Preparing Africa for the Twenty-First Century John Mukum Mbaku, 2018-12-20 First published in 1999 this volume is written by seasoned African scholars and is intended to make a significant contribution to the debate on peaceful coexistence and sustainable development in the continent The book contains a very refreshing rigorous informative and multidisciplinary analysis of the transition in Africa and provides practical and effective policy options for Africans It breaks new ground in that it emphasizes the importance of institutions to economic growth and development in Africa As such it differs significantly from previous efforts which have tended to blame Africa s underdevelopment on incompetent ill informed and poorly educated leadership While agreeing that the shortage of competent and skilled technocrats has been a significant problem for many African countries during the last four decades the contributors argue that the most critical determinant of poverty and deprivation in the continent has been the absence of institutional arrangements that enhance the creation of wealth and allow ethnic and other social cleavages to live together peacefully Thus as Africans prepare their societies for the new century the first line of business should be state reconstruction a task that was supposed to have been undertaken shortly after independence but was never accomplished The main purpose of such an exercise is for each African country to design and adopt institutional arrangements that enhance peaceful coexistence of groups the creation of wealth and sustainable development

Prester John: Africa's Lost King Richard Denham, He sits on his jewelled throne on the Horn of Africa in the maps of the sixteenth century He can see his whole empire reflected in a mirror outside his palace He carries three crosses into battle and each cross is guarded by one hundred thousand men He was with St Thomas in the third century when he set up a Christian church in India He came like a thunderbolt out of the far East eight centuries later to rescue the crusaders clinging on to Jerusalem And he was still there when Portuguese explorers went looking for him in the fifteenth century He went by different names The priest who was also a king was Ong Khan he was Genghis Khan he was Lebna Dengel Above all he was a Christian king who ruled a vast empire full of magical wonders men with faces in their chests men with huge backward facing feet rivers and seas made of sand His lands lay next to the earthly Paradise which had once been the Garden of Eden He wrote letters to popes and princes He promised salvation and hope to generations But it was noticeable that as men looked outward exploring more of the natural world as science replaced superstition and the age of miracles faded Prester John was always elsewhere He was beyond the Mountains of the Moon at the edge of the earth near the mouth of Hell Was he real Did he ever exist This book will take you on a journey of a lifetime to worlds that might have been but never were It will take you if you are brave enough into the world of Prester John

Ethnographic Collecting and African Agency in Early Colonial West Africa Zachary Kingdon, 2019-02-21 The early collections from Africa in Liverpool's World Museum reflect the city's longstanding shipping and commercial links with Africa's Atlantic coast A principal component of these collections is an assemblage of several thousand artefacts from western Africa that were transported to institutions in northwest England between 1894 and 1916 by the Liverpool steam ship engineer Arnold Ridyard While Ridyard's collecting efforts can be seen to have been shaped by the steamers dynamic capacity to connect widely separated people and places his Methodist credentials were fundamental in determining the profile of his African networks because they meant that he was not part of official colonial authority in West Africa Kingdon's study uncovers the identities of many of Ridyard's numerous West African collaborators and discusses their interests and predicaments under the colonial dispensation Against this background account their agendas are examined with reference to surviving narratives that accompanied their donations and within the context of broader processes of trans imperial exchange through which they forged new identities and statuses for themselves and attempted to counter expressions of British cultural imperialism in the region The study concludes with a discussion of the competing meanings assigned to the Ridyard assemblage by the Liverpool Museum and examines the ways in which its re contextualization in museum contexts helped to efface signs of the energies and narratives behind its creation
