Moscow Conceptualism, 1975-1985 Mary A. Nicholas, 2024-05-30 As the last generation of underground artists in the Soviet Union and the first on the post Soviet scene Moscow conceptualists provide a unique point of view on the breakup of the USSR the changing role of unofficial art in a repressive state and the beginning of a new world order in both art and politics Offering a counter narrative to the tradition of Socialist Realism that dominates Soviet art history this book provides insight into the production and activism of the experimental artists that worked in Moscow during this watershed moment in Russian history Based on extensive original research and in depth interviews with the original artists Nicholas demonstrates how the work of these radical unconventional artists challenged the Soviet authorities official doctrine and even other colleagues in the nonconformist art world They rebelled against political and artistic restraints alike turning everyday texts and engaged performances into powerful statements of creative independence and unrestrained imagination Unlike many of their fellow dissenters these artists rejected elitist notions about art for art s sake in favor of a more open democratic and on going dialogue about everyday concerns Their embrace of humor their focus on the real meaning of words and their insistence on the importance of broad participation in the creation of art make these artists important models for the challenges of our own time A crucial link between the revolutionary avant garde and contemporary protest art Moscow conceptualism offers lessons for activists

under pressure from authoritarian regimes around the world By highlighting the importance of laughter imaginative outreach and direct engagement with everyday citizens this book presents fascinating evidence of the importance of individual protest and demonstrates that socially engaged art can be a powerful weapon for change in building a better world

History Made Conscious Geoff Eley, 2023-08-22 How History has changed in the half century since the 1960s During the last fifty years the writing of history underwent two massive transformations First powered by Marxism and other materialist sociologies the great social history wave instated the value of social explanation Then responding to new theoretical debates the cultural turn upset many of those freshly earned certainties Each challenge was profoundly informed by politics from issues of class gender and race to those of identity empire and the postcolonial The resulting controversies brought historians radically changed possibilities expanding subject matters unfamiliar approaches greater openness to theory and other disciplines a new place in the public culture History Made Conscious offers snapshots of a discipline continuously rethinking its charge How might we understand the social and the cultural together How do we collaborate most fruitfully across disciplines If we take theory seriously how does that change what historians do How should we think differently about politics

Crisis as Form Peter Osborne, 2022-09-27 How does contemporary art best respond to social crisis Through reflection on its own crisis of form Criticism of contemporary art is split by an opposition between activism and the critical function of form Yet the deeper more subterranean terms of art judgment are largely neglected on both sides These essays combine a re examination of the terms of judgement of contemporary art with critical interpretations of individual works and exhibitions by Luis Camnitzer Marcel Duchamp Matias Faldbakken Anne Imhof and Cady Noland The book moves from philosophical issues via the lingering shadows of medium specificity in photography and art music and the changing states of museums to analyses of the peculiar ways that works of art relate to time To give artistic form to crisis it is suggested one needs to understand contemporary art s own constitutive crisis of form

The Culture of Curating and the Curating of Culture(s) Paul O'Neill, 2016-09-02 How curating has changed art and how art has changed curating an examination of the emergence contemporary curatorship Once considered a mere caretaker for collections the curator is now widely viewed as a globally connected auteur Over the last twenty five years as international group exhibitions and biennials have become the dominant mode of presenting contemporary art to the public curatorship has begun to be perceived as a constellation of creative activities not unlike artistic praxis The curator has gone from being a behind the scenes organizer and selector to a visible centrally important cultural producer In The Culture of Curating and the Curating of Culture s Paul O'Neill examines the emergence of independent curatorship and the discourse that helped to establish it O'Neill describes how by the 1980s curated group exhibitions large scale temporary projects with artworks cast as illustrative fragments came to be understood as the creative work of curator auteurs The proliferation of new biennials and other large international exhibitions in the 1990s created a cohort of high profile globally mobile curators moving from Venice to Paris to Kassel In the 1990s curatorial and artistic practice converged blurring the distinction between artist and curator O Neill argues that this change in the understanding of curatorship was shaped by a curator centered discourse that effectively advocated and authorized the new independent curatorial practice Drawing on the extensive curatorial literature and his own interviews with leading curators critics art historians and artists O Neill traces the development of the curator as artist model and the ways it has been contested The Culture of Curating and the Curating of Culture s documents the many ways in which our perception of art has been transformed by curating and the discourses surrounding it

