Globalization on the United States Michelle Bertho, Beverly Crawford, Edward A. Fogarty, 2008-09-30 Over the past decade a virtual cottage industry has arisen to produce books and articles describing the nature origins and impact of globalization Largely and surprisingly absent from this literature however has been extensive discussion of how globalization is affecting the United States itself Indeed it is rarely even acknowledged that while the United States may be providing a crucial impetus to globalization the process of globalization once set in motion has become a force unto itself Thus globalization has its own logic and demands that are having a profound impact within the United States often in ways that are unanticipated This set offers the first in depth systematic effort at assessing the United States not as a globalizing force but as a nation being transformed by globalization Among the topics studied are globalization in the form of intensified international linkages globalization as a universalizing and or Westernizing force globalization in the form of liberalized flows of trade capital and labor and globalization as a force for the creation of transnational and superterritorial entities and allegiances These volumes examine how each of these facets of globalization affects American government law business economy society and culture for years to come Cultural Specificity in Transnational Television Drama Elke Weissmann, 2025-08-08 Cultural Specificity in Transnational Television Drama examines two European television industries those of Germany and Wales This book analyses how near global shifts towards the fragmentation of audiences the convergence of media and the transnationalisation of the television industries impact in culturally specific ways It shows that these larger developments in the industries intersect with specific local histories and cultures which influence how the changes are experienced and what kind of stories they lead to Offering a comparative cultural analysis of these two industries and their output and drawing on a variety of methods which include interviews analysis of published interviews in the trade and other press some archival research and textual analysis this book shows that the global shifts in television impact in locally specific ways which implies a continuation and indeed exaggeration of existing cultural differences at the same time as we see increasing collaboration internationalisation and as a result also homogenisation between nations This book presents a unique emphasis on both transnationalising and localising tendencies highlighting the need to maintain analytical focus on the nation in this supposedly post national world It will be of particular interest to scholars and researchers in contemporary television landscape literary and film studies modern languages philosophy and economics From Technology Transfer to Intercultural Development S. Strijbos, Jan van der Stoep, 2012-02-01 The idea for this book has been born in a dialogue between the authors of In Search of an Integrative Vision for Technology 2006 and a group of scholars and practitioners from South Africa whose research and development activities focuses on problems of traditional African society and culture Although there existed awareness in the writing of the earlier book that the search for normativity for our technological society should encompass the different cultural spheres of the world no attention has been paid to the problem of interculturality Focussing on the development of technology in the developed societies the emphasis was laid on finding a basis for interdisciplinarity bridging the gaps between the sciences and humanities as well as between theory and practice According to the vision that has been elaborated on in the above book not the autonomous dynamics of technology as a free flying projectile should determine the future of our global world but guidance has to be provided by a normative perspective on technology for the common good of all people and cultures Following further this line of research the current book aims to address explicitly the intercultural dimension of technology in our globalising world Transatlantic Cultural Exchange Katharina Gerund, 2014-03-15 From Josephine Baker's performances in the 1920s to the 1970s solidarity campaigns for Angela Davis from Audre Lorde as mother of the Afro German movement in the 1980s to the literary stardom of 1993 Nobel Laureate Toni Morrison Germans have actively engaged with African American women's art and activism throughout the 20th century The discursive strategies that have shaped the West German reactions to African American women's social activism and cultural work are examined in this study which proposes not only a nuanced understanding of African Americanizations as a form of cultural exchange but also sheds new light on the role of African American culture for West
