Evaluating Family Programs Francine H. Jacobs, 2017-09-22 The diverse composition of American families and changing ways of raising our children have become subjects of intense scrutiny by researchers and policymakers in recent years Shifting demographics and work patterns growing numbers of women in the work force teenage pregnancy single parent families and the deinstitutionalization of the elderly disabled and mentally ill all these trends have significantly affected family life Evaluating Family Programs effectively bridges the gap between researchers and practitioners in order to bring practical understandable advice to providers of family programs and to program funders and policymakers Heather B Weiss and Francine H Jacobs have collected in this volume works which move outside the traditional approaches of their disciplines to create new models for delivering and evaluating services This sets a mood of genuine inquiry and excitement about successful aspects of programs while maintaining openness about the limitations of both research and practice By expanding the research model this work is an attempt to understand reciprocal influences of extended family culture community and social institutions It urges those who advocate program accountability to understand that not all types of evaluations are appropriate for all programs and it notes that limitations in current evaluation technologies make it difficult to evaluate outcomes Evaluating Family Programs reminds the reader that in order to develop sound family policy we must look at children and families in context Because policymakers program administrators and informed citizens have come to rely more upon the results of evaluation research we must improve our methods while not losing sight of its limitations It is a thought provoking contribution to the efforts of those who seek to support the American family with compassion understanding and realism

Evaluating Family Programs Heather Bastow Weiss, Francine Helene Jacobs, 2008-05-01 The diverse composition of American families and changing ways of raising our children have become subjects of intense scrutiny by researchers and policymakers in recent years Shifting demographics and work patterns growing numbers of women in the work force teenage pregnancy single parent families and the deinstitutionalization of the elderly disabled and mentally ill all these trends have significantly affected family life Evaluating Family Programs effectively bridges the gap between researchers and practitioners in order to bring practical understandable advice to providers of family programs and to program funders and policymakers Heather B Weiss and Francine H Jacobs have collected in this volume works which move outside the traditional approaches of their disciplines to create new models for delivering and evaluating services This sets a mood of genuine inquiry and excitement about successful aspects of programs while maintaining openness about the limitations of both research and practice By expanding the research model this work is an attempt to understand reciprocal influences of extended family culture community and social institutions It urges those who advocate program accountability to understand that not all types of evaluations are appropriate for all programs and it notes that limitations in current evaluation technologies make it difficult to evaluate outcomes Evaluating Family Programs reminds the reader that in order to develop sound family policy we must look at children and families in context Because policymakers program administrators and informed citizens have come to rely more upon the results of evaluation research we must improve our methods while not losing sight of its limitations It is a thought provoking contribution to the efforts of those who seek to support the American family with compassion understanding and realism Heather B Weiss is the founder and director of Harvard Family Research Project and a senior research associate at the Harvard Graduate School of Education She is an advisor to numerous foundations on strategic grant making and serves on the advisory board of numerous organizations Francine H Jacobs is associate professor in the department of child development and associate professor of urban and environmental policy and planning at Tufts University She is the author of Evaluating Family Preservation Services A Guide for State Administrators with J Kapuscik Evaluating Family Programs Heather Bastow Weiss,1988 Evaluating Family Programs Francine H. Pecora,2018-02-06 First Published in 2018 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an Informa company Assessing Outcomes in Child and Family Services Anthony N. Maluccio,2017-11-30 In this collective portrait editors and authors do not attempt to draw systematic country by country comparisons Given the magnitude of the issues they believed that it would be inappropriate to paint with too broad a stroke What they have accomplished however is to codify and identify what the participants repeatedly noted in regard to issues and difficulties inherent in conducting outcome evaluation These include varying definitions of outcome complexities in measuring outcomes of particular interventions with different groups of consumers and documenting the effectiveness of the intervention the tendency to focus on evaluation of process more than outcome the challenge of involving practitioners in the evaluation task in part because its value is unclear to them or perceived as distant or untrustworthy the typical inadequacy of resources available for systematic evaluation and the need to inject rigor into the design and execution of evaluation projects The authors demonstrate strong conviction about sharing research expertise across national boundaries learning through each other how to cope with organizational impediments to cross national collaboration and strengthening the interaction between practice and research Their contributions suggest that there is wide interest in pursuing cross national collaboration In recent years largely in response to demands by their funding sources for accountability assessment of performance and cost effectiveness researchers in human services have been devoting increased attention to outcome evaluation Limited attention however has been given to the findings of evaluation studies conducted in different countries The present volume has been organized and edited to address the task of learning from outcome research across the world Its goal an extension of a major goal of the human services in any one country is to improve life chances of vulnerable children and youth

