Armyworm FAW Spodoptera frugiperda is a pest originating in the Americas it can fly over 100 km per day it feeds on over 80 hosts and a female moth can deposit 1 000 eggs during its life Challenges in mitigating FAW damage include among others lack of the following coordination at global regional and national levels effective monitoring and control techniques and effective phytosanitary measures and capacity at national level The Global Action for Fall Armyworm Control GA 2020 2022 was launched by FAO Director General QU Dongyu on 4 December 2019 with a mandate for a strong and coordinated approach to strengthen prevention and sustainable pest control capacities The GA focuses on Africa Asia Pacific and the Near East where an integrated pest management IPM strategy will be implemented in countries with significant pest presence and a prevention strategy will be conducted in areas with limited or no distribution of the pest The GA has continued to support countries in managing FAW throughout the COVID 19 pandemic by conducting webinars and virtual trainings on FAW monitoring and management and by implementing activities where possible The Resource Mobilization Guide is intended as a roadmap for use by key stakeholders at regional and national levels to help them identify and engage with a diverse range of existing and potential resource mobilization partners on the critical importance of FAW control for a wide range of sustainable development outcomes

Global Biodiversity, 1997 A Framework for Action on Biodiversity and Ecosystem Management, 2002 Governing Global Biodiversity Philippe G. Le Prestre, 2002 Predictions about the success of the Convention on Biological Diversity CBD are pessimistic It has now become commonplace to bemoan the scope ambition and deeply political nature of a convention that addresses issues ranging from ecosystems protection to the exploitation of genetic resources from conservation to justice and from commerce to scientific knowledge Ten years after its adoption how can we assess the difference that the CBD has made Is it in danger of collapsing under its own weight or is it building the foundations of new patterns of relations between societies and nature What achievements can we record and what challenges does it face In this book which is unique in its scope diversity and the wealth of information it contains contributors from a variety of academic disciplines tackle an issue of enduring importance to the protection of biodiversity and enhance our understanding of humanity's capacity to reconcile its various aspirations and halt the destructive path upon which it is set

Handbook of Biodiversity Valuation Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development,2002-04-11 All societies depend on biodiversity and biological resources and policy makers are increasingly aware that development pressures are today generating unprecedented rates of biodiversity loss The fact that biodiversity issues often receive low priority in policy decisions is at least in part due to problems involved in assessing its contribution to society these values defy easy description and quantification What cannot be quantified or is difficult to monitor and evaluate is easy to disregard The result is that biodiversity fails to compete on a level playing field in policy decisions with the forces driving their decline This Handbook describes the types of values usually associated with biodiversity While there are exceptions to the need to prioritise economic values over other cultural traditional and spiritual values economic valuation has a sound theoretical foundation that can help clarify the tradeoffs implicit in public policy decisions On the other hand the Handbook recognises the limitations of the economic approach and considers how economic and non economic values can eventually be reconciled The Handbook also reviews the various methodological approaches often used to quantify these values Data requirements and limitations are discussed These methodologies are then applied to a series of concrete policy contexts ranging from land use planning to the determination of legal damages for environmental degradation The Sierra Club Green Guide Andrew J. Feldman,1996 The Sierra Club Green Guide sets a new standard for environmental reference works It provides all the guidance needed to skillfully locate authoritative information on any environmental topic This environmental desk reference features A wide range of sources including government clearinghouses trade and non profit organizations directories handbooks abstracts and indices periodicals and more 250 online sources of information including Internet sites electronic bulletin boards and commercial online services For those not yet online The Sierra Club Green Guide supplies an introduction to the information superhighway and a glossary of online terms In depth review of each information source as well as complete contact information including address phone number e mail and contact person Cross references comprehensive index and three appendices which provide contact information for federal information centers database vendors and publishers found throughout the book The Sierra Club Green Guide makes finding reliable up to date information easy Whether you're interested in wetlands preservation or a greener lifestyle it will help you answer any environmental question Tourism, Biodiversity and Information Francesco Di Castri,V.
