Empirical Methods For Evaluating Educational Interventions:

Empirical Methods for Evaluating Educational Interventions Gary D. Phye, Daniel H. Robinson, Joel Levin, 2005-03-07 Invaluable for all educators and teachers needing to write acceptable grant proposals or to obtain governmental funding for their programs

Serious Games Ute Ritterfeld, Michael Cody, Peter Vorderer, 2009-09-10 The central purpose of this book is to examine critically the claim that playing games can provide learning that is deep sustained and transferable to the real world

Learning, Training, and Development in Organizations Steve W.J. Kozlowski, Eduardo Salas, 2009-08-06 This scholarly book in SIOP's Organizational Frontier series looks at research on enhancing knowledge acquisition and its application in organizations. It concentrates on training design and delivery given the changing nature of work and organizations. Now that work is increasingly complex, there is greater emphasis on expertise and cognitive skills. Advances in technology such as computer simulations and web-based training are necessitating a more active role for the learner in the training process. In the broad context of the organization systems, this book promotes learning and development as a continuous lifelong endeavor.

Using Games and Simulations for Teaching and Assessment Harold F. O'Neil, Eva L. Baker, Ray S. Perez, 2016-03-31 Incorporates several innovative and increasingly popular subject areas including the gamification of education, assessment, and STEM subjects. Combines research and authorship from both civilian and military worlds as well as interdisciplinary fields. Rigorously defines and analyzes the criteria of selecting, designing, implementing, and evaluating emerging educational technologies while offering implications for future use.

Multimedia Learning Richard E. Mayer, 2020-07-09 Advances in computer graphic technologies have inspired new efforts to understand the potential of multimedia instruction as a means of promoting human learning. In Multimedia Learning Third Edition, Richard E. Mayer takes an evidence-based approach to improving education using well-designed multimedia instruction. He reviews 15 principles of multimedia instructional design that are based on more than 200 experimental research studies and grounded in a cognitive theory of how people learn from words and graphics. The result is the latest installment of what Mayer calls the Cognitive Theory of Multimedia Learning, a theory introduced in previous editions of Multimedia Learning and in The Cambridge Handbook of Multimedia Learning Second Edition. This edition provides an up-to-date and systematic summary of research studies on multimedia learning, supplemented with complementary evidence from around the globe. It is well-suited to graduate and undergraduate courses in psychology, education, computer science, communication, instructional design, and game design.

In education today technology alone doesn't always lead to immediate success for students or institutions. In order to gauge the efficacy of educational technology we need ways to measure the efficacy of educational practices in their own right. Through a better understanding of how learning takes place we may work toward establishing best practices for students, educators, and institutions. These goals can be accomplished with learning analytics. Learning Analytics: From Research to Practice updates this emerging field with the latest in theories, findings, strategies, and tools from across education and technological disciplines. Guiding readers through preparation, design, and examples of implementation, this pioneering reference clarifies LA methods as not mere data collection but sophisticated systems-based analysis with practical applicability inside the classroom and in the larger world. Case studies illustrate applications of LA throughout academic settings, e.g., intervention, advisement, technology design, and their resulting impact on pedagogy and learning. The goal is to bring greater efficiency and deeper engagement to individual students, learning communities, and educators, as chapters show diverse uses of learning analytics to enhance student and faculty performance, improve student understanding of course material, assess and attend to the needs of struggling learners, improve accuracy in grading, allow instructors to assess and develop their own strengths, encourage more efficient use of resources at the institutional level. Researchers and practitioners in educational technology, IT, and the learning sciences will hail the information in Learning Analytics: From Research to Practice as a springboard to new levels of student, instructor, and institutional success. Intervention Research in Educational Practice Hermann Astleitner, 2020. Improving learning and teaching at schools or universities may start with choosing evidence-based interventions and practices but does not end there. To ensure sustainable changes to programs in educational practice, interventions need to address complex issues related to theories, research designs, and measurements. This book presents typical but often overlooked problems in intervention research in educational practice. These problems are embedded in various educational areas such as, amongst others, school effectiveness, instructional design, or motivational aspects of teacher trainings. e-Learning and the Science of Instruction Ruth C. Clark, Richard E. Mayer, 2011-08-16. The authors offer useful information and guidelines for selecting, designing, and developing asynchronous and synchronous e-Learning courses that build knowledge and skills for workers learning in corporate, government, and academic settings. A Qualitative Study Teaching Guide Mary Sibande Kumwanje, 2024-12-02. This teaching guide for qualitative research offers a methodological approach to qualitative studies with ethnographic and phenomenological approaches. Mary Sibande explores the social, cultural, and economic themes associated with experiences of maternal death orphans and their guardians to understand their influences. She uses a cyclical approach to qualitative research which allows the researcher to identify issues from the perspective of the study group to understand the meaning and interpretations they give to behaviours in a deductive way. Handbook of Game-Based Learning Jan L. Plass, Richard E. Mayer, Bruce D. Homer, 2020-02-04. A comprehensive introduction to the latest research and theory on learning and instruction with computer games. This book offers a comprehensive introduction to the latest research on learning and instruction with computer games Unlike other books on the topic which emphasize game development or best practices Handbook of Game Based Learning is based on empirical findings and grounded in psychological and learning sciences theory The contributors all leading researchers in the field offer a range of perspectives including cognitive motivational affective and sociocultural They explore research on whether and how computer games can help students learn educational content and academic skills which game features including feedback incentives adaptivity narrative theme and game mechanics can improve the instructional effectiveness of these games and applications including games for learning in STEM disciplines for training cognitive skills for workforce learning and for assessment The Handbook offers an indispensable reference both for readers with practical interests in designing or selecting effective game based learning environments and for scholars who conduct or evaluate research in the field It can also be used in courses related to play cognition motivation affect instruction and technology Contributors Roger Azevedo Ryan S Baker Daphne Bavelier Amanda E Bradbury Ruth C Clark Michele D Dickey Hamadi Henderson Bruce D Homer Fengfeng Ke Younsu Kim Charles E Kinzer Eric Klopfer James C Lester Kristina Loderer Richard E Mayer Bradford W Mott Nicholas V Mudrick Brian Nelson Frank Nguyen V Elizabeth Owen Shashank Pawar Reinhard Pekrun Jan L Plass Charles Raffale Jonathon Reinhardt C Scott Rigby Jonathan P Rowe Richard M Ryan Ruth N Schwartz Quinnipiac Valerie J Shute Randall D Spain Constance Steinkuehler Frankie Tam Michelle Taub Meredith Thompson Steven L Thorne A M Tsaasan
