Forgotten Disney Kathy Merlock Jackson, Carl H. Sederholm, Mark I. West, 2023-06-28 This work demonstrates that not everything that Disney touched turned to gold In its first 100 years the company had major successes that transformed filmmaking and culture but it also had its share of unfinished projects unmet expectations and box office misses Some works failed but nevertheless led to other more stunning and lucrative ones others shed light on periods when the Disney Company was struggling to establish or re-establish its brand In addition many Disney properties popular in their time but lost to modern audiences emerge as forgotten gems By exploring the studio's missteps this book provides a more complex portrayal of the history of the company than one would gain from a simple recounting of its many hits With essays by writers from across the globe it also asserts that what endures or is forgotten varies from person to person place to place or generation to generation What one dismisses someone else recalls with deep fondness as a magical Disney memory

Jumping the Color Line Susie Trenka, 2021-02-02

From the first synchronized sound films of the late 1920s through the end of World War II African American music and dance styles were ubiquitous in films Black performers however were marginalized mostly limited to appearing in specialty acts and various types of short films whereas stardom was reserved for Whites Jumping the Color Line discusses vernacular jazz dance in film as a focal point of American race relations Looking at intersections of race gender and class the book examines how the racialized and gendered body in film performs challenges and negotiates identities and stereotypes Arguing for the transformative and subversive potential of jazz dance performance onscreen the six chapters address a variety of films and performers including many that have received little attention to date Topics include Hollywood's first Black female star Nina Mae McKinney male tap dance class acts in Black cast short films of the early 1930s the film career of Black tap soloist Jeni LeGon the role of dance in the Soundies jukebox shorts of the 1940s cinematic images of the Lindy hop and a series of teen films from the early 1940s that appealed primarily to young White fans of swing culture With a majority of examples taken from marginal film forms such as shorts and B movies the book highlights their role in disseminating alternative images of racial and gender identities as embodied by dancers images that were at least partly at odds with those typically found in major Hollywood productions

Opera as Soundtrack Jeongwon Joe, 2016-05-13

Filmmakers' fascination with opera dates back to the silent era but it was not until the late 1980s that critical enquiries into the intersection of opera and cinema began to emerge Jeongwon Joe focusses primarily on the role of opera as soundtrack by exploring the distinct effects opera produces in film effects which differ from other types of soundtrack music such as jazz or symphony These effects are examined from three perspectives peculiar qualities of the operatic voice various properties commonly associated with opera such as excess otherness or death and multifaceted tensions between opera and cinema for instance opera as live embodied high art and cinema as technologically mediated popular entertainment Joe argues that when opera excerpts are employed on soundtracks they tend to appear at critical moments of the film usually associated with the protagonists and the author explores why it is opera not symphony or jazz that accompanies poignant scenes like these Joe's film analysis focuses on the time period of the post 1970s which is distinguished by an increase of opera excerpts on soundtracks to blockbuster titles the commercial recognition of which promoted the production of numerous opera soundtrack CDs in the following years Joe incorporates an empirical methodology by examining primary sources such as production files cue sheets and unpublished

This work will present information that is confirmable through a variety of sources. The book may not be the definitive work on the subject but will serve as a starting point to document the success and achievement of several Puerto Rican women from the jazz age. Consider the different strategies used for success in jazz and film by women. Illustrate the evolution of various careers. Consider the different personal circumstances under which success was achieved. Consider how women in contemporary jazz and film can learn from their predecessors. Provide women, older, young, and youthful examples of success with documentary evidence on how to achieve. Book Organization: The book is organized into sections that cover a brief history of significant Puerto Rican women in music and the performing arts, followed by biographical descriptions of pioneering women in jazz and film. The book also contains a brief discussion on Puerto Rican women in jazz today, followed by a discussion surrounding issues affecting women in the arts today. Throughout the text, there is commentary on the situations facing women, especially male chauvinism, colonialism, racism, and anti-women prejudice in jazz. Every effort was made to include only facts that are easily confirmable. Unsupported tales or questionable events are avoided to ensure that the material contained in the volume can be used for teaching purposes and for curriculum development when credit is given to this work. In the process of developing the central theme of this volume, special effort was made to document those experiences where Puerto Rican women collaborate with members of the African American community to confirm how the cross-cultural collaboration resulted in being beneficial to both ethnic peoples. The book will detail the many instances where members of the African American community assisted the fledgling Puerto Rican artists achieve success and stardom. Figures such as Helen Elise Smith, David J. Martin, Will Marion Cook, Ada Bricktop Smith, Dr. Laurence Clifton Jones, and other distinguished African Americans are described. My hope is that this information will be added to historic works in African American Studies.

an important part of the history of American cinema During the 1920s and 1930s film industry executives had centralized the mass production of feature pictures in a series of gigantic film factories scattered across Southern California while maintaining New York as the economic and administrative center But as Koszarski reveals many writers producers and directors also continued to work here especially if their independent vision was too big for the Hollywood production line

Birth of an Industry Nicholas Sammond, 2015-08-27 In Birth of an Industry Nicholas Sammond describes how popular early American cartoon characters were derived from blackface minstrelsy He charts the industrialization of animation in the early twentieth century its representation in the cartoons themselves and how important blackface minstrels were to that performance standing in for the frustrations of animation workers Cherished cartoon characters such as Mickey Mouse and Felix the Cat were conceived and developed using blackface minstrelsy's visual and performative conventions these characters are not like minstrels they are minstrels They play out the social cultural political and racial anxieties and desires that link race to the laboring body just as live minstrel show performers did Carefully examining how early animation helped to naturalize virulent racial formations Sammond explores how cartoons used laughter and sentimentality to make those stereotypes seem not only less cruel but actually pleasurable Although the visible links between cartoon characters and the minstrel stage faded long ago Sammond shows how important those links are to thinking about animation then and now and about how cartoons continue to help to illuminate the central place of race in American cultural and social life Discovering Short Films C.