Evaluating Family Support Ilan Katz, John Pinkerton, 2003-08-01 The delivery of effective family support is a key global child welfare issue yet there is little consensus on what constitutes family support or what the best ways are to evaluate it Evaluating Family Support Thinking Internationally Thinking Critically offers a full review of the conceptual and operational problems involved in this complex and topical field Ilan Katz and John Pinkerton have brought together a team of experienced child care policy analysts and evaluators to present the current state of critical thinking alongside detailed international case studies The chapters offer revealing glimpses into the nature of family support across the world as well as an overview of the challenges facing both practitioners and researchers

Evaluating Family-Based Services Peter J. Pecora, 2018-02-06 Family based service FBS programs have been developing rapidly across the country at a time of increasingly scarce human resources and in a politically volatile climate Such a context has made evaluation of such programs imperative The present volume reviews basic elements of evaluation in the light of current knowledge and then highlights the most useful research instruments for measuring changes in child and family functioning Chapters focus on evaluation methods that can be employed to determine the success of existing policy and to influence the development of new policy The authors assume that their readers will have a basic familiarity with research methods and program evaluation They discuss the challenges they have encountered in conducting extensive research on family preservation family support and other related programs and pose practical solutions for administrators practitioners and evaluators confronted with similar difficult issues Each chapter presents a brief conceptual framework for understanding issues related to assessment Essential elements are reviewed while research design measurement variables and qualitative and quantitative analyses are discussed in turn The book concludes with a review of the limitations of evaluations      Evaluating Family Programs H. Weiss,1988-01-01      Family Support and Family Centre Services Andrew Pithouse,Sarah Lindsell,Monit Cheung,2018-08-10 Published in 1998 the aim of this book is to identify and explore key themes and issues around the realm of welfare practice in child and family social work that is family centre services and related community based types of provision The text addresses the impact and effectiveness of family centres in supporting children families and communities Emphasis is placed on community based supportive preventive family services and those that provide a closed access and therapeutic service aimed at families referred by social workers where children are at risk of abuse Throughout the focus is on best practice exemplified by research findings of family centre impacts and outcomes in the UK the USA and Hong Kong      Evaluating Family-based Services Peter J. Pecora,1995 Family based service FBS programs have been developing rapidly across the country at a time of increasingly scarce human resources and in a politically volatile climate Such a context has made evaluation of such programs imperative The present volume reviews basic elements of evaluation in the light of current knowledge and then highlights the most useful research instruments for measuring changes in child and family functioning Chapters focus on evaluation methods that can be employed to determine the success of existing policy and to influence the development of new policy A companion volume to Families in Crisis this book will serve as a practical manual on FBS evaluation and a guide to current debates on research and policy for programs to support and strengthen families BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved      Emerging School-Based Approaches for Children With Emotional and Behavioral Problems C Michael Nelson,Robert J Illback,2020-02-13 It is becoming recognized that the multiple and complex problems of children with emotional and behavioral problems and their families exceed the capacity of any single service system Emerging School Based Approaches for Children With Emotional and Behavioral Problems presents educators and social service practitioners with innovative programs and practices for these children while in school with emphasis on inter service collaboration The book fulfills a growing need for an organized discussion of how the integrated service paradigm can be applied in the context of school settings Special consideration is given to the issues and problems that are idiosyncratic to schools as institutions Emerging School Based Approaches for Children With Emotional and Behavioral Problems shows school administrators teachers and child service providers conceptual practice and research aspects of integrated service programs in school settings Professionals gain insight for planning organizational change as prominent experts and practitioners share their work across a range of issues and geographic sites They explore these topics systems of care for children and families schools as health delivery sites parent involvement for students with emotional and behavioral disorders program planning and evaluation planned organizational change Chapters provide readers with general information about the features of an integrated approach provide practical examples of exemplary programs and consider organizational change issues that can facilitate or impede movement toward a more collaborative approach Programs presented focus on the development of more broad based community services less restrictive child placement prevention of hospitalization and out of home placement interagency collaboration flexible and individualized services and cost containment and efficiency The integrated service movement in children s services holds much promise as a means to create more comprehensive and coordinated school based systems of care for children and families Special education teachers and administrators school and child clinical psychologists and school counselors will find Emerging School Based Approaches for Children With Emotional and Behavioral Problems fundamental to their understanding of the integrated systems approach and a helpful guide as they undergo their own organizational changes Building and Evaluating Family Support Initiatives Carl J.
