Gender, Space and Time Dorothy Moss, 2006-01-01 Drawing on the work of Henri Lefebvre and Barbara Adam Gender Space and Time is a brilliant study that offers a unique and original threefold conceptualization of how space and time is developed and applied in an empirical study of women s lives Author Dorothy Moss focuses on the everyday practice and experience of women higher education students at a community college in northern England Women s action is considered in relation to the complex and interconnected spheres of paid work home leisure community and higher education Through highlighting concepts of space and time the complex relationship between networks of power and personal action gains visibility Moss conceptualizes women as centers of action and demonstrates the ways in which they construct personal pathways connect different spheres of experience integrate new time demands into the multiple rhythms of their everyday lives and carve out personal space Gender Space and Time is a timely and compelling work certain to be of interest to scholars of sociology women s studies and anthropology

Emotions and Religious Dynamics Nathaniel A. Warne, 2016-05-13 We all feel emotions and are moved to action by them Religious communities often select and foster certain emotions over others Without understanding this it is hard to grasp the way groups view the world and each other Often it is the underlying emotional pattern of a group rather than its doctrines that either divides it from or attracts it to others These issues so important in today s world are explored in this book in a genuinely interdisciplinary way by anthropologists psychologists theologians and historians of religion and in some detailed studies of well and less well known religious traditions from across the world

An Invitation to the Sociology of Emotions Scott Harris, 2015-06-26 Unique in its approach Invitation to the Sociology of Emotions treats neophytes as its primary audience giving students a brief but thorough introduction to the sociology of emotions Including research examples exercises and lists of further reading this text explains as clearly as possible some of the most interesting theoretical concepts that animate sociological research on emotions

Emotion and Discourse in L2 Narrative Research Matthew T. Prior, 2015-10-22 This book examines the interactional management of emotionality in second language autobiographical interview research Advancing a discursive constructionist approach it offers a timely methodological and reflexive perspective that brings into focus the dynamic and dilemmatic aspects of interviewee and interviewer identities and experiences and it makes visible the often unexpected and unseen consequences for the research project and beyond The author weaves together critical discussion and empirical analysis based on longitudinal narrative based research with adult immigrants from Southeast Asia living in the US and Canada This interdisciplinary book will be compelling reading for students researchers and others interested in emotion narrative discourse identity interaction interviews and qualitative research

Mixed Emotions Kay Milton, Marushka Svasek, 2020-08-28 Emotions are of increasing interest in all the human sciences In the past two decades a growing number of anthropologists have explored emotional dynamics in a variety of geographic and cultural settings and have developed various at times conflicting theories of emotion This book fills a major gap by providing a concise introduction to the anthropology of emotions that outlines some of the major themes and controversies Drawing on fieldwork undertaken in Europe Japan and Melanesia the authors explore how consciousness memory identity and politics are intimately related to emotional processes A broad range of case studies covers such topics as how fear is managed in Belfast how Spanish gypsies grieve and why Japanese tourists are drawn to monkey parks This book will be of interest to anyone seeking to understand the formative impact emotions have on culture and society in an increasingly globalized world

Gendered Journeys, Mobile Emotions Gillian Reynolds, 2016-04-22 It is increasingly acknowledged that an analysis of emotions is necessary to fully understand the social world and recent research on transport travel and mobilities has begun to consider the gendered nature of public and personal life in relation to this sphere The focus of this multidisciplinary and auto biographical volume is the emotional relationship that individuals and groups have with different means of travel Attention is given to a variety of travel experiences including travelling in trains planes cars buses and ships as well as biking cycling running and walking from the perspective of travellers and those who earn their living in assisting these experiences of others Imaginary travel and the relationships between art and travel are also considered Adopting innovative approaches to experiential material ranging from personal memories to empirical research Gendered Journeys Mobile Emotions opens up and illuminates an interdisciplinary debate about the gendered emotive and aims to change the way we think about religion by putting emotion back onto the agenda. It challenges a tendency to over-emphasise rational aspects of religion and rehabilitates its embodied visceral and affective dimensions. Against the view that religious emotion is a purely private matter, it offers a new framework which shows how religious emotions arise in the varied interactions between human agents and religious communities, human agents and objects of devotion and communities and sacred symbols. It presents parallels and contrasts between religious emotions in European and American history, in other cultures and in contemporary western societies. By taking emotions seriously, A Sociology of Religious Emotion sheds new light on the power of religion to shape fundamental human orientations and motivations, hopes and fears, joys and sorrows, loves and hatreds.

Death, Emotion and Childhood in Premodern Europe Katie Barclay, Kimberley Reynolds, Ciara Rawnsley, 2017-02-06. This book draws on original material and approaches from the developing fields of the history of emotions and childhood studies and brings together scholars from history, literature and cultural studies to reappraise how the early modern world reacted to the deaths of children. Child death was the great equaliser of the early modern period, affecting people of all ages and conditions. It is well recognised that the deaths of children struck at the heart of early modern families, yet less known is the variety of ways that not only parents but siblings, communities and even nations responded to childhood death. The contributors to this volume ask what emotional responses to child death tell us about childhood and the place of children in society. Placing children and their voices at the heart of this investigation, they track how emotional norms, values and practices shifted across the fifteenth to nineteenth centuries through different religious, legal and national traditions. This collection demonstrates that child death was not just a family matter but integral to how communities and societies defined themselves. Emotions Monica Greco, Paul Stenner, 2013-10-31. Are emotions becoming more conspicuous in contemporary life? Are the social sciences undergoing an affective turn? This Reader gathers influential and contemporary work in the study of emotion and affective life from across the range of the social sciences. Drawing on both theoretical and empirical research, the collection offers a sense of the diversity of perspectives that have emerged over the last thirty years from a variety of intellectual traditions. Its wide span and transdisciplinary character is designed to capture the increasing significance of the study of affect and emotion for the social sciences and to give a sense of how this is played out in the context of specific areas of interest. The volume is divided into four main parts: universals and particulars of affect; embodying affect; political economies of affect; affect, power and justice. Each main part comprises three sections dedicated to substantive themes including emotions, history and civilization.
