Visual Information Retrieval using Java and LIRE Mathias Lux,Oge Marques,2013-01-01 Visual information retrieval VIR is an active and vibrant research area which attempts at providing means for organizing indexing annotating and retrieving visual information images and videos from large unstructured repositories The goal of VIR is to retrieve matches ranked by their relevance to a given query which is often expressed as an example image and or a series of keywords During its early years 1995 2000 the research efforts were dominated by content based approaches contributed primarily by the image and video processing community During the past decade it was widely recognized that the challenges imposed by the lack of coincidence between an image s visual contents and its semantic interpretation also known as semantic gap required a clever use of textual metadata in addition to information extracted from the image's pixel contents to make image and video retrieval solutions efficient and effective. The need to bridge or at least narrow the semantic gap has been one of the driving forces behind current VIR research. Additionally, other related research problems and market opportunities have started to emerge offering a broad range of exciting problems for computer scientists and engineers to work on. In this introductory book, we focus on a subset of VIR problems where the media consists of images and the indexing and retrieval methods are based on the pixel contents of those images, an approach known as content-based image retrieval (CBIR). We present an implementation-oriented overview of CBIR concepts, techniques, algorithms, and figures of merit. Most chapters are supported by examples written in Java using Lucene, an open-source Java-based indexing and search implementation, and LIRE (Lucene Image REtrieval), an open-source Java-based library for CBIR.

Fundamentals of Database Management Systems Mark L. Gillenson, 2023-06-20 In the newly revised third edition of Fundamentals of Database Management Systems, veteran database expert Dr. Mark Gillenson delivers an authoritative and comprehensive account of contemporary database management. The Third Edition assists readers in understanding critical topics in the subject, including data modeling, relational database concepts, logical and physical database design, SQL data administration, data security, NoSQL, blockchain, database in the cloud, and more. The author offers a firm grounding in the fundamentals of database while, at the same time, providing a wide-ranging survey of database subfields relevant to information systems professionals. And now included in the supplements is the author's audio narration of the included PowerPoint slides. Readers will also find brand-new content on NoSQL database management, NewSQL, blockchain, and database-intensive applications, including data analytics, ERP, CRM, and SCM. Updated and revised narrative material is designed to offer a friendly introduction to database management. Renewed coverage of cloud-based database management. Extensive updates to incorporate the transition from rotating disk secondary storage to solid-state drives.

The Computerised Lawyer Philip Leith, 2012-12-06 The aim of the Applications of Advanced Computing Techniques Series is to publish accounts of particular computer application areas which provide good examples of advanced practice in the fields concerned. In some volumes, the techniques described will be advanced because of the particular computer technologies used. In other volumes, the techniques will be advanced because they illustrate new ways of using computing in particular fields or because they raise new social and ethical issues. All the volumes are designed to be readable both for practitioners working in the application area concerned, in this case lawyers, and for computer professionals interested in leading-edge applications. Philip Leith meets all these objectives in this volume. The first four chapters provide a valuable introduction to computer concepts and methods of holding information from the specific point of view of the practising lawyer or student. Whilst some of these issues may be familiar to computer practitioners, it is only through a proper appreciation of the technology that the real benefits to the working lawyer become clear.

Political Prayer in Nineteenth-Century American Literature Amy Dunham Strand,2024-09-30 Political Prayer in Nineteenth Century American Literature explores how American women writers such as Catharine Maria Sedgwick Harriet Beecher Stowe Rebecca Harding Davis and Emily Dickinson translated petitioning a political form for redress of grievances with religious resonance or what Strand calls political prayer in their literary works At a time when petitioning was historically transforming governments mobilizing masses and democratizing North America these White women writers wrote literary petitions to advocate for others in social justice causes such as antiremoval antislavery and labor reform to transform American literature and culture and to articulate an ambivalent political agency Political Prayer in Nineteenth Century American Literature introduces historic petitioning into literary study as an overlooked but important new lens for reading nineteenth century fiction and poetry Understanding petitions in these literary works and these literary works as petitions also helps us to understand women s political agency before their enfranchisement to explain why scholars have long debated and inconsistently interpreted the works of well anthologized women writers and to see more clearly the multidimensional coexisting and often competing religious and political aspects of their writings
