Global City Regions Trends Theory Policy:

Global City-Regions Allen J. Scott, 2001-01-25 There are now more than three hundred city regions around the world with populations greater than one million. These city regions are expanding vigorously and they present many new and deep challenges to researchers and policy makers in both the more developed and less developed parts of the world. The processes of global economic integration and accelerated urban growth make traditional planning and policy strategies in these regions increasingly inadequate while more effective approaches remain largely in various stages of hypothesis and experimentation. Global City Regions represents a multifaceted effort to deal with the many different issues raised by these developments. It seeks at once to define the question of global city regions and to describe the internal and external dynamics that shape them. It proposes a theorization of global city regions based on their economic and political responses to intensifying levels of globalization and it offers a number of policy insights into the severe social problems that confront global city regions as they come face to face with an economically and politically neoliberal world. At a moment when globalization is increasingly subject to critical scrutiny in many different quarters, this book provides a timely overview of its effects on urban and regional development, one of its most important but perhaps least understood corollaries. The book also offers a series of nuanced visions of alternative possible futures.

Governance and Planning of Mega-City Regions Jiang Xu, Anthony Yeh, 2010-09-13 Provides a comparative treatment and examination of how new approaches in governance and planning are reshaping mega city regions around the world. The contributors highlight how European mega city regions are evolving and strategic intervention redefined to enable the integration of urban qualities in a multi level governance environment. How traditional federal countries in North America and Australia see the promise of major policies and development initiatives finally moving ahead to herald a more strategic intervention at national and regional scales and how transitional economies in China witness the rise of state strategies to control the articulation of scales and to reassert the functional importance of state in a growing diffused power context.

The Changing Space Economy of City-Regions Koech Cheruiyot, 2017-10-30 This book addresses the South African Space Economy and its stark disparities and dualisms through an assessment of the Gauteng City Region, the largest economic agglomeration in the country and on a continent bedevilled by a myriad of development challenges. The book's focus on understanding the overall character of Gauteng City Region's Space Economy through data mining analysis and mapping comprehensively supplements the Space Economy literature on the region. It covers the disparities exacerbated by an overlay of apartheid planning ideology and top down regional development based on selective encouragement of manufacturing investments in growth points or poles and how implementation of past policies intended to cure these disparities have yielded mixed results. This book further offers the Gauteng City Region as a microcosm of the national economy in the form of evident significant place based variations in the intensity and character of economic structure that on the one hand enjoys massive agglomeration economies while on the other has high levels of poverty and book inspiring International Handbook of Globalization and World Cities Ben Derudder, 2012-02-01 This Handbook offers an unrivalled overview of current research into how globalization is affecting the external relations and internal structures of major cities in the world. By treating cities at a global scale it focuses on the stretching of urban functions beyond specific place locations without losing sight of the multiple divisions in contemporary world cities. The book firmly bases city networks in their historical context, critically discusses contemporary concepts and key empirical measures and analyses major issues relating to world city infrastructures, economies, governance and divisions. The variety of urban outcomes in contemporary globalization is explored through detailed case studies. Edited by leading scholars of the Globalization and World Cities GaWC Research Network and written by over 60 experts in the field, the Handbook is a unique resource for students, researchers and academics in urban and globalization studies as well as for city professionals in planning and policy. Spatial

Diversity in the Global City Sakura Yamamura, 2024-11-10 This book at the nexus of migration and urban studies sheds new light on a long neglected group of transmigrants and the global city of Tokyo. Using extensive empirical material on transnational migrants from above and below, it locates and better specifies spatial diversification in Tokyo and beyond. By incorporating transnational spaces into urban diversity discourses, it extends the superdiversity debate to a socio-spatial dimension and examines the configuration and processes of diversity and diversification in global cities from a socio-spatial perspective. Unique in its theoretical focus on the spatial aspect of superdiversity, the book delivers rare empirical insights into the daily socio-spatial practices of transnational financial professionals and other transmigrants. This social geographical study reveals the complex interplay between global mobility and urban transformation. It will be of particular interest to urban and migration scholars in fields such as urban sociology, social geography and urban anthropology, offering deep engagement with debates on urban diversity and transnational spaces. The Futures of the City Region Michael Neuman, Angela Hull, 2013-09-13 Does the city region constitute a new departure in urbanisation If so what are the key elements of that departure The realities of the urban in the 21st century are increasingly complex and polychromatic The rise of global networks enabled by supranational administrations both governmental and corporate strongly influences and structures the management of urban life How we conceive the city region has intellectual and practical consequences First in helping us grasp rapidly changing realities and second in facilitating the flow of resources ideas and learning to enhance the quality of life of citizens Two themes interweave through this collection within this broad palette First are the socio spatial constructs and their relationship to the empirical evidence of change in the physical and functional aspects of urban form Second is what they mean for the spatial scales of governance This latter theme explores territorially based understandings of intervention and the changing set of political concerns in selected case studies In efforts to address these issues and improve upon knowledge this collection brings together international scholars building new data driven cross disciplinary theories to create new images of the city region that may prove to supplement if not supplant old ones The book illustrates the dialectical interplay of theory and fact time and space and spatial and institutional which expands on our intellectual grasp of the theoretical debates on city regions through practical knowing citing examples from Europe the United States Australasia and beyond This book was originally published as a Special Issue of Regional Studies

