The Competitive Challenge of Emerging Markets Peter Enderwick, 2020-04-21 The most disruptive change to the world economy over the past half century has been the rise of so called emerging economies particularly the large developing markets of China and India While initially appealing to Western business as lower cost production locations these economies are now amongst the world s leading markets for the sale of goods and services as well as a growing competitive challenge to established businesses This book examines the competitive challenge presented by China and India as they increasingly influence international business activities It considers their rise distinctive characteristics and role in the contemporary world economy The attractions and challenges of doing business in emerging economies are fully discussed and the future position of the large emerging economies critically evaluated here A key feature of the book is a discussion of the competitive threat presented by the rapid growth of emerging market multinationals as they aspire to catch up with and even surpass developed market multinationals Theory and practice are combined in this text with insightful illustrations and examples from a range of industries and firms as well as current debates including the utility of the BRIC concept the growing power of Asia the future of globalisation and trade wars As such the book offers an insightful perspective for students of international business international economics development studies and globalisation Asia's Computer Challenge Jason

Dedrick,Kenneth L. Kraemer,1998-08-20 How did the computer industry evolve into its present global structure Why have some Asian countries succeeded more than others Jason Dedrick and Kenneth L Kraemer delve into these questions and emerge with an explanation of the rapid rise of the computer industry in the Asia Pacific region Asia s Computer Challenge makes a systematic comparison of the historical development of the computer industries of Japan Hong Kong Korea Singapore and Taiwan and concludes that neither a plan versus market nor a country versus company dichotomy fully explains the diversity found among these countries The authors identify a new force the emergence of a global production network Reaching beyond specific companies and countries this book explores the strategic implications for the Asian Pacific countries and the United states Now East Asia is faced with a challenge they must make the move from low margin hardware business to high margin software and information businesses while Americans must respond by maintaining leadership in standards design marketing and business innovation South Asia In The New Decade: Challenges And Prospects

Amitendu Palit,Gloria Spittel,2012-10-04 At the beginning of the second decade of the new millennium South Asia has emerged as a key regional variable in the contemporary global order The last decade saw the region experiencing a robust phase of economic growth and development Over time South Asia s economic progress is expected to accelerate given its favourable demography and strategic location The prospects of faster economic growth and development however will materialize depending upon the region s success in handling various challenges including security climate change political instability and ethnic strife It is in this context that the Sixth International Conference on South Asia brought together academics and policy specialists to provide insights and contribute to an understanding of the challenges and prospects facing the region in the new decade This volume is a collection of the papers presented at the Conference and assembles a large and diverse set of viewpoints and perceptions on the region Human Capital Formation and Economic Growth in Asia and the Pacific Wendy Dobson, 2013-07-18 The entire planet looks to Asian and other emerging markets to sustain growth momentum as traditional markets in the USA and Europe struggle with the slow and arduous processes of deleveraging after the global financial crisis At the same time there is growing recognition in Asia that the sources of growth must shift to sustain their own growth momentum in the years ahead Heavy reliance on the region's high savings rates and plentiful supplies of low cost labour will have to shift towards increasing the human capital embodied in more educated and skilled labour forces capable of contributing to productivity growth and innovation as future drivers of growth Human Capital Formation and Economic Growth in Asia and the Pacific focuses on why and how countries are making this shift The demographic transition is shown to be a significant factor as ageing populations in Japan South Korea and China manage declining growth in the labour force by stepping up investments in education and by changing policies and institutions Lessons to be learned from these experiences by more youthful populations in Southeast Asia are explored In addition attention is paid to the consequences of cross border differentials in technical knowledge and the quantity and quality of human capital Several implications for public policy and for international cooperation on human capital issues in the Asian region are identified The chapters in this volume are edited versions of papers presented at the 35th Pacific Trade and Development conference held in Vancouver Canada in June 2012 The conference goal was to better understand how governments and business in Asia and the Pacific can apply the key insight that one of the reasons economies grow is because of human capital formation the quality and diversity of the labour force are augmented not just because the labour force grows in size Students of Asia's growth prospects will find several aspects of this volume of particular value It includes chapters on the big picture conceptual and measurement issues on country experiences in meeting the imperatives of the demographic transition and investing in education and skills training and on country experiences with attracting foreign knowledge and the supply and recruitment of skills across borders in Asia and the Pacific Policymakers will also find useful the discussions of policy implications and the menu of issues requiring intergovernmental cooperation within the Asian region

The Challenge Of Making Cities Liveable In East Asia John Wong, Liang Fook Lye, 2016-06-03 The rate of urbanisation will accelerate in the years ahead The massive influx of people to cities will result in the demand for more services expending more resources and generating more waste The forces of globalisation and better connectivity will hasten this urbanisation process Although the developed and developing countries in East Asia are at different stages of development they have to grapple with the common challenge of improving the quality of life for urban residents and making cities liveable This book brings together a collection of articles that traces the process of urbanisation in selected countries in East Asia including the achievements and challenges encountered. It seeks to promote the sharing of best practices and experiences that can be a reference for governments and relevant stakeholders to facilitate the process of urbanisation that brings about the greatest benefits to residents and lessens the negative impact on the environment.

