First Aviators Epic Of Flight:

First Aviators Curtis Prendergast, 1980-12-01 Follows the careers of early fliers including the Wright brothers Louis Bleriot Glenn Curtiss Anthony Fokker and Igor Sikorsky and describes the impact of aviation on the public imagination

First Aviators; The Epic of Flight Curtis Prendergast, 1980      Pushing the Envelope Donald M. Pattillo, 1998 The most comprehensive history of the aircraft manufacturing industry to date      Air Power History Sebastian Cox, Peter

Gray, 2013-11-05 The 20th century saw air power transformed from novelists' fantasy into stark reality. From string and canvas to precision weaponry and stealth, air power has progressed to become not only the weapon of first political choice but often the only conceivable option. This rapid development has given rise to considerable debate and controversy with those holding entrenched views rarely slow to shout their case. Many myths have grown over the period ranging from the once much vaunted ability of air power to win wars alone through to its impact as a coercive tool. This volume examines the theory and practice of air power from its earliest inception. The contributors have been drawn from academia and the military and represent some of the world's leading proponents on the subject. All significant eras of air power employment are examined; some are evidently turning points while others represent continuous development. Perhaps more importantly, the book highlights the areas that could be considered to be significant and invites the reader to enter the debate as to whether it constitutes a continuum, a turning point or indeed a revolution.

Wings That Stay On Edward V. Coggins, 2000 From the Preface: This book was required. As a former professor of military history at the American Military University (AMU) and a retired USAF Colonel, I wanted to teach a course on the effects of fighter aviation in war. In addition, I wanted to create a course that was a hands-on approach to fighter aviation history. Having flown USAF fighters for more than 20 years, I felt I had a good working knowledge of fighter aviation, but when I researched the subject, I found I would have to ask my students to read scores of books to provide the background they would need. There was no single source book that covered everything I wanted to cover. I determined to write that book. I wanted to write a straightforward book in plain language that would not bore fighter pilots and at the same time that would be simple enough to be attractive to laymen as well as air power historians. That is what I have done. I have covered some detailed thoughts about fighter flying in what Southern Americans might call biscuits and gravy language. The overriding premise of the text is that the fighter has been the key element in the air power equation and continues in that role today, although this role may be changing with the advent of good reliable beyond visual range air-to-air missiles. This view has not been universally held over the years, however, it is a view that has been held by fighter pilots since the advent of the fighter. More and more historians are beginning to support this view.

world's most extraordinary species. But their extinction in 1844 wasn't the end of the great auk story as the bird went on to have a remarkable afterlife: skins, eggs and skeletons became the focus for dozens of collectors in a story of pathological craving and unscrupulous dealings that goes on to this day. In a book rich with insight and packed with tales of birds and of people, Tim Birkhead reveals previously unimagined aspects of the bird's life before humanity's death on the killing shores of the North Atlantic and the unrelenting subsequent quest for its remains. The great auk remains a symbol of human folly and the necessity of conservation. This book tells its story. A Bastard of a Place Peter Brune, 2004-04-01. In the spirit of Les Carlyon's bestselling Gallipoli, this book restores Milne Bay, Gona, Buna and Sanananda to their rightful place beside Kokoda as sacred ground and a vital part of Australian history. Brune's book is a timely reminder that despite the warmest alliances, nations sometimes have to stand up and save themselves. The Weekend Australian Financial Review. A Bastard of a Place undeniably ranks as the best book ever written about the Aussie battles in Papua. Very highly recommended and certainly one of the best books of the year. Bill Stone. Stone Stone Second World War Books website. In 1942 and early 1943, Papua New Guinea was a bastard of a place to fight a war. Peter Brune gives us the final, all-encompassing story of the five battles that changed Australia forever. Peter's compelling narrative resonates with the voices of both the well-trained AIF volunteer and the young Militia conscript who triumphed together. He interviewed hundreds of these soldiers and himself travelled the treacherous terrain and bloody battlegrounds where so many of their mates perished. Peter reveals the inside story of how Generals MacArthur and Blamey sacrificed many of the senior Australian field commanders as scapegoats to protect their own positions. A Bastard of a Place restores Milne Bay, Gona, Buna and Sanananda to their rightful place beside Kokoda to what they should collectively be for all Australians: sacred ground. 100 Headlines That Changed The World James Maloney, 2012-05-17. Newspapers are a form of instant history, capturing forever the awe and fascination that great historical events inspire. They are also an intriguing source to return to as they reveal the contemporary view of world-changing events before it can be shaped by subsequent developments. While newspapers have been around for centuries, it was only when the Industrial Revolution encouraged mass production that newspapers with attention-grabbing banner headlines began to be commonplace. Now that newspapers seem to be in decline, we can look back at the period from the late 19th to early 21st century as the heyday of the newspaper as well as a period in which the world changed beyond recognition. Journalist James Maloney details the stories behind the 100 most momentous headlines, including Abraham Lincoln Assassinated in 1865, Jack the Ripper 1888, Boer War begins 11 Oct 1899, Russian Revolution 1917, Wall Street Crashes in 1929, Hitler Sweeps to Power in 1933, Britain declares war with Germany 3 Sept 1939, Japan declares war on US, Attack on Pearl Harbor 7 December 1941, Communist China founded by Mao Tse-tung 1 October 1949, Watson and Crick discover DNA structure 1953, Cuban missile crisis 1962, J.