Entrepreneurship and Business Miguel-Angel Galindo, Joaquin Guzman, Domingo Ribeiro, 2008-10-25 Miguel Angel Galindo Mart n Joaquin Guzman Cuevas and Domingo Ribeiro Soriano University of Castilla La Mancha Albacete Spain University of Sevilla Sevilla Spain University of Valencia Valencia Spain The economic growth and the progress of the nations have been two issues that have worried to the economists during centuries The classical economic books have developed different theories and considered several factors that could explain those processes Unfortunately a single answer has not been obtained and nowadays economists try also to achieve a response to the mechanism of economic growth Economic growth has been considered as one of the most relevant economic policy As it is well known the validity of an economic policy is measured in terms of economic growth rate It is supposed that those countries that obtain a higher economic growth rate are designing more efficient economic policies than those that show lower rates The main corollary to this hypothesis is that the developing countries must follow and copy the economic policies designed by the developed countries region development in China as a new form of urbanization which plays a crucial role in the economic development of the country. It examines the challenges faced by the mega city regions and opens up avenues for debates and further research. Economic reform of 1978 has led to an unprecedented growth in the population and economic development of China. A large portion of this increased urban population and the corresponding economic growth has been concentrated in the mega city regions such as Beijing Tianjin Hebei BTH Yangtze River Delta YRD and Pearl River Delta PRD. These three mega city regions have less land but more people and thus higher economy resulting in various issues and challenges faced by these regions. These challenges pertain to the socio economic development transport environment governance and development strategy which this book explores through case studies of Guangdong Hong Kong Macao Greater Bay Area Beijing Tianjin Hebei and Wuhan. This book also explains and analyses the economy migration processes transport development environmental conditions and governance of the mega city regions of China. With an overview of China's rapid urbanisation and the consequent economic growth, this book provides an essential understanding of related issues in order to establish appropriate strategies and policies to sustain the process of mega city region development.

Global Port Cities in North America Boris Vormann, 2014-11-27. As the material anchors of globalization, North America's global port cities channel flows of commodities, capital and tourists. This book explores how economic globalization processes have shaped these cities' political institutions, social structures and urban identities since the mid 1970s. Although the impacts of financialization on global cities have been widely discussed, it is curious that how the global integration of commodity chains actually happens spatially, creating a quantitatively new global organization of production, distribution and consumption processes, remains understudied. The book uses New York City, Los Angeles, Vancouver and Montreal as case studies of how once redundant spaces have been reorganized and crucially reinterpreted so as to accommodate new flows of goods and people and how in these processes, social, environmental and security costs of global production networks have been shifted to the public.

World Cities and Urban Form Mike Jenks, Daniel Kozak, Pattaranan Takkanon, 2013-12-02. This book presents new research and theory at the regional scale, showing the forms metropolitan regions might take to achieve sustainability. At the city scale, the book presents case studies based on the latest research and practice from Europe, Asia and North America, showing how both planning and flagship design can propel cities into world class status and also improve sustainability. The contributors explore the tension between polycentric and potentially sustainable development and urban fragmentation in a physical context but also in a wider cultural, social and economic context.

City-Regions in Prospect? Kevin Edson Jones, Alex Lord, Rob Shields, 2015-09-01. How should the metropolis be governed? What is the appropriate scale to consider and organize local governance and communities? Bringing together an interdisciplinary and international body of scholarly work, City-Regions in Prospect explores the city region as both an evolving concept and as a growing area of planning practice. Contributors raise critical questions about the ways in which governance reform is being reshaped and whether current trends towards rescaling and rebounding cities actually address local challenges of urbanization and globalization These essays highlight the tensions and uncertainties between the city region as a concept and the experiences of local communities when municipal policies are applied Proposing a challenge to scholars and municipal leaders to account for flexibility adaptability to local contexts social robustness and community engagement City Regions in Prospect Captures the growing relevance and importance of cities in a rapidly urbanizing world The Global City 2.0 Kristin

