2 1 Ontologies In the context of information extraction and retrieval different kinds of ontologies can be distinguished

15 Top level ontologies describe very general concepts like space and time not depending on a particular domain Domain ontologies and task ontologies describe the vocabulary related to a generic domain or kind of task detailing the terms used in the top level ontology Application ontologies describe the concepts that depend on the particular domain and task within a specific activity Several investigations have been conducted to bring actions tasks to bear on ontologies Among them are Chandrasekaran et al 6 and Mizoguchi et al 23 in the fields of AI and Knowledge Engineering For the geospatial domain Kuhn 21 and Raubal and Kuhn 26 have attempted to support human actions in ontologies for transportation Acknowledging the importance of human actions in the geographic domain a research workshop was held in 2002 bringing together experts from different disciplines to share the knowledge and work on this issue

Regional Science in Business Graham Clarke, Moss Madden, 2001-04-24 Graham Clarke and Moss Madden

1 1 Background In the mid 1990s there were a number of papers in regional science that questioned the relevance and purpose of the entire sub discipline Bailly and Coffey 1994 for example talked of regional science in crisis They argued that there were two fundamental problems First regional science was too theoretical in the sense that many of its products were models that could neither be calibrated too complex or operationalised too abstract in the real world They suggested that regional science had not sufficiently demonstrated that it can address real world problems and subsequently lacked a focus on relevant policy issues Second they argued that regional science had become too narrow in focus and had moved away too far from real people and their daily concerns or struggles in life This was not the first time we had witnessed these sorts of arguments both from outside the discipline and from within Sayer 1976 was perhaps the first to argue for a shift from a model based focus in regional science to one based on political economy Breheny 1984 criticised the deep ignorance among regional scientists of the nature of practical policy making and implementation see also Rodwin 1987 for similar views in the mid 1980s Such self reflection is a feature of many disciplines as they reach maturity There have been many similar reflections in geography Johnston 1996 Barnes 1996 and economics see the collection in the January edition of the Economic Journal 1991

general factors the location of the retail outlet and management of the business Both factors are equally important If the business is located in the wrong place with the wrong customer base it will not generate expected sales Similarly if the business is poorly managed and operated it will not perform well even if the location is right Influenced by both traditional and new location theories Retail Geography is conceptualized and organized using the retail planning process as the framework The technical and methodological chapters help guide the reader with detailed descriptions of the techniques and are supported with practical examples to reflect the latest software development Retail Geography provides a state of the art summary and will act as a core textbook for undergraduate and graduate students of economic geography interested in specializing in retail and business geography The practical examples also make it a valuable handbook for practitioners in the field as well as students of retail management and commercial real estate management Cooperation, Environment, and Sustainability in Border Regions Paul Ganster,2001 A Century of British Geography Ron Johnston,Michael Williams,2022-09-11 These essays trace the evolution of British geography as an academic discipline during the last hundred years and stress how the study of the world we live in is fundamental to an understanding of its problems and concerns Never before has such an ambitious and wide ranging review been attempted and never before has it been done with so much knowledge and passion The principal themes covered in this volume are those of environment place and space and the applied geography of map making and planning The volume also addresses specific issues such as disease urbanization regional viability and ethics and social problems This lively and accessible work offers many insights into the minds and practices of today s geographers Geographical Information Systems and Computer Cartography Chris B.
