Even Odder Perceptions:

Even Odder Perceptions Richard L. Gregory, 2017-03-27 Why did Newton struggle for thirty years to make gold by alchemy and then become Master of the Mint Why do we blush Why do we have illusions In this collection of essays originally published in 1994 Richard Gregory once again delights and tantalizes with tales of his childhood his family and friends the famous and the infamous and weaves them into a rich pattern to illuminate scientific principles and puzzles If you can put the book down each essay is complete on its own but they are united by the magic of human perception From seeing and hearing to feeling and believing from the shape of traffic signs to knowledge of quantum mechanics all our interactions with the outside world are mediated by perception Our knowledge is further distilled by the machines which help our own biological mechanisms like microscopes and telescopes electric light and even more powerfully by computer technology But if the natural structures of perception can affect our interpretation of the world how much more dramatically might science education and tools of information technology enhance though sometimes mislead our perception of reality Even Odder Perceptions may not have all the answers but it certainly poses more questions

Even Odder Perceptions Richard Langton Gregory, 1994 Our senses bring us all the information we have about the outside world but do they tell the truth If you've never questioned this before you may be about to From seeing and hearing to feeling and believing from the shape of traffic signs to knowledge of quantum mechanics all our interactions with the outside world are mediated by perception Knowledge is further distilled by the machines which help our own biological mechanisms magnifying glasses electric lights and and even more powerfully computer technology However if the natural structures of perception can affect our interpretation of the world how much more dramatically might these tools of accuracy distort reality In his latest collection of essays Richard Gregory uses a series of whimsical tales of his childhood family and friends the famous and the infamous to illuminate scientific principles and puzzles He weaves together these amusing anecdotes to form a personal vista of some of the most profound and puzzling questions in science today quickly drawing the reader into debates on Hamlet's feelings Schrodinger's cat thinking machines and more At times charming entertaining and even confusing Even Odder Perceptions will always leave the reader pondering Each individual essay stands complete on its own yet read as a whole the book is an insightful and entertaining study on the magic of human perception

Talking Nets James A. Anderson, Edward Rosenfeld, 2000-02-28 Surprising tales from the scientists who first learned how to use computers to understand the workings of the human brain Since World War II a group of scientists has been attempting to understand the human nervous system and to build computer systems that emulate the brain's abilities Many of the early workers in this field of neural networks came from cybernetics others came from neuroscience physics electrical engineering mathematics psychology even economics In this collection of interviews those who helped to shape the field share their childhood memories their influences how they became interested in neural networks and what they see as its future The subjects tell stories that have been told referred to whispered about and imagined throughout the history of the field Together the interviews form a Rashomon like web of reality Some of the mythic people responsible for the foundations of modern brain theory and cybernetics such as Norbert Wiener Warren McCulloch and Frank Rosenblatt appear prominently in the recollections. The interviewees agree about some things and disagree about more. Together they tell the story of how science is actually done including the false starts and the Darwinian struggle for jobs resources and reputation. Although some of the interviews contain technical material there is no actual mathematics in the book. Contributors: James A. Anderson, Michael Arbib, Gail Carpenter, Leon Cooper, Jack Cowan, Walter Freeman, Stephen Grossberg, Robert Hecht Neilsen, Geoffrey Hinton, Teuvo Kohonen, Bart Kosko, Jerome Lettvin, Carver Mead, David Rumelhart, Terry Sejnowski, Paul Werbos, Bernard Widrow.

A Jacobean Company and its Playhouse Eva Griffith, 2013-11-28. Eva Griffith's book fills a major gap concerning the world of Shakespearean drama. It tells the previously untold story of the Servants of Queen Anna of Denmark, a group of players parallel to Shakespeare's King's Men and their London playhouse, The Red Bull, built in vibrant Clerkenwell. The Red Bull lay within the northern suburbs of Jacobean London with prostitution to the west and the Revels Office to the east. Griffith sets the playhouse in the historical context of the Seckford and Bedingfeld families and their connections to the site. Utilising a wealth of primary evidence including maps, plans and archival texts, she analyses the court patronage of figures such as Sir Robert Sidney, Queen Anna's chamberlain, alongside the company's members, function and repertoire. Plays performed included those by Webster, Dekker and Heywood, entertainments characterised by spectacle, battle sequence and courtroom drama alongside London humour and song.

Fundamentals of Cognitive Science Thomas Hardy Leahey, 2022-07-19. Fundamentals of Cognitive Science draws on research from psychology, philosophy, artificial intelligence, linguistics, evolution and neuroscience to provide an engaging and student-friendly introduction to this interdisciplinary field. While structured around traditional cognitive psychology topics from attention, learning theory and memory to information processing, thinking and decision making, the book also looks at neural networks, cognitive neuroscience, embodied cognition and magic to illustrate cognitive science principles. The book is organized around the history of thinking about the mind and its relation to the world. It considers the evolution of cognition and how it demonstrates how our current thinking about cognitive processes is derived from pre-scientific philosophies and common sense through psychologists' empirical inquiries into mind and behavior as they pursued a science of cognition and the construction of artificial intelligences. The architectures of cognition are also applied throughout, and the book proposes a synthesis of them from traditional symbol system architectures to recent work in embodied cognition and Bayesian predictive processing. Practical and policy implications are also considered, but solutions are left for the readers to determine. Using extended case studies to address the most important themes, ideas and findings, this book is suitable for upper-level undergraduate and graduate courses in psychology and related fields. It is also suitable for general readers interested in an accessible treatment of cognitive science and its practical implications. World and Life Views, Emerging From Religion, Philosophy and Perception of Nature Prof. Dr. Max Bernhard