Ljungkvist,2015-08-27 Global cities all over the world are taking on new roles as they increasingly participate directly and independently in international affairs and global politics So far surprisingly few studies have analyzed the role of the Global City beyond its already well explicated role in the globalized economy How is it that local governments of Global Cities claim international political authority and develop what appears to be their own independent foreign and security policies despite the fact that such policy areas have traditionally been considered to be the core function of nation states and central governments What does it mean to be and to govern the contemporary Global City In this book Kristin Ljungkvist claims that we can better understand why local governments find it to be in their Global City s interest to claim international political authority by exploring how the city s role in the globalized world is constructed and narrated locally A core claim is that Global City hood as a specific type of collective identity can play a constitutive part in such interest formation Combining insights from International Relations and Urban Studies scholarship and with the help of a case study on New York City Ljungkvist develops a new analytical framework for studying the Global City as an international political actor The Global City 2 0 shows that even as the Global City engages in various global issues such as global environmental governance or counterterrorism such pursuit will be framed and rationalized in terms of the city s economic growth The quest for growth and global competitiveness are not necessarily the only available meanings attached to the being and governing of the contemporary Global City However there seems to be a remarkable persistency and attraction in economic ideas and an economic conception of the Global City Cities and Development Sean Fox,Tom Goodfellow,2016-02-11 For the first time in human history more people now live in towns and cities than in rural areas In the wealthier countries of the world the transition from predominantly rural to urban habitation is more or less complete But in many parts of Africa Asia and Latin America urban populations are expanding rapidly Current UN projections indicate that virtually all population growth in the world over the next 30 years will be absorbed by towns and cities in developing countries These simple demographic facts have profound implications for those concerned with understanding and addressing the pressing global development challenges of reducing poverty promoting economic growth improving human security and confronting environmental change This revised and expanded second edition of Cities and Development explores the dynamic relationship between urbanism and development from a global perspective The book surveys a wide range of topics including the historical origins of world urbanization the role cities play in the process of economic development the nature of urban poverty and the challenge of promoting sustainable livelihoods the complexities of managing urban land housing infrastructure and urban services and the spectres of endemic crime conflict and violence in urban areas This updated volume also contains two entirely new chapters one that examines the links between urbanisation and environmental change and a second that focuses on urban governance and politics Adopting a multidisciplinary perspective the book critically engages with debates in urban studies geography and international development studies Each chapter includes supplements in the form of case studies chapter summaries questions for discussion and suggested further readings The book is targeted at upper level undergraduate and graduate students interested in geography urban studies and international development studies as well as policy makers urban planners and development practitioners Globalizing Taipei Reginald Kwok, 2006-05-11 Taipei's quest to become a global city is the key to its urban development Globalizing Taipei looks at this Asian Dragon a major city in the South China Growth Triangle and a centre for transnational production revealing how the development of this capital has received firm state support but is conditioned by international and domestic politics The book is divided into four parts economic and spatial restructuring state and society realignment social differentiation and cultural reorientation Each analyzes the interaction of international state and local politics in the shaping of the city's urban environment since World War II All contributors to this edited volume are Taiwan scholars presenting critical insiders' views Based on each author's specialization and research focus each chapter provides an in depth consideration of one of Taipei's developmental issues generated by globalization Collectively they provide broad insightful and coherent coverage of this crucial time in Taipei's global transmutation

Planning World Cities Peter Newman, Andy Thornley, 2011-06-21 This major comparative text on urban planning and the global and regional context in which it takes place examines what have been traditionally regarded as world cities New York London Tokyo and also a range of other important cities in America Europe and Asia The authors show the role planning has played in the way cities have responded to the forces of globalization and argue for the importance of diverse rather than one size fits all planning practices This fully revised second edition systematically brings the debates on the impact of globalization right up to date and provides integrated coverage of the latest planning theory and practice It also contains extended analysis of the implications of the rapid growth of Chinese cities such as Shanghai Hong Kong and Beijing New material is included on the impact of globalization on poorer mega cities like Mumbai and Johannesburg The Heritage of Edirne in Ottoman and Turkish Times Birgit Krawietz, Florian Riedler, 2019-12-16 Modern scholarship has not given Edirne the attention it deserves regarding its significance as one of the capitals of the Ottoman Empire This edited volume offers a reinterpretation of Edirne's history from Early Ottoman times to recent periods of the Turkish Republic Presently disconnections and discontinuities introduced by the transition from empire to nation state still characterize the image of the city and the historiography about it In contrast this volume examines how the city engages in the forming deflecting and creative appropriation of its heritage a process that has turned Edirne into a UNESCO heritage hotspot A closer historical analysis demonstrates the dissonances and contradictions that these different interpretations and uses of heritage produce. From the beginning, Edirne was shaped by its connectivity and relationality to other places, above all to Istanbul. This perspective is employed at many different levels, e.g. with regard to its population, institutions, architecture, infrastructures, and popular culture, but also regarding the imaginations Edirne triggered. In sum, this multi-disciplinary volume boosts urban history beyond Istanbul and offers new insight into Ottoman and Turkish connectivities from the vantage point of certain key moments of Edirne's history.
