Mentoring in Education Cedric Cullingford,2016-04-22 Mentoring has become a hot topic in a number of professional spheres in recent years but its most important and longest established location is in education However this volume is the

Van House,Barbara P. Battenfield,2003-10-10 Viewing digital libraries as sociotechnical systems networks of people and technology interacting with society The contributors to this volume view digital libraries DLs from a social as well as technological perspective They see DLs as sociotechnical systems networks of technology information artifacts and people and practices interacting with the larger world of work and society As Bruce Schatz observes in his foreword for a digital library to be useful the users the documents and the information system must be in harmony The contributors begin by asking how we evaluate DLs how we can understand them in order to build better DLs but they move beyond these basic concerns to explore how DLs make a difference in people s lives and their social worlds and what studying DLs might tell us about information knowledge and social and cognitive processes The chapters using both empirical and analytical methods examine the social impact of DLs and also the web of social and material relations in which DLs are embedded these far ranging social worlds include such disparate groups as community activists environmental researchers middle school children and computer system designers Topics Documents and society the real boundaries of a library without walls the ecologies of digital libraries usability and evaluation information and institutional change transparency as a product of the convergence of social practices and

Casey, 2008 In formal education a curriculum plural curricula is the set of courses and their content offered at a school or university As an idea curriculum stems from the Latin word for race course referring to the course of deeds and experiences through which children grow and mature in becoming adults Crucial to the curriculum is the definition of the course objectives that usually are expressed as learning outcomes and normally include the program s assessment strategy These outcomes and assessments are grouped as units or modules and therefore the curriculum comprises a collection of such units each in turn comprising a specialised specific part of the curriculum So a typical curriculum includes communications numeracy information technology and social skills units with specific specialised teaching of each This book presents research on educational curricula from around the world Opening Education Terry Evans, Daryl Nation, 2013-04-15 We live in a society with ever changing needs and expectations Education practitioners and policy makers need therefore to face the challenges of new economic social and technological conditions in their work There is a global concern to develop forms of education and training which are open to the demands of needs of learners and which are accessible at times and places suitable to those learners Governments institutions and practitioners are developing and implementing policies which reflect these trends The overall theme of this book is the relationship between government and organizational policies and the work of practitioners in open and distance learning The book does this by exploring a selection of international examples The authors many of them recognized experts write from a wide range of international and organizational perspectives Each one draws on significant experience within his or her field Terry Evans is Head of the Graduate School of Education at Deakin University He was the foundation director of the Master of Distance Education course there and has extensive experience teaching undergraduate and postgraduate students Daryl Nation is Deputy Head of the School of Humanities and Social Sciences at Monash University He is Associate Professor in the School and divides his time between policy development research and teaching
