

The European Union: history, modern state and enlargement perspectives

On February 7, 1992, the new stage of European integration started with the signing of the Treaty on European Union in Maastricht (The Netherlands)

Member states of the EEC:

In 1957, the European Economic Community, intended to intensify economic cooperation in Europe, was established. It was one of the first steps towards the creation of the EU

In 1993, 12 states became members of the EU:

In 1995 joined the EU:

In 2004, the EU accepted:

In 2007 joined the alliance:

November 19, 2009

- Belgian Prime Minister Herman Van Rompuy became the first president of the European Union
- EU Trade Commissioner Catherine Ashton from Great Britain was elected as EU foreign policy chief

The introduction of a common EU currency, the euro, in 1999 became a major stage of further European integration
The Euro is the official currency of 16 of the 27 EU member states:

4 states are official candidates for EU membership:

Dubber,Mark Godfrey,2018-07-04 European law including both civil law and common law has gone through several major phases of expansion in the world European legal history thus also is a history of legal transplants and cultural borrowings which national legal histories as products of nineteenth century historicism have until recently largely left unconsidered The Handbook of European Legal History supplies its readers with an overview of the different phases of European legal history in the light of today s state of the art research by offering cutting edge views on research questions currently emerging in international discussions The Handbook takes a broad approach to its subject matter both nationally and systemically Unlike traditional European legal histories which tend to concentrate on heartlands of Europe notably Italy and Germany the Europe of the Handbook is more versatile and nuanced taking into consideration the legal developments in Europe s geographical fringes such as Scandinavia and Eastern Europe The Handbook covers all major time periods from the ancient Greek law to the twenty first century Contributors include acknowledged leaders in the field as well as rising talents representing a wide range of legal systems methodologies areas of expertise and research agendas

Routledge Library Editions: Curriculum Various,2021-07-09 Reissuing works originally published between 1971 and 1994 this collection includes books which offer a broad spectrum of views on curriculum both within individual schools and the wider issues around curriculum development reform and implementation Some cover the debate surrounding the establishment of the national curriculum in the UK while others are a more international in scope Many of these books go beyond theory to discuss practical issues of real curriculum changes at primary or secondary level The Set includes books on cross curricular topics such as citizenship and environment and also guidance careers life skills and pastoral care in schools

A fantastic collection of education history with much still relevant today Decolonizing German and European History at the Museum Katrin Sieg, 2021-12-06 How do museums confront the violence of European colonialism conquest dispossession enslavement and genocide Transregional versus National Perspectives on Contemporary Central European History Michal Vít, Magdalena M. Baran, 2017-09-26 This volume compares different regional perspectives on the national and democracy building aims of individual states It confronts discourses about national states to regional perspectives on the past as well as the current political and social landscape Why are we observing calls for national identity right now What are the roots of this development How can a Central European identity be shaped when national perspectives are prevalent The book's first part analyzes social and political processes that shaped nation states in the Central European region and shows divergent trends of individual states when it comes to defining a regional approach of the Visegrád Group Poland Czech Republic Slovakia Hungary V4 The second part focuses on key personalities of the 20th century history of individual V4 countries in the light of their perception in the neighbouring states and how they shaped national states as well as identities after the end of World War II Similar aims and approaches implemented by individual countries often led to anything but raising regional understanding The book's third part reflects upon activities of various initiatives aiming to approach this challenge from the perspective of civil society and Central Europe's young generation The collection brings together leading historians of Central Europe from the V4 countries It also offers external perspectives on historical developments in Central Europe from the perspective of the 21st century and on political cooperation as well as its roots Lastly it includes practitioners of Central European cooperation from both academia and civil society and their reflection on their countries political cooperation after 1989 Eurocentrism in European History and Memory Marjet Brolsma, Robin Bruin, Matthijs Lok, 2025-10-01 Eurocentrism means seeing the world in Europe's terms and through European eyes This may not be unreasonable for Europeans but there are unforeseen consequences Eurocentric history implies that a scientific modernity has diffused out from Europe to benefit the rest of the world through colonies and development aid It involves the imposition of European norms on places and times where they are often quite inappropriate In Eurocentrism in European History and Memory well known scholars explore and critically analyse manifestations of Eurocentrism in representations of the European past from different disciplines history literature art memory and cultural policy as well as from different geographical perspectives The book investigates the role imaginings of the European past since the eighteenth century played in the construction of a Europeanist worldview and the ways in which Europe was constructed in literature and art

