Cohen, 2012-12-06 Science teachers come in many varieties but they share a common goal to nurture learners Over the past decade we have learned a great deal about how to do this effectively Of all this new and some not so new knowledge what strikes me as most important is that learning occurs best within a context Still as obvious as that may seem it is relatively rare in our high school science classrooms The problem of course is that it is not easy to create a learning experience with hands on relevance to the science under discussion Science teachers in addition to not having the the time for the most part do not have the expertise or readily available resources The solution lies in finding ways to bring scientists into the teaching learning equation Scientists teamed with teachers and their students represent a very real and rich opportunity to involve students in real science as practiced Imagine a research book that gives examples of honest science research experiences for science oriented students What s more imagine a book that includes examples where students are collaborating with scientists from all over the world on research projects in person or via the Internet Internet Linksfor Science Education does just that It explores the role of the Internet and technology in working student scientist partnerships Scientific American ,1908 The International Handbook of Educational Research in the Asia-Pacific Region J.P. Keeves, Ryo Watanabe, 2013-11-11 The aim of the Handbook is to present readily accessible but scholarly sources of information about educational research in the Asia Pacific region The scale and scope of the Handbook is such that the articles included in it provide substantive contributions to knowledge and understanding of education in the Asia region. In so doing, the articles present the problems and issues facing education in the region and the findings of research conducted within the region that contribute to the resolution of these problems and issues. Moreover, since new problems and issues are constantly arising, the articles in the Handbook also indicate the likely directions of future developments. The different articles within the Handbook seek to conceptualize the problems in each specific content area under review, provide an integration of the research conducted within that area, the theoretical basis of the research, the practical implications of the research, and the contribution of the research towards the resolution of the problems identified. Thus, the articles do not involve the reporting of newly conducted research but rather require a synthesis of the research undertaken in a particular area with reference to the research methods employed and the theoretical frameworks on which the research is based. In general, the articles do not advocate a single point of view but rather present alternative points of view and comment on the debate and disagreements associated with the conduct and findings of the research. Furthermore, it should be noted that the Handbook is not concerned with research methodology and only considers the methods employed in inquiry in so far as the particular methods of research contribute to the effective investigation of problems and issues that have arisen in the conduct and provision of education at different levels within the region.