Visualizing Feeling Susan Best, 2011-06-30 Is late modern art anti aesthetic What does it mean to label a piece of art affectless These traditional characterizations of 1960s and 1970s art are radically challenged in this subversive art history By introducing feeling to the analysis of this period Susan Best acknowledges the radical and exploratory nature of art in late modernism The book focuses on four highly influential female artists Eva Hesse Lygia Clark Ana Mendieta and Theresa Hak Kyung Cha and it explores how their art transformed established avant garde protocols by introducing an affective dimension This aspect of their work while often noted has never before been analyzed in detail Visualizing Feeling also addresses a methodological blind spot in art history the interpretation of feeling emotion and affect It demonstrates that the affective dimension alongside other materials and methods of art is part of the artistic means of production and innovation This is the first thorough re appraisal of aesthetic engagement with affect in post 1960s art

Rewriting Conceptual Art Michael Newman, Jon Bird, 1999-12 An international movement that developed along separate but parallel lines in Europe and America during the 1970s Conceptual Art grew out of the legacy of Marcel Duchamp Aiming to completely redefine the relationships between the production definition and ownership of artworks and their various audiences Conceptual artists rejected traditional formats media and definitions Instead they chose to address some of the key issues underlying modern life and art These included the gulf between initial idea and finished work the value assigned works of art in modern economies the role of women and of feminine creativity in general the politics of exhibition organization in short the ways art and the art world have been defined for centuries Among the notable figures whose work is discussed in essays ranging from the evaluative to the theoretical are Judy Chicago Robert Morris Sol LeWitt Marcel Broodthaers and Mary Kelly The influence of Conceptual Art continues to be felt today in the work of such controversial young artists as Rachel Whiteread and Damien Hirst back cover

A Common Strangeness Jacob Edmond, 2012-06-01 Why is our world still understood through binary oppositions East and West local and global common and strange that ought to have crumbled with the Berlin Wall What might literary responses to the events that ushered in our era of globalization tell us about the rhetorical and historical underpinnings of these dichotomies In A Common Strangeness Jacob Edmond exemplifies a new multilingual and multilateral approach to literary and cultural studies He begins with the entrance of China into multinational capitalism and the appearance of the Parisian flâneur in the writings of a Chinese poet exiled in Auckland New Zealand Moving among poetic examples in Russian Chinese and English he then traces a series of encounters shaped by economic and geopolitical events from the Cultural Revolution perestroika and the June 4 massacre to the collapse of the Soviet Union September 11 and the invasion of Iraq In these encounters Edmond tracks a shared concern with strangeness through which poets contested old binary oppositions as they reemerged in new post Cold War forms

The Postconceptual Condition Peter Osborne, 2018-01-30 If as Walter Benjamin claimed it is the function of artistic form to make historical content into a philosophical truth then it is the function of criticism to recover and to complete that truth Never has this been more necessary or more difficult than with respect to contemporary art Contemporary art is a point of condensation of a vast array of social and historical forces economic and political forms and technologies of image production Contemporary art expresses this condition Osborne maintains through its distinctively postconceptual form These essays extending the scope and arguments of Osborne s Anywhere or Not at All Philosophy of Contemporary Art move from philosophical consideration of the changing temporal conditions of capitalist modernity via problems of formalism the politics of art and the changing shape of art institutions to interpretation and analysis of particular works by Akram Zataari Xavier Le Roy and Ilya Kabakov and the postconceptual situation of a crisis ridden New Music
