Sea Change at Annapolis H. Michael Gelfand, 2009-09-15 Since 1845 the United States Naval Academy has prepared professional military leaders at its Annapolis Maryland campus Although it remains steeped in a culture of tradition and discipline the Academy is not impervious to change Dispelling the myth that the Academy is a bastion of tradition unmarked by progress H Michael Gelfand examines challenges to the Naval Academy s culture from both inside and outside the Academy s walls between 1949 and 2000 an era of dramatic social change in American history Drawing on more than two hundred oral histories extensive archival research and his own participatory observation at the Academy Gelfand demonstrates that events at Annapolis reflect the transformation of American culture and society at large in the Cold War and post Cold War periods In eight chapters he discusses recruiting and minority midshipmen the end of mandatory attendance at religious services women s experiences as they sought and achieved admission and later served as midshipmen and the responses of multiple generations of midshipmen to societal changes particularly during the Vietnam War era This cultural history not only sheds

Women in Combat Lorry M. Fenner, Marie E. deYoung, 2001-08-09 Women have been actively involved the United States military for more than fifty years but the ban on their participation in combat remains a hotly debated issue In this provocative book Lorry M Fenner an active duty Air Force intelligence officer calls for opening all aspects of military service to women Marie deYoung a former Army chaplain argues that keeping women out of combat is in the best interests of both sexes and crucial to the effectiveness of the military as a whole Fenner bases her argument for inclusion of women on the idea that democracies require all citizens to compete in public endeavor and share in civic obligation She contends that historically reasons for banning women from combat have been culturally biased She argues that membership in a combat force should be based on capability judged against appropriate standards Moreover she maintains that excluding women hampers the diversity and adaptability that by necessity will characterize the armed forces in the twenty first century In contrast deYoung declares that the different physical fitness standards for men and women would in combat lower morale for both sexes and put women at risk of casualty Further she contends that women have neither the physical or emotional strength to endure the overall brutality of the combat experience She also asserts that calls for lifting the combat ban are politically motivated and are inconsistent with the principles of American democracy and the mission of national defense With each author responding to the views of the other their exchange offers a valuable synthesis of the issues surrounding a longstanding debate among policymakers military personnel and scholars of both military history and women's studies

Her Cold War Tanya L. Roth, 2021-09-15 While Rosie the Riveter had fewer paid employment options after being told to cede her job to returning World War II veterans her sisters and daughters found new work opportunities in national defense The 1948 Women's Armed Services Integration Act created permanent military positions for women with the promise of equal pay Her Cold War follows the experiences of women in the military from the passage of the Act to the early 1980s In the late 1940s defense officials structured women's military roles on the basis of perceived gender differences Classified as noncombatants servicewomen filled roles that they might hold in civilian life such as secretarial or medical support positions Defense officials also prohibited pregnant women and mothers from remaining in the military and encouraged many women to leave upon marriage Before civilian feminists took up similar issues in the 1970s many servicewomen called for a broader definition of equality free of gender based service restrictions Tanya L Roth shows us that the battles these servicewomen fought for equality paved the way for women in combat a prerequisite for promotion to many leadership positions and opened opportunities for other servicepeople including those with disabilities LGBT and gender nonconforming people noncitizens and more
