The First Text REtrieval Conference (TREC-1) Donna K. Harman, 1993      Annual Review of Information Science and Technology Information Today Inc, 2005-10 ARIST published annually since 1966 is a landmark publication within the information science community. It surveys the landscape of information science and technology providing an analytical, authoritative and accessible overview of recent trends and significant developments. The range of topics varies considerably reflecting the dynamism of the discipline and the diversity of theoretical and applied perspectives. While ARIST continues to cover key topics associated with classical information science e.g. bibliometrics, information retrieval, editor Blaise Cronin is selectively expanding its footprint in an effort to connect information science more tightly with cognate academic and professional communities.

Natural Language Information Retrieval T. Strzalkowski, 2013-04-17

The last decade has been one of dramatic progress in the field of Natural Language Processing (NLP). This hitherto largely academic discipline has found itself at the center of an information revolution ushered in by the Internet age as demand for human computer communication and information access has exploded. Emerging applications in computer assisted information production and dissemination, automated understanding of news, understanding of spoken language and processing of foreign languages have given impetus to research that resulted in a new generation of robust tools, systems and commercial products. Well positioned government research funding, particularly in the U.S., has helped to advance the state of the art at an unprecedented pace in no small measure thanks to the rigorous evaluations. This volume focuses on the use of Natural Language Processing in Information Retrieval (IR), an area of science and technology that deals with cataloging, categorization, classification and search of large amounts of information, particularly in textual form. An outcome of an information retrieval process is usually a set of documents containing information on a given topic and may consist of newspaper-like articles, memos, reports of any kind, entire books as well as annotated image and sound files. Since we assume that the information is primarily encoded as text, IR is also a natural language processing problem in order to decide if a document is relevant to a given information need one needs to be able to understand its content      The Sixth Text REtrieval Conference (TREC-6) Ellen M. Voorhees, Donna K. Harman, 1999

Charting a New Course: Natural Language Processing and Information Retrieval. John I. Tait, 2005-04-01 Karen Spärck Jones is one of the major figures of 20th century and early 21st Century computing and information processing Her ideas have had an important influence on the development of Internet Search Engines Her contribution has been recognized by awards from the natural language processing information retrieval and artificial intelligence communities including being asked to present the prestigious Grace Hopper lecture She continues to be an active and influential researcher Her contribution to the scientific evaluation of the effectiveness of such computer systems has been quite outstanding This book celebrates the life and work of Karen Spärck Jones in her seventieth year It consists of fifteen new and original chapters written by leading international authorities reviewing the state of the art and her influence in the areas in which Karen Spärck Jones has been active Although she has a publication record which goes back over forty years it is clear even the very early work reviewed in the book can be read with profit by those working on recent developments in information processing like bioinformatics and the semantic web      Progressive Concepts for Semantic Web Evolution: Applications and Developments Lytras, Miltiadis D., Sheth, Amit, 2010-02-28 This book presents innovative educational and learning models that meet current complex educational demands Provided by publisher      Interactions with Search Systems Ryan W. Massive Query Expansion for Relevance Feedback Christopher Alan Buckley, 1995 Information Retrieval Architecture and Algorithms Gerald Kowalski, 2010-12-01 This text presents a theoretical and practical examination of the latest developments in Information Retrieval and their application to existing systems By starting with a functional discussion of what is needed for an information system the reader can grasp the scope of information retrieval problems and discover the tools to resolve them The book takes a system approach to explore every functional processing step in a system from ingest of an item to be indexed to displaying results showing how implementation decisions add to the information retrieval goal and thus providing the user with the needed outcome while minimizing their resources to obtain those results The text stresses the current migration of information retrieval from just textual to multimedia expounding upon multimedia search retrieval and display as well as classic and new textual techniques It also introduces developments in hardware and more importantly search architectures such as those introduced by Google in order to approach scalability issues About this textbook A first course text for advanced level courses providing a survey of information retrieval system theory and architecture complete with challenging exercises Approaches information retrieval from a practical systems view in order for the reader to grasp both scope and solutions Features what is achievable using existing technologies and investigates what deficiencies warrant additional exploration      Explorations in Automatic

Thesaurus Discovery Gregory Grefenstette, 2012-12-06 Explorations in Automatic Thesaurus Discovery presents an automated method for creating a first draft thesaurus from raw text It describes natural processing steps of tokenization surface syntactic analysis and syntactic attribute extraction From these attributes word and term similarity is calculated and a thesaurus is created showing important common terms and their relation to each other common verb noun pairings common expressions and word family members The techniques are tested on twenty different corpora ranging from baseball newsgroups assassination archives medical X ray reports abstracts on AIDS to encyclopedia articles on animals even on the text of the book itself The corpora range from 40 000 to 6 million characters of text and results are presented for each in the Appendix The methods described in the book have undergone extensive evaluation Their time and space complexity are shown to be modest The results are shown to converge to a stable state as the corpus grows The similarities calculated are compared to those produced by psychological testing A method of evaluation using Artificial Synonyms is tested Gold Standards evaluation show that techniques significantly outperform non linguistic based techniques for the most important words in corpora Explorations in Automatic Thesaurus Discovery includes applications to the fields of information retrieval using established testbeds existing thesaural enrichment semantic analysis Also included are applications showing how to create implement and test a first draft thesaurus      Readings in Information Retrieval Karen Sparck Jones, Peter
