Employment Opportunities and Equity in a Changing Economy Bent Hansen, 1982 Structural Adjustment and Its Socio-economic Effects in Rural Areas International Labour Organisation. Advisory Committee on Rural Development, 1990 Challenges of Economic Development in the Middle East and North Africa Region Julia Devlin, Julia C. Devlin, 2010 This book surveys major economic issues in the development of countries in the Middle East and North Africa MENA region since World War II It presents a framework of analysis highlighting underlying continuities in the region s approach to issues of growth management of oil and natural resources post conflict environments progress in trade liberalization and regional integration the use of industrial policy labor market adjustment and unemployment educational attainment and poverty incidence At the same time this book focuses on emerging differences across countries in the region in the prevailing approach to addressing such challenges most notably between the economies of the Gulf Cooperation Council and other MENA countries This book also incorporates a discussion of tools and methods used by development practitioners and briefly examines issues of aid effectiveness The approach used is intended to appeal to a wide audience including students of economic development political scientists and development practitioners Development, Change, and Gender in Cairo Diane Singerman, Homa Hoodfar, 1996-06-22 the quality of each of these essays is excellent and the book warrants extensive reading by political scientists sociologists and all scholars of the contemporary Middle East American Journal of Sociology This book s ethnographic material offers much to surprise and challenge assumptions about gender Islam and social change in Egypt MESA Bulletin Taken together these articles leave the reader with an excellent understanding of the realities of contemporary Egypt and a sense of the vitality and energy that permeates Cairo Digest of Middle East Studies The essays presented here based on extensive ethnographic research focus on the Egyptian household as the key institution for understanding the dynamics of political economic and social change Economic liberalization has had particular often ambivalent consequences for low income groups especially women and for gender relations Inside Inequality in the Arab Republic of Egypt Paolo Verme, Branko Milanovic, Sherine Al-Shawarby, Sahar El Tawila, May Gadallah, Enas Ali A.El-Majeed, 2014-04-16 This book joins four papers prepared in the framework of the Egypt inequality study financed by the World Bank The first paper prepared by Sherine Al Shawarby reviews the studies on inequality in Egypt since the 1950s with the double objective of illustrating the importance attributed to inequality through time and of presenting and compare the main published statistics on inequality To our knowledge this is the first time that such a comprehensive review is carried The second paper prepared by Branko Milanovic turns to the global and spatial dimensions of inequality The objective here is to put Egypt inequality in the global context and better understand the origin and size of spatial inequalities within Egypt using different forms of measurement across regions and urban and rural areas The Egyptian society remains deeply divided across space and in terms of welfare and this study unveils some of the hidden features of this inequality The third paper prepared by Paolo Verme studies facts and perceptions of inequality during the period 2000-2009 the period that preceded the Egyptian revolution The objective of this part is to provide some initial elements that could explain the apparent mismatch between inequality measured with household surveys and inequality aversion measured by values surveys No such study has been carried out before in the Middle East and North Africa MENA region and this seemed a particularly important and timely topic to address in the light of the unfolding developments in the Arab region The fourth paper prepared by Sahar El Tawila May Gadallah and Enas Ali A El Majeed assesses the state of poverty and inequality among the poorest villages of Egypt The paper attempts to explain the level of inequality in an effort to disentangle those factors that derive from household abilities from those factors that derive from local opportunities This is the first time that such study is conducted in Egypt The book should be of interest to any observer of the political and economic evolution of the Arab region in the past few years and to poverty and inequality specialists that wish to have a deeper understanding of the distribution of incomes in Egypt and other countries in the MENA region Poverty in Developing Countries World Employment Programme, 1992 Topics include agricultural development basic needs development strategy and planning economic development and policy employment food production housing needs income distribution and industrialization Indexes are divided by references authors corporate authors subject and geographical aspects Inside the Third World Village Petra Weyland, 2002-11 First Published in 2004 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Statistics on Poverty and Income Distribution Hamid Tabatabai, International Labour Office, 1996 Datos estadísticos sobre pobreza y distribución de rentas en países desarrollados en desarrollo o en transición a nivel nacional y regional Agrarian Change in Egypt Samir Radwan, Eddy Lee, 2022-08-30 First published in 1986 Agrarian Change in Egypt based on extensive original research as well as field survey of eighteen villages analyses and explains the changes in the agricultural sector in Egypt It shows how various policies and other factors have affected agricultural output and how developments triggered by the open door policy such as inflation migration and the shift in the pricing system have affected agriculture The Egyptian experience is fairly typical of agrarian change in many parts of the developing world where government reforms in the 1960s and 1970s tried to combine considerations of efficiency and equity but ended up with stagnation The Egyptian case therefore provides a good example of the general crisis in agriculture in the developing world This book is an essential read for scholars and researchers of agricultural economy development studies and political economy Mobilizing Islam Carrie Rosefsky Wickham, 2002-12-06 The book explains how Islamist groups captured the hearts and minds of educated youth in Egypt It focuses on the first twelve years of Hosni Mubarak's presidency from 1981 to 1993 the period when participation in the movement reached its peak and before a wave of repression brought it to an abrupt end Employment opportunities and equity in a changing economy: Egypt in the 1980s: a labour market approach: report ,1982 The Effects of Food Price and Subsidy Policies on Egyptian Agriculture Joachim Von Braun,Hartwig de Haen,1983 Extract The aim of this study is to determine how rapid growth in consumer subsidies has affected agriculture Therefore government spending on agriculture is examined and the government s price policies on inputs and output and its interventions in allocation and marketing are evaluated The Economics of the Apocalypse: Climate Change Tom Finn, The year is 2023 The world is grappling with a multitude of crises but one stands out as the defining challenge of our time climate change As global temperatures continue to rise the earth s ecosystems are under immense stress and the economic consequences are becoming increasingly apparent From devastating hurricanes and wildfires to prolonged droughts and rising sea levels the effects of climate change are no longer theoretical They are tangible impacting our infrastructure our livelihoods and our financial security This is not just a problem for future generations it is a reality we are facing right now The economic implications of climate change are vast and multifaceted The insurance industry is grappling with rising premiums and escalating claims The agricultural sector is struggling with reduced crop yields and food security challenges The energy sector is undergoing a monumental shift moving away from fossil fuels towards renewable sources The financial system is navigating unprecedented risks associated with climate related events This book delves into the complex interplay between climate change and the global economy It examines how the rising temperatures extreme weather events and environmental degradation impact various sectors from insurance and agriculture to energy and finance We will explore the economic consequences of climate change such as rising insurance premiums food scarcity and disruptions to supply chains We will also analyze the potential for a sustainable economic model that prioritizes environmental preservation while generating profits The goal of this book is to provide a comprehensive understanding of the economic challenges posed by climate change and to offer insights into potential solutions It aims to inform readers about the financial risks and opportunities associated with climate change and encourages them to consider how their economic decisions can contribute to a more sustainable future Join us on this journey as we explore the economic realities of a warming world and discover the path towards a more resilient and prosperous future Bibliography of Published Research of the World Employment Programme International Labour Office,1991 Economic Change and Employment Policy Robert M.