European Dimensions and the Secondary School Curriculum Ivor Goodson, Veronica McGivney, 2018-10-03 Originally published in 1985 Europe and the EEC seemed to be virtually synonymous for the majority of our population and the ambivalent feelings many people have about the Community together with the consistently bad press it received in the UK seemed to engender a hostility in educational circles towards teaching about Europe as a whole However if one of the aims of education is to increase children's awareness, tolerance and understanding of the world about them to widen their experience and horizons then teaching about the wider world must have a place in the curriculum. This book argues for education about Europe not necessarily in favour of Europe, breaking down the national insularity of the UK curriculum and using Europe as one convenient window on the wider world.

The Practice of Global History Matthias Middell, 2019-08-22 Over recent decades almost every area of historical study has seen its global turn from consumption to finance from politics to migration from social order to cultural patterns. This volume reflects the vibrant state of global history scholarship in Europe and examines to what extent global history is practiced and conceptualised distinctively within Europe. Drawing together contributions from scholars from France, Germany, Hungary, the Netherlands, Switzerland and the UK, the book offers a sweeping overview of the state of the field. In particular, the contributors look at histories of colonialism and imperial expansion, knowledge circulation and mobility across borders. This book reflects the diversity of current scholarship on global and transnational history and will offer important insights for anyone interested in understanding the cutting edge of research in this area.

New Perspectives on Historical Writing Peter Burke, 2001-01-01 A new edition of this best-selling collection of essays by leading experts on historical methodology. Since its first publication in 1992, New Perspectives on Historical Writing has become a key reference work used by students and researchers interested in the most important developments in the methodology and practice of history. For this new edition, the book has been thoroughly revised and updated and includes an entirely new chapter on environmental history. Peter Burke is joined here by a distinguished group of internationally renowned historians including Robert Darnton, Ivan Gaskell, Richard Grove, Giovanni Levi, Roy Porter, Gwyn Prins, Joan Scott, Jim Sharpe, Richard Tuck and Henk Wesseling. The contributions examine a wide range of interdisciplinary areas of historical research including women's history, history from below, the history of reading, oral history, the history of the body, microhistory, the history of events, the history of images and political history.

Pandemics and natural disasters as reflected in history teaching Council of Europe, 2023-03-01 Covid-19, disastrous series of earthquakes in Türkiye and Syria. How well prepared are young people to understand such catastrophic events and their impact upon societies? Since the beginning of recorded human history, pandemics and natural disasters have highly impacted the historical narratives of mankind. Each time they remind humans how fragile they are and how limited their knowledge is. Despite their impact, these events are given little attention in history education. The first thematic report of the Observatory on History Teaching in Europe (OHTE) analyses how pandemics and natural disasters are taught across different levels of education. It gives a detailed overview of the teaching of the two topics in OHTE's 16 member states along with a cross-country analysis combining information provided by educational authorities and by history teachers themselves. The report refers to important areas of concern such as the inclusion of pandemics and natural disasters in history curricula, teachers' pedagogical decisions about their teaching, multiperspectival approaches but also the use of scapegoating during these times of crises. The observatory's mission is to provide a clear picture of the state of history teaching in Europe. Within the countries that are party to the observatory, this is done through OHTE reports on the state of history teaching and thematic reports which explore particular areas of interest and how they are handled in history lessons. The observatory's vision is embodied by its motto: Teaching history grounding democracy. In practice, this means that it promotes quality history education in order to improve the understanding of democratic culture among young people. The Observatory on History Teaching in Europe is a Council of Europe enlarged partial agreement.
