Women's Colleges and Universities in a Global Context Kristen A. Renn, 2014-10-13 A pathbreaking study of the critical role women's institutions play in global higher education Educating girls and women is a powerful route to improving societies worldwide When women receive more education literacy rates in children rise maternal and infant death rates drop and women enjoy an increased earning capacity Yet in parts of the developing world women's education is considered a low priority at best and a dangerous countercultural activity at worst. In Europe and North America the number of women's colleges is shrinking yet women-only institutions are growing in size and number in many other regions of the world where they provide access to female students who are prevented for legal, cultural, religious, or practical reasons from attending coeducational universities.

Women's Colleges and Universities in a Global Context is the first book to provide a comprehensive comparative analysis of the increasing significance of single-sex higher education institutions for women around the world. Based on Kristen A. Renn's on-site study of thirteen women's colleges and universities in ten different countries (Australia, Canada, China, India, Italy, Japan, Kenya, South Korea, the United Arab Emirates, and the United Kingdom), this timely and provocative volume combines interviews of campus leaders, faculty, and students with extensive online and archival research. Renn provides an overview of each country's political, economic, and educational situation, then explores the theoretical and practical themes she uncovers in their educational institutions for women. In the end, this volume addresses not only the role of women's colleges in their own countries but also what these institutions can teach us that would benefit higher education worldwide.

Communicative Understandings of Women's Leadership

Development Elesha L. Ruminski, Annette Holba, 2012-01-01 Communicative Understandings of Women's Leadership Development: From Ceilings of Glass to Labyrinth Paths edited by Elesha L. Ruminski and Annette M. Holba intertwines the disciplines of communication studies, leadership studies, and women's studies to offer theoretical and practical reflection about women's leadership development in academic, organizational, and political contexts. Women's leadership development exists at the intersection of consciousness-raising, communication competence, and education to increase one's knowledge and practice of leadership, which makes the weaving together of these three disciplines important. Thus, Communicative Understandings of Women's Leadership Development claims a space for women's leadership studies and acknowledges the paradigmatic shift from discussing women's leadership using the glass ceiling phenomenon to what Eagly and Carli (2007) identify as the labyrinth of leadership. Recognizing this metaphoric shift is crucial because many women now develop leadership amid the postmodern flux of organizational change; hierarchical, top-down systems are being eroded in lieu of transformational, collaborative, even improvisational leadership processes. Women's leadership studies is emerging as a fruitful interdisciplinary area that reframes the debate about whether we live, work, and learn within a third-wave feminist or post-feminist context. While this area might include feminist theorizing, it also might not emphasize such epistemologies. For this reason, Ruminski and Holba's edited collection explores and highlights a variety of feminist and non-feminist intersections and is thus an important and timely contribution to both marking where we are with women's leadership development in higher education and how women can further develop themselves as leaders.
