Harold A. Widdison, Ph.D.
Northern Arizona University

Glimpses of Eternity: New Near-Death Experiences Examined,
by Arvin S. Gibson. Bountiful, UT: Horizon Publishers, 1992. 322 pp., $18.95.

The near-death experience (NDE) is gaining increasing scientific respectability and some scientists are beginning to study near-death accounts seriously. Arvin Gibson is one of these individuals. His scientific credentials are impressive and have conditioned him to approach any problem with an open and questioning mind. He has an engineering degree from the University of California at Berkeley and has worked for many years as a nuclear engineer. He has also done postgraduate work at the International School of Nuclear Science and Engineering, the University of California at Los Angeles, General Electric, and the Edison Electric Institute.

Gibson's book follows in the footsteps of the work Craig Lundahl and I published on Mormon NDEs a decade ago (Lundahl and Widdison, 1983a, 1983b). Given the author's stated objectives, it is surprising that he made no attempt to integrate this earlier research into his book. Though Glimpses of Eternity is written primarily for a Mormon or Latter Day Saints (LDS) audience, it is a rich source of NDE cases. In reading this book, it appears that the author was attempting to write to both an LDS lay audience and a scientific or professional audience. It is difficult to write for both in the same volume.

Gibson's father had had an NDE in 1922, but it was not until Gibson read books on the NDE by Raymond Moody (1975) and George Ritchie (Ritchie and Sherrill, 1978) on the NDE that his interest in the subject was aroused:
