Glimmer Train 46:

Glimmer Train Stories, 1998 Glimmer Train Stories Christopher Woods, 1992 The Creative Writer's Survival Guide John McNally, 2010-04-15 I write this blurb in distress because for years I've been stealing John McNally's sharp insights into writing and publishing and passing them off as my own. Now this generous so and so is sharing his vast experience as a writer and editor with everyone. Worse yet, this book despite its instructional value is irresistibly undownably readable. Timothy Schaffert author Devils in the Sugar Shop Where Love is Found Susan Burmeister-Brown, Linda B. Swanson-Davies, 2006-01-03 For more than a decade the literary quarterly Glimmer Train has sought out and championed the most compelling short fiction written today by both established luminaries and fresh new voices. This stunning new anthology probes the whole range of human relationships: lovers, friends, family members, spouses, even one's beliefs and dreams. In Beneath the Earth of Her acclaimed writer Karen E. Outen delicately probes the life of a loving, passionate married couple at odds over the prospect of having children. In Gary Garrison's Wedding Vows novelist Ron Carlson offers a poignant and delightful tale about a young woman who escapes the rigors of academia and finds love and purpose at a bird sanctuary in Utah. And in The Marvelous Yellow Cage O. Henry Award winner Charlotte Forbes examines an elderly woman's relationships with her estranged children, her deceased husband, her loyal housekeeper, and a lifetime's accumulation of possessions. Stories by Quinn Dalton, Louise Erdrich, and a host of other writers dig deeply into the joys and sorrows of human connection, enlarging our perspective and refining the language of the heart. Where Love Is Found is a valentine for literary lovers and a delicious treat for those who crave short fiction by some of today's finest writers. Sidle Creek Jolene McIlwain, 2023-05-16 A NPR Book of the Year, A Library Journal Best Books of 2023, A Library Journal 2023 Best Book Covers of the Year. Sidle Creek is one of the best story collections I've read in a long time. Ron Rash, New York Times bestselling author of Serena. Set in the bruised, mined, and timbered hills of Appalachia in western Pennsylvania, Sidle Creek is a tender, truthful exploration of a small town and the people who live there, told by a brilliant new voice in fiction. In Sidle Creek, McIlwain skillfully interrogates the myths and stereotypes of the mining mill and farming towns where she grew up. With stories that take place in diners and dive bars, town halls, and bait shops, McIlwain's writing explores themes of class, work, health, and trauma, and the unexpected human connections of small, close-knit communities. All the while, the wild beauty of the natural world weaves its way in, a source of the town's livelihood and vulnerable to natural resource exploitation. With an alchemic blend of taut prose, gorgeous imagery, and deep sensitivity for all of the living beings within its pages, Sidle Creek will sit snugly on bookshelves between Annie Proulx, Joy Williams, and Louise Erdrich. New Stories from the Midwest: 2012 Jason Lee Brown, Shanie Latham, 2013-03-22 As this fresh anthology proves, there's a mix of writers and sensibilities that inhabit the literary Midwest as to make the term unpredictable. Stuart Dybek, MacArthur Fellow and author of The Coast of Chicago. New Stories from the Midwest presents a collection of stories that celebrate an American region too often ignored.

in discussions about distinctive regional literature The editors solicited nominations from more than three hundred magazines literary journals and small presses and narrowed the selection to nineteen authors The stories written by Midwestern writers or focusing on the Midwest demonstrate that the quality of fiction from and about the heart of the country rivals that of any other region Guest editor John McNally introduces the anthology which features short fiction by Charles Baxter Dan Chaon Christopher Mohar Rebecca Makkai Lee Martin Anthony Doerr Roxanne Gay and others In Their Own Words Jim McWilliams, 2002 Glimmer Train Stories Susan Burmeister-Brown, Linda B. Swanson-Davies, 1995

