Evaluation And Privatization Cases In Waste Management:

Evaluation and Privatization John G. Heilman,1991 Outcome-Based Evaluation Robert L. Schalock,2013-03-09 This book is the product of 30 years of experience with program evaluation During this time both service recipients and educational and social programs have experienced major cultural and political shifts in service delivery philosophy including a focus on quality mainstreaming deinstitutionalization community inclusion and an emphasis on measurable outcomes Recently stakeholders of these programs have demanded more than just the provision of service forcing program administrators to evaluate their programs effectiveness and efficiency The era of accountability is here and my major goal in writing this book is to help current and future program administrators understand that they need to look beyond simply the provision of service Indeed they need to be competent in outcome based evaluation which I define as a type of program evaluation that uses valued and objective person referenced outcomes to analyze a program's effectiveness impact or benefit cost By design this book can be read from the perspective of a consumer or producer of outcome based evaluation As a consumer the reader will be introduced to the various techniques used in outcome based evaluation and how to interpret data from outcome based evaluation analyses As a producer the reader will be instructed in how to do outcome based evaluation analyses along with how to use and act on their results For both the consumer and producer two questions should guide the use of outcome based evaluation Evaluation in the Federal Government: Changes, Trends, and Opportunities Christopher G. Wye,1992 A significant report on a critical topic this classic volume of the New Directions for Evaluation series is now in print and available again This issue which includes government documents pertaining to evaluation as well as contributions from federal evaluators and administrators outlines the duties responsibilities and methodological approaches of the various government offices with evaluative functions and details some of the strategies used by these agencies to cope with the twin pressures of reduced funding and greater calls to demonstrate the effectiveness of government programs pressures first felt in the 1980s and which continue to the present day The contributors discuss federal evaluation agencies in three broad categories executive branch social agencies such as the Department of Health and Human Services and the Department of Housing and Urban Development where the cutbacks were the most severe the three so called central executive branch agencies the Office of Management and Budget the Office of Personnel Management and the General Services Administration where cutbacks were less severe but still significant and where attitudes towards evaluation varied over time and the evaluative agencies of the legislative branch the General Accounting Office the Congressional Budget Office the Congressional Research Service and the Office of Technology Assessment where evaluation remained fairly robust and well funded This is the 55th volume of the quarterly report series New Directions for Evaluation

Emerging Roles of Evaluation in Science Education Reform Rita G. O'Sullivan,1995 Evaluating Reforms of Local Public and Social Services in Europe Ivan Koprić,Hellmut Wollmann,Gérard Marcou,2017-10-20 This book explains the increasing demand for evaluation as a result of the increasing frequency of reforms to local services influenced by the New Public Management doctrine the severe austerity policy in many European countries and the wish to increase quality and reduce costs of public services especially at the local sub national level Positioned at the interface of local services and evaluation research it will enable the utilization of evaluation generated knowledge in evidence based policy making by focusing on the lessons learned from evaluation of local service delivery It encompasses local public and social services including waste water public transport healthcare education and eldercare and examines the hypothesis that there is a North West South East divide in Europe in terms of the evaluation of local service reforms Particular attention is devoted to the explanatory function of evaluation Providing fresh insight into the functioning of local government machinery in contemporary Europe this book will appeal in particular to practitioners and students of local government public economy public administration and policy Malaysian water sector reform Ching Thoo Kim,2023-09-04 The water sector reform in Malaysia initiated in 2004 intended to improve the efficiency and effectiveness of the water sector in the long term This book explains the overall policy process of the reform and assesses the extent to which the reform has met its objectives and the means through which it has done so The conclusions point to a weak correlation between the reform outputs on the one hand and the operational efficiency and environmental effectiveness gains of water utilities on the other They also offer valuable insights into the policy arrangement that successfully shaped the water reform process The policy process of the Malaysian water sector reform reflects the current global trend towards centralizing water management within the public domain with a clear division of tasks between policy formulation regulatory oversight and service provision Federal and state actors have become the dominant players in the water sector This has reduced the role of private water utilities to a small fraction of activities within the entire value chain of water and strengthens close regulation oversight from the regulator Lastly civil society groups now have a growing albeit still small influence on the water sector In terms of policy recommendations this book reiterates the need to adopt a private sector culture in managing public water to establish a clear division of tasks between policy formulation regulation and service provision and to facilitate wider public engagement as well as to promote better informational governance in the water sector including the call for a national water data bank
