A New Material Interpretation of Twelfth-Century Architecture Jason Crow, 2025-10-01 Today we perceive Gothic cathedrals as light filled forms representing the sacred The colored light projected from brightly colored stained glass windows onto the walls and floors of these buildings suggests the presence of divinity Suger 1081 1151CE the abbot of the monastery of Saint Denis is credited with originating Gothic architecture However focus on form and structure has elided attention to the material out of which medieval churches were made When Suger describes the early church he was replacing he says that the gold and gems it contained beamed outwardly with a gleaming light that filled the eye When he restored his church and filled it with the shining souls of his ecclesia he repeated God's divine act of creation His restored church imitated the precious stones that could be shaped and polished to reveal divine light By crafting stone Suger fulfilled the divine plan to make heaven on earth This book Reassesses the origins and significance of Gothic architecture Approaches the interpretation of the twelfth century church through its materiality Integrates the twelfth century conceptualization of architecture within art science and theology