Coraghessan Boyle, Heidi Pitlor, 2015-10-06 Presents twenty of the best works of short fiction of the past year from a variety of acclaimed sources The Best Place to Be Lesley Dorn, 2007-04-03 I looked out the window and was filled with contentment I was on a train There was no landscape ugly or beautiful to demand my attention None of the passengers within my view were badly dressed I had the right book with me I was happily married but alone nothing in the immediate past to regret nothing in the immediate future to fear In between the best place to be At fifty Grace Hanford has lived long enough to be a daughter a stepdaughter a girlfriend a sister a sister in law a wife a stepmother and an orphan She has fallen in and out of love with troublesome men with her glamorous mother with her wild best friend and with New York City more times than she can count Still Grace is more comic than melancholic and a gifted confessor She lives life as if every day is a movie in which her role is yet to be determined and her audience loves her for it In The Best Place to Be we follow Grace from her fatherless childhood through her years at an all girls college to adulthood in the city and her many dating escapades and escapes as an urban sophisticate Wherever she may be Grace tries to find her place in the world with humor and the blunt surprise of truth And always in the background there is Grace's mother brother and the man she could or might or will call husband out of reach until she reaches In the tradition of Melissa Bank's The Girls Guide to Hunting and Fishing The Best Place to Be is at once funny moving and deeply provocative a love letter to the self determined woman that shimmers with hilarious insight and graceful wit A Thousand Years of Good Prayers Yiyun Li, 2007-12-18 Brilliant and original A Thousand Years of Good Prayers introduces a remarkable new writer whose breathtaking stories are set in China and among Chinese Americans in the United States In this rich astonishing collection Yiyun Li illuminates how mythology politics history and culture intersect with personality to create fate From the bustling heart of Beijing to a fast food restaurant in Chicago to the barren expanse of Inner Mongolia A Thousand Years of Good Prayers reveals worlds both foreign and familiar with heartbreaking honesty and in beautiful prose Immortality winner of The Paris Review's Plimpton Prize for new writers tells the story of a young man who bears a striking resemblance to a dictator and so finds a calling to immortality In The Princess of Nebraska a man and a woman who were both in love with a young actor in China meet again in America and try to reconcile the lost love with their new lives After a Life illuminates the vagaries of marriage parenthood and gender unfolding

the story of a couple who keep a daughter hidden from the world And in A Thousand Years of Good Prayers in which a man visits America for the first time to see his recently divorced daughter only to discover that all is not as it seems Li boldly explores the effects of communism on language faith and an entire people underlining transformation in its many meanings and incarnations These and other daring stories form a mesmerizing tapestry of revelatory fiction by an unforgettable writer

Drowning Lessons Peter Selgin, 2011-03-01 The stories in Drowning Lessons engage water as both a vital and a potentially hazardous presence in our lives You can touch water says Peter Selgin you can taste it and feel its temperature you can even hold it in your hands Still it remains elusive ill defined shaped only by what surrounds or contains it With empathy and wit Selgin introduces us to characters navigating the choppy waters of human relationships In Swimming an avid swimmer fights the stasis in his marriage by prodding his out of shape but contented wife to take up the sport with near disastrous results A pond is the setting of The Wolf House which tells of the reunion and dissolution of a group of high school friends brought together for a funeral The Sinking Ship Man chronicles a day in the life of an African American caretaker in charge of the only remaining survivor of the Titanic disaster In El Malec n a toothless old Dominican tries to recapture his lost dignity by borrowing a shiny Cadillac convertible and aiming it down the coastal highway toward his childhood village In The Sea Cure two travelers in Mexico s Yucatan Peninsula confront death in the form of a mysterious woman living in an abandoned beachfront apartment complex In all thirteen tales in Drowning Lessons Selgin exhibits a keen eye for the forces that push people toward and sometimes beyond their very human limits forces as intrinsic elemental and elusive as the liquid that makes up two thirds of their bodies These stories remind us that of all bodies of water none is deeper or more dangerous than our own

Fabulating Beauty Andreas Gaile, 2005 Peter Carey is one of Australia s finest creative writers much admired by both literary critics and a worldwide reading public While academia has been quick to see his fictions as exemplars of postcolonial and postmodern writing strategies his general readership has been captivated by his deadpan sense of humour his quirky characters the outlandish settings and the grotesqueries of his intricate plots After three decades of prolific writing and multiple award winning Carey stands out in the world of Australian letters as designated heir to Patrick White Fabulating Beauty pays tribute to Carey s literary achievement It brings together the voices of many of the most renowned Carey critics in twenty essays sixteen commissioned especially for this volume an interview with the author as well as the most extensive bibliography of Carey criticism to date The studies represent a wide range of current perspectives on the writer s fictions
