The Bright Boys Eileen Lebow, 2000-09-30 Named for the man who brought free higher education to city youths unable to afford the two local private colleges Townsend Harris High School reminded generations of New Yorkers of the city's debt to him Its mission was to prepare young men for success at City College where education was free to graduates of the city's public high schools The school's three year course was tough and rigorous Students learned to survive and perform or they left By the 1930s Townsend Harris was synonymous for bright boys students who scored high on the yearly Regents examinations but whose athletic ability hard as they tried was something of a joke The author traces the development of the preparatory school from the first years of its beginning in 1849 to its 1942 closing by Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia amid much controversy

Women in American Education, 1820-1955 June Edwards, 2001-11-30 The lives and contributions of eight female educators who influenced modern American schools are described as well as the historical context in which the women lived and worked These women challenged the male establishment broke barriers and utilized techniques heralded today as radical reforms such as teacher facilitation student initiative active learning meaning construction and practical applications of knowledge They stressed open ended research creativity and the integration of subject matter and they promoted critical thinking peer cooperation and shared teacher student decision making The women s methods were radical in their own day and in many ways still are The female reformers described in this book opened the doors of education to the larger public often working with people excluded from traditional institutions including females the very young the mentally disabled immigrants of all ages homemakers and African American youth Without government subsidy most of these educators had to work with meager resources and constantly raise money for their schools and other projects by giving speeches writing books and articles soliciting wealthy donors and even organizing bazaars and bake sales With enormous confidence in the worth of their endeavors they persevered despite many hardships and gave their entire lives to creating new educational and career opportunities

The X Factor Clair T. Berube, 2010-06-01 American science education is in trouble As the United States continues to lag behind other nations in science achievement the question is asked how can we better get our students excited and inspired by science This is the science teacher s duty The irony of the education profession is that some of the most important aspects of it are the hardest to measure and replicate The things that matter most can be the hardest to quantify Some teachers can know the different learning styles intelligences and brain preferences of their students They can know best practices of how to deliver instruction They can do all these things and more but still not convey imagination and passion for science to their students But some science teachers do inspire These special teachers seem to possess something the others don t but what is it Exceptional science teachers make us feel better about ourselves through their teaching of science and bring us to a higher quality of life as a result while some science teachers can be the leading researchers in their fields yet leave us flat What is the recipe for this unique special teacher And why is it so hard to explain and describe The objective of this book is to uncover these aspects of teaching that are so hard to measure and quantify This is achieved through interviewing people who are either current or retired teachers or who were positively affected by a teacher and also through case studies of exceptional teachers in order to quantify and explain the exact traits and personality quirks of these exceptional people The contribution to the field of education this book hopes to achieve is the examination of the question why do some teachers have that X factor what exactly is it and how can we all have it

When I Was a Child Susan B. Ridgely, 2006-05-18

First Communion is generally understood as a rite of passage in which seven and eight year old Catholic children transform from baptized participants in the Church to members of the body of Christ the universal Catholic Church This official Church account however ignores what the rite actually may mean to its participants In When I Was a Child Susan Ridgely Bales demonstrates that the accepted understanding of a religious ritual can shift dramatically when one considers the often neglected perspective of child participants Bales followed Faith Formation classes and interviewed communicants parents and priests in an African American parish and in a parish containing both white and Latino congregations By letting the children speak for themselves through their words drawings and actions When I Was a Child stresses the importance of rehearsal the centrality of sensory experiences and the impact of expectations in the communicants interpretations of the Eucharist In the first sustained ethnographic study of how children interpret and help shape their own faith Bales finds that children s perspectives give new contours to the traditional understanding of a common religious ritual Ultimately she argues that scholars of religion should consider age as distinct a factor as race class and gender in their analyses Early Childhood Education Suzanne Krogh, Kristine Slentz, 2010-10-04 Extending your Learning activities provide opportunities for further discussion and debate Esperanza School Eloisa Rodriguez, 2012-05-01 In Esperanza School A Grassroots Community School in Honduras Eloisa Rodriguez takes us into the daily lived experiences of members of a community school Esperanza School situated in a rural area in Honduras Her work engages readers in a critical analysis of what Esperanza School represents for the community Rodriguez explores the characteristics that have made Esperanza School a community school in vivid life like detail she describes how Esperanza School functions as the heart of the community by providing opportunities for impoverished youth to attend the school facilitating relationships with a nearby orphanage and developing professional development workshops for rural teachers Rodriguez narrates the story of Esperanza School s establishment interactions within the community and the characteristics of the school personnel that illuminate the social justice mission of the school and create new possibilities for the community Throughout Rodriguez discusses how Esperanza School represents hope for quality education in this community and ultimately in her country Honduras Unlike many studies on community schools this book deals with the reality of the community and the school s impact on the community The book compliments and extends the existing literature on community schools by focusing on the students teachers and founders experience of studying and working in Esperanza School Rodriguez has been involved with Esperanza School for ten years her personal passionate commitments to this school and to her country are illuminated in stories of her participation in the school Through a multicultural and cross cultural narrative inquiry methodological framework a deeper understanding of the ideological cultural and educational experiences of creating a community school working in one and the impact of having a community school are presented A philosophical framework developed from the work of Paulo Freire and John Dewey provides an analytical lens to examine schooling in Honduras The picture that emerges from this book provides a guide for ways to make a difference in the Honduran educational system and other developing countries Pre service and in service teachers educational researchers administrators educational policy makers and those who advocate for educational settings and schools for impoverished communities can learn from this book It is a representation of a necessity for developing countries to improve the education in schools from ineffective public schools to community schools for all Poverty and Schooling Sue Books, Valerie Polakow, 2001-10-01 This is a special issue of Educational Studies Volume 32 No 3 from 2001 It s main focus is poverty and schooling with two guest editors that have been deeply involved in research and teaching on the problem of children in poverty for many years and bring their considerable expertise to this excellent collection of scholarship and reviews Loving God, Loving Neighbor Peggy Kendall; Claire Smith; Tim Ke, 2008-04-01 In almost every congregation there is a searching youth who is somehow different from the rest one who thinks more deeply asks more questions and wants to make a difference in the world This young person may be seen as a loner an upstart or someone who does not fit Youth workers may not know what to do with these inquisitive youth and a youth program that meets the congregation's expectations probably won't connect with the needs and interests of searching youth Eventually searching youth turn into searching adults who continue to stir things up and enrich the life of our congregations with their questions insights witness and service These young people have the capacity and ability to provide significant leadership in our congregations now and in the future Because of their unique gifts we are offering this book as a resource for pastors teachers and youth leaders who work with them In this book faculty members students and recent graduates of Saint Paul School of Theology look through the eyes of their academic disciplines and ministry experience to explore the foundations for ministry with searching youth and to offer designs for your ministry Reforming College Composition Ray Wallace, Alan Jackson, Susan Lewis Wallace, 2000-07-30 As colleges and universities have responded to the demand of businesses and industries for graduates who can write effectively Composition Studies has gained significance However while new theories and approaches to the teaching of writing have been proposed and implemented many composition courses do not satisfactorily educate their students This volume includes essays by writing specialists who are concerned with their own failure to improve their students writing skills These contributors examine why entering college students still write poorly and why our various attempts to improve such poor writing skills have largely failed They compare the promise of previously touted new methods paradigm shifts and curricular innovations with the reality of little change or improvement they describe what their students can and cannot do in the writing classroom even after 12 years of primary and secondary education and they address what they see as needed reforms in the whole idea of college composition especially for the first year college student
