Gerontological Social Work in Small Towns and Rural Communities Lenard W

Kaye, Sandra Butler, 2012-10-12 Learn the skills you need to work with geriatric populations in rural areas Gerontological Social Work in Rural Towns and Communities provides a range of intervention and community skills aimed precisely at the needs of rural elders This book fills a gap in the literature by focusing on the specific practice concerns for social workers assisting older adults in rural areas including the aging experience social worker skills professional functions working with special populations and health and long term care concerns This valuable resource will benefit social workers gerontologists allied health professionals in rural areas health and human services administrators and managers Gerontological Social Work in Rural Towns and Communities explores the challenges social workers need to overcome when working with the elder community in rural areas. This book's significance to social workers will only increase as more adults choose to live and grow old away from the cities. Experts in the field suggest strategies to overcome barriers in planning and providing services such as a longer distance for the elderly to travel to use social service centers, a narrower range of available services in the local area, increased poverty levels for the elderly, a stronger dependency by elderly on family rather than public assistance. This book is divided into five sections: Rurality and Aging introduces the concept of rurality and examines the demographics of aging from a rural perspective; Practice Dimensions of Social Work with Rural Elders includes clinical practice models, intervention and advocacy techniques, program planning and marketing approaches; Special Populations gives attention to four special population groups: indigenous elders, African American older adults, elderly Latinos, and disabled elders; Special Issues Pertaining to Rural Elders covers five essential issues for rural gerontological social workers: health promotion, older workers and retirement preparation, aging in place, specialized housing, and ethical practice; Training and Policy Recommendations future training and education recommendations for social workers are explored as well as service capacity, building the aging network, and the future of long term care. While a variety of theoretical perspectives are explored in Gerontological Social Work in Rural Towns and Communities, the book's empowerment orientation and strengths-based approach will enhance your abilities to improve quality of life for elderly individuals in rural communities. Each chapter contains a comprehensive review of the literature on the subject it addresses, and several chapters include tables and graphs to further establish their revealing empirical findings. An appendix provides additional sources to turn to for more information.

Aging Education Nieli Langer, Terry Tirrito, 2004. Aging Education provides educators in aging studies with a unique text that responds to the paucity of instructional strategies and teaching materials. By developing and explaining a multidisciplinary approach to working with older adults in areas related to health, education, ethics, law, cultural competency, for a multicultural population, translating social policy into practice, spirituality, and human services, the editors provide an imaginative and thought-provoking, unmet need for gerontology educators by providing them with teaching and practice strategies in aging education.

Older People and Their Caregivers Across the Spectrum of Care Judith

Howe, 2015-12-22. Examine recently developed concepts and strategies to help social workers and caregivers improve the quality of care for senior citizens. Older People and Their Caregivers Across the Spectrum of Care focuses on two major aspects of elderly care: assessment and caregiving. This book examines assessment techniques and models used by social workers and other health care professionals to determine the type and extent of care necessary to meet the needs of the elderly. In addition, it voices recent concerns about the use of standardized models for all older adults. This book also addresses the burdens and benefits of being a caregiver to older relatives or friends and mentions several programs made available for caregivers through social services. Older People and Their Caregivers Across the Spectrum of Care reviews

Building on Women's Strengths offers updated information to reflect the enormous changes that have occurred since 1994 in women's lives. Many of the original selections have been revised or totally rewritten to reflect those changes and the more integrated policy practice focus of this edition. New chapters were added on working with women who have been incarcerated, women on welfare who experience violence, and lesbian and bisexual women. Building on Women's Strengths presents a woman-centered approach to understanding and analyzing the issues women must confront in their daily lives, including family violence, welfare reform, mental health, child welfare, aging, racism, and being silenced by society. The Journal of the National Association of Social Workers said of the first edition, "Each chapter presents with skill and rigor an opening for respectful and challenging discourse." This edition of Building on Women's Strengths offers an even more comprehensive view of the ways to overcome oppression in women's lives. It is an essential volume for social workers, policymakers, mental health professionals, and anyone working toward social justice for all women.
