Relations Robert S. Ross, Øystein Tunsjø, Dong Wang, 2020-10-15 This book examines the power transition between the US and China and the implications for Europe and Asia in a new era of uncertainty The volume addresses the impact that the rise of China has on the United States Europe transatlantic relations and East Asia China is seeking to use its enhanced power position to promote new ambitions the United States is adjusting to a new superpower rivalry and the power shift from the West to the East is resulting in a more peripheral role for Europe in world affairs Featuring essays by prominent Chinese and international experts the book examines the US China rivalry the changing international system grand strategies and geopolitics foreign policy geo economics and institutions and military and technological developments The chapters examine how strategic security and military considerations in this triangular relationship are gradually undermining trade and economics reversing the era of globalization and contributing to the breakdown of the US led liberal order and institutions that will be difficult to rebuild The volume also examines whether the adversarial antagonism in US China relations the tension in transatlantic ties and the increasing rivalry in Europe China relations are primarily resulting from leaders ambitions or structural power shifts This book will be of much interest to students of Asian security US foreign policy European politics and International Relations in general Nuclear Strategy and World Order Louis RenÃ© Beres, The current U S nuclear strategy goes beyond the legitimate objective of survivable strategic forces to active preparation for nuclear war The Reagan administration strategy rejects minimum deterrence and prepares for a nuclear war that might be protracted and controlled The strategy reflects the understanding that a combination of counterforce targeting crises location of urban populations and ballistic missile defense could make nuclear war purposeful and tolerable The strategy includes five unwarranted assumptions 1 the Soviets might decide to launch a limited first strike on the United States or its allies 2 the USSR is more likely to be deterred by the threat of limited U S counterforce reprisals than by the threat of overwhelming total nuclear retaliation 3 victory is possible in a superpower nuclear war 4 a counterforce nuclear strategy can be undertaken without compromising the prospects of vertical and horizontal arms control and 5 peace can be maintained indefinitely via nuclear deterrence According to the author Reagan administration strategy must be reversed and an alternative strategy should be pursued The United States needs to seek a comprehensive test ban renounce the first use of nuclear weapons and institute additional weapon free zones Author NE The Columbia Guide to the Cold War Michael

Cordesman, Bryan Gold,2014-03-12 The United States faces major challenges in dealing with Iran the threat of terrorism and the tide of political instability in the Arabian Peninsula The presence of some of the world s largest reserves of oil and natural gas vital shipping lanes and Shia populations throughout the region have made the peninsula the focal point of US and Iranian strategic competition Moreover large youth populations high unemployment rates and political systems with highly centralized power bases have posed other economic political and security challenges that the Gulf states must address and that the United States must take into consideration when forming strategy and policy

A Course In Game Theory Thomas S Ferguson,2020-07-20 Game theory is a fascinating subject We all know many entertaining games such as chess poker tic tac toe bridge baseball computer games the list is quite varied and almost endless In addition there is a vast area of economic games discussed in Myerson 1991 and Kreps 1990 and the related political games Ordeshook 1986 Shubik 1982 and Taylor 1995 The competition between firms the conflict between management and labor the fight to get bills through congress the power of the judiciary war and peace negotiations between countries and so on all provide examples of games in action There are also psychological games played on a personal level where the weapons are words and the payoffs are good or bad feelings Berne 1964 There are biological games the competition between species where natural selection can be modeled as a game played between genes Smith 1982 There is a connection between game theory and the mathematical areas of logic and computer science One may view theoretical statistics as a two person game in which nature takes the role of one of the players as in

Blackwell and Girshick 1954 and Ferguson 1968 Games are characterized by a number of players or decision makers who interact possibly threaten each other and form coalitions take actions under uncertain conditions and finally receive some benefit or reward or possibly some punishment or monetary loss In this text we present various mathematical models of games and study the phenomena that arise In some cases we will be able to suggest what courses of action should be taken by the players In others we hope simply to be able to understand what is happening in order to make better predictions about the future

United States Foreign Policy and the Middle East/North Africa Sanford R. Silverburg,Bernard Reich,2015-07-16 This bibliography first published in 1990 is a result of a quarter century professional and personal relationship between two academics interested in Middle East studies The comprehensive bibliography consists of western primarily English language sources published through 1988 and early 1989 concerning foreign policy toward the Middle East and North Africa during the twentieth century Included are materials that deal directly with the topic material that has appeared in published form ie books monographs essays and articles Also included are some non published items most importantly American and British doctoral dissertations and master s theses A European Security Architecture after the Cold War G. Aybet,2000-06-05 A European Security Architecture after the Cold War provides a critical account of the re projection and redefinition of Western values and security institutions in the post Coldwar era This transformation is explored in three stages The first stage covers the period 1990-91 and explains the preservation of a western security community inherited from the Cold War through a process of institutional reconstruction largely carried out on paper The second stage from 1991 to 1992 sees the incorporation of a purpose for these institutions as a framework for the implementation of collective security The third stage explores the emerging questions of legitimacy surrounding the new tasks of these institutions as they become embroiled in the war in the former Yugoslavia The precedents of legitimate intervention in upholding democracy free markets and human rights in the post coldwar era are examined from the perspectives of international law and Gramscian derived concepts of legitimacy focusing on the acceptance of military power by civil society and how intervention in these terms becomes a cultural practice

China's Coercion of States in the Asia-Pacific Region Maximilian

Ernst, 2025-02-11 This book explains why China chooses to coerce Asia Pacific regional states despite the risk of such actions creating a backlash and complicating its strategic calculus China's coercion of neighboring states often a variation of heavy informal economic sanctions combined with diplomatic pressure and gray zone coercive measures has been increasingly observable in the past decade It has become an important tool in China's foreign policy toolbox and is frequently used by Beijing to shape the security political environment of the Asia Pacific The book begins with an appreciation of China's complicated geopolitical exposition and an understanding that such coercion creates backlash since the target state will likely be alienated and pushed into closer security cooperation with the United States China's main geopolitical rival Through two in depth case studies of Chinese coercion targeting the Philippines and South Korea respectively the book demonstrates that first the reason China coerces is that the secondary state engages in actions that fundamentally threaten China's security interests and second it will coerce these states only if other policy options geared to change the secondary state's course of action have not worked Employing balance of power theory and particularly wedge strategies the book solves a pertinent research question and improves our knowledge of contemporary security politics in the Asia Pacific This book will be of interest to students scholars and practitioners of Asia Pacific security Chinese foreign policy and international relations
