclude that a large and active senior population has the potential to assist a city in the achievement of its strategic economic objectives The book includes analyses of the effects of population aging on best practices in 40 cities in the US and EU with surprising results as well as interviews with city officials and leaders Academics researchers and public officials in the areas of urban development public policy and aging will find much in this original approach to interest and provoke debate The Political Future of Social Security in Aging Societies Vincenzo Galasso,2006 A quantitative analysis of the political sustainability of social security reform in France Germany Italy Spain the UK and the US with the suggestion that population aging will lead to more pension spending and that raising the retirement age is the most politically viable reform measure

Prohaska, Lynda A. Anderson, Robert H. Binstock, 2012-03-15 Students and practitioners will find Public Health for an Aging Society an invaluable resource both in the workplace and the classroom China's Road and Aging Population Yining Li, Qiuyun Zhao, Zhiqiang Cheng, 2023-04-03 In the context of global population aging the aging population of China is not only a China specific problem but also a global concern Based on in depth analysis this book focuses on the increasingly serious issue of aging population of China at the present time and explores the possible path and solution from the new type of demographic dividend that is innovation With 1 5 of the global aging population in the world China has the largest aging population and is aging faster and deeper which produces and profound and far reaching impact on the economic growth social security health care and other related areas Home Equity and Ageing Owners Lorna Fox O'Mahony, 2012-01-06 The growing use of housing equity to support a range of activities and needs raises complex issues particularly for older owners In an environment in which older owners are pushed towards housing equity transactions to meet income and welfare costs they are required to make choices from a complex and sometimes bewildering range of options The transactions which facilitate the use of home equity as a resource to spend in later life from trading down and ordinary secured and unsecured debt to targeted products including reverse lifetime mortgages home reversion plans and sale and rentback agreements raise important legal and regulatory issues This book provides a contextual analysis of the financial transactions that older people enter into using their housing equity It traces the protections afforded to older owners through the ordinary law of property and contract as well as the development of specific regulatory protections focused on targeted products The book employs the notion of risk to highlight the nature and causes of the situational vulnerabilities to which older people are now subject as consumers of housing equity showing that the older owner s personal situation is crucial in determining whether and why they may seek to release equity the options and products available to them and the impact of harms resulting from adverse transactions The book critically evaluates the extent to which this context is incorporated in the legal frameworks through which these transactions are governed as a measure of the appropriateness of existing legal provision as well as considering the arguments surrounding special protection for older owners in housing equity transactions Our Aging Society Alan J. Pifer, Lydia Bronte, 1986 In sounding alarm about the population challenges we face in the next five decades the essays here written by a wide variety of experts offer constructive proposals for meeting these challenges on both personal and public policy levels
