Bureau of the Census,1909 Transnational Marriage and Partner Migration Anne-Marie D'Aoust,2022-02-11 This multidisciplinary collection investigates the ways in which marriage and partner migration processes have become the object of state scrutiny and the site of sustained political interventions in several states around the world Covering cases as varied as the United States Canada Japan Iran France Belgium or the Netherlands among others contributors reveal how marriage and partner migration have become battlegrounds for political participation control and exclusion Which forms of attachments towards the family the nation or specific individuals have become framed as risks to be managed How do such preoccupations translate into policies With what consequences for those affected by them in terms of rights and access to citizenship The book answers these questions by analyzing the interplay between issues of security citizenship and rights from the perspectives of migrants and policymakers but also from actors who negotiate encounters with the state such as lawyers non governmental organizations and translators

The Aristocracy in the County of Champagne, 1100-1300 Theodore Evergates, 2013-10-09 Theodore Evergates provides the first systematic analysis of the aristocracy in the county of Champagne under the independent counts He argues that three factors the rise of the comital state fiefholding and the conjugal family were critical to shaping a loose assortment of baronial and knightly families into an aristocracy with shared customs institutions and identity Evergates mines the rich varied and in some respects unique collection of source materials from Champagne to provide a dynamic picture of a medieval aristocracy and its evolving symbiotic relationship with the counts Count Henry the Liberal 1152-81 began the process of transforming a quasi independent baronage accustomed to collegial governance into an elite of landholding families subordinate to the count and his officials By the time Countess Jeanne married the future King Philip IV of France in 1284 the fiefholding families of Champagne had become a distinct provincial nobility Throughout it was the conjugal community rather than primogeniture or patrilineage that remained the core familial institution determining the customs regarding community property dowry dower and partible inheritance Those customs guaranteed that every lineage would survive but frequently through a younger son or daughter The life courses of women and men influenced not only by social norms but also by individual choice and circumstance were equally unpredictable Evergates concludes that imposed models of the aristocratic family fail to capture the diversity of individual lives and lineages within one of the more vibrant principalities of medieval France