Transition and Challenge Zhongwei Zhao, Fei Guo, 2007-02-22 With the largest population in the world, China has experienced significant demographic, social and economic changes in recent decades. Extraordinary demographic changes took place in China in the second half of the twentieth century, having wide-ranging consequences. This book, written by a group of leading experts, examines these profound changes in an effort to understand their long-term impact and provide an up-to-date account of China's demographic reality. The volume provides a comprehensive and authoritative analysis of a wide range of issues such as China's unprecedented family planning program, the impact of falling birth rates coupled with increasing life expectancy, changes in marriage patterns and increasing rural-urban migration. Anyone who is interested in China and its recent demographic changes will benefit from the rich materials and thorough analysis provided in this book.

America's Challenge Michael D. Swaine, 2012-05-01 The emergence of the People's Republic of China on the world scene constitutes the most significant event in world politics since the end of World War II. As the world's predominant political, economic and military power, the United States faces a particularly significant challenge in responding to China's rising power and influence, especially in Asia. Offering a fresh perspective on current and future U.S. policy toward China, Michael Swaine examines the basic interests and beliefs behind U.S.-China relations, recent U.S. and Chinese policy practices in seven key areas, and future trends most likely to affect U.S. policy. American leaders, he concludes, must reexamine certain basic assumptions and approaches regarding America's position in the Western Pacific, integrate China policy more effectively into a broader Asian strategy, and recalibrate the U.S. balance between cooperative engagement and deterrence toward Beijing.

Regionalism in the New Asia-Pacific Order Joseph A. Camilleri, 2003-01-01 Regionalism in the Asia-Pacific is a complex and rapidly evolving phenomenon. This volume explores the relationship between globalization and regionalization between states, markets and civil society, and between U.S. hegemony and Asian aspirations.

Globalization and the New Asia Pasquale De Marco, 2025-05-08 The world is changing rapidly and Asia is at the center of this change. The region is home to some of the world's fastest-growing economies, and its population is expected to grow by more than 1 billion people by 2050. This growth is having a profound impact on the world, and it is creating new opportunities and challenges for businesses, governments and individuals. In Globalization and the New Asia, Pasquale De Marco explores the impact of globalization on Asia and the world. Pasquale De Marco argues that globalization is a powerful force that is transforming the region and that it is creating new opportunities for economic growth, poverty reduction and social progress. However, Pasquale De Marco also argues that globalization is a double-edged sword and that it can also lead to inequality, environmental degradation and social unrest. Globalization and the New Asia is a timely and important book that provides a comprehensive overview of the impact of globalization on Asia Pasquale De Marco provides a balanced and nuanced analysis of the challenges and opportunities that globalization presents and he offers a number of recommendations for how to manage globalization so that it benefits all This book is essential reading for anyone who wants to understand the future of Asia and the world It is a valuable resource for businesses governments and individuals who are looking to navigate the challenges and opportunities of globalization Pasquale De Marco is a leading expert on globalization and Asia He has written extensively on the subject and he has advised governments and businesses on how to manage globalization Pasquale De Marco is a Professor of Economics at the University of California Berkeley and he is the Director of the Berkeley Center for Globalization and Development Globalization and the New Asia is a must read for anyone who wants to understand the future of Asia and the world It is a valuable resource for businesses governments and individuals who are looking to navigate the challenges and opportunities of globalization If you like this book write a review on google books Economic Outlook for Southeast Asia, China and India 2020 Rethinking Education for the Digital Era OECD,2019-12-11 The Economic Outlook for Southeast Asia China and India is a bi annual publication on regional economic growth development and regional integration in Emerging Asia It focuses on the economic conditions of Association of Southeast Asian Nations ASEAN member countries Brunei Darussalam Cambodia Indonesia Lao PDR Malaysia Myanmar the Philippines Singapore Thailand and Viet Nam It also addresses relevant economic issues in China and India to fully reflect economic developments in the region Challenges of Economic Growth, Inequality and Conflict in South Asia Tai Yong Tan,2010 South Asia s growing political and economic influence as well as the dynamism of this rapidly changing region demands careful examination Drawing on many areas of expertise and a wide range of perspectives this book analyses how recent developments in the economic political and social landscapes of South Asia have affected the region itself as well as its relations with the rest of Asia and the world at large The book gathers together the papers presented at the 4th International Conference on South Asia held in Singapore in November 2008 It represents the expert knowledge and opinions of prominent academics and world leaders Whether be it dealing with issues of trade and investment soft power and cultural influence or the reduction of poverty the chapters in this book are both in depth and rich in broader implications for the South Asian region and beyond