Weinstein,2024-07-01 Originally published in German in 1910 as Welt und Lebensanschauungen Hervorgegangen aus Religion Philosophie und Naturerkenntnis this philosophical opus of Dr Max Bernhard Weinstein has been painstakingly translated into English with exquisite attention paid to insuring that the pagination and illustrations remain identical to that of the original Digital Wood Design Fabio Bianconi,Marco Filippucci,2019-02-24 This book explores various digital representation strategies that could change the future of wooden architectures by blending tradition and innovation Composed of 61 chapters written by 153 authors hailing from 5 continents 24 countries and 69 research centers it addresses advanced digital modeling with a particular focus on solutions involving generative models and dynamic value inherent to the relation between knowing how to draw and how to build Thanks to the potential of computing areas like parametric design and digital manufacturing are opening exciting new avenues for the future of construction The book s chapters are divided into five sections that connect digital wood design to integrated approaches and generative design to model synthesis and morphological comprehension to lessons learned from nature and material explorations to constructive wisdom and implementation related challenges and to parametric transfigurations and morphological optimizations Hermeneutics at the Intersection of Medical Technology Jan Kyrre Berg Olsen Friis,2025-05-07 This book explores the crucial role of interpretation in medical radiology and beyond emphasizing its pervasive influence on medical knowledge Friis examines radiological analysis through hermeneutics cognition and visual perception studies He argues that interpretation is inherently embodied and essential to human action particularly in radiology where technology extends vision beyond the human eye s limits Yet interpretation varies among radiologists Can it be too relative shaped by subjective factors irrelevant to the task Attempts to eliminate cognitive bias through psychophysical and cognitivist approaches have failed Interpretation is an active context dependent process inseparable from human experience Friis contends that the only solution is to expand cognitive reach through collaborative interpretative practices integrating diverse perspectives Radiology like all medical fields benefits from shared expertise where multiple viewpoints refine diagnostic accuracy and mitigate individual bias By fostering structured cooperation among radiologists clinicians interpretative reliability can be strengthened The key is not to eliminate subjectivity but to harness it constructively through interdisciplinary dialogue collective reasoning and continuous knowledge exchange Workshops in Perception Rod Power,Steven Hausfeld,Angela Gorta,2017-03-27 Originally published in 1981 Workshops in Perception is designed to enable students to devise their own experiments in sensory processes or perception The thirty workshops include over a hundred different possible student projects covering the full range of the senses and interactions among them The topics range from simple perimetry to the perception of language and social situations In addition to more traditional topics such as illusions adaptation and after effects they include lifespan perceptual development musical illusions and even a consumer oriented study of road atlases Each of the ten major sections has a general introduction to the topic with suggestions for reading Each workshop has a more specific introduction to its topic and an experiment outlined A typical outline will suggest more independent variables than a student can handle and it is up to the student to select the variables he considers important and to choose the appropriate levels of the variables Although many suggestions are made regarding the actual running of each workshop deciding precisely how to carry out the experiment is left up to the student Pilot work and consultation with the tutor is encouraged Suggestions for the form of the analysis are made but again the details are left to the student Several alternatives to the main workshop are outlined briefly and these are suited to the more adventurous or advanced student Thus the book is suited to students with a wide range of ability

More Examples, Less Theory Michael Billig, 2019-10-03 By examining key psychologists from the past this book shows why examples are so important and theory is over valued

Passibility Wolff-Michael Roth, 2011-08-05 This book argues that the constructivist metaphor has become a self appointed overriding concept that suppresses other modes of thinking about knowing and learning science Yet there are questions about knowledge that constructivism cannot properly answer such as how a cognitive structure can intentionally develop a formation that is more complex than itself how a learner can aim at a learning objective that is by definition itself unknown how we learn through pain suffering love or passion and the role emotion and crises play in knowing and learning In support of the hypothesis that passibility underlies cognition readers are provided with a collation of empirical studies and phenomenological analyses of knowing and learning science in schools scientific laboratories and everyday life all of which defy a constructivist explanation The author argues that passibility constitutes an essential factor in the development of consciousness with a range of essential experiences that cannot be brought into the linguistic realm His exploration is guided by concepts such as otherness passion passivity and undecidability and concludes by resituating the construction metaphor to accord it its proper place in a more comprehensive theory of learning

Digital Draw Connections Fabio Bianconi, Marco Filippucci, 2021-04-27 This book stems from the seminal work of Robert Venturi and aims at re projecting it in the current cultural debate by extending it to the scale of landscape and placing it in connection with representative issues It brings out the transdisciplinary synthesis of a necessarily interdisciplinary approach to the theme aimed at creating new models which are able to represent the complexity of a contradictory reality and to redefine the centrality of human dimension As such the volume gathers multiple experiences developed in different geographical areas which come into connection with the role of representation Composed of 43 chapters written by 81 authors from around the world with an introduction by Jim Venturi and Cezar Nicolescu the volume is divided into two parts the first one more theoretical and the other one which showcases real world applications although there is never a total split between criticism and operational experimentation of research

The Realistic Empiricism of Mach, James, and Russell Erik C. Banks, 2014-08-28 This book redevelops an important movement in philosophy for the first time exploring the ways in which three of the greatest thinkers can be connected and applying their ideas to contemporary problems in the philosophy of mind and the philosophy of science

Vices of the Learned Sjang ten Hagen, Herman

Paul,2025-11-27 Why are professors still warning their students against dogmatism prejudice pedantry and other centuries old vices What explains the persistence of these scholarly vices across the ages With case studies from medieval Europe to twenty first century America Vices of the Learned offers a panoramic overview of qualities habits and inclinations that scholars at various times and places saw as detrimental to their work Innovative is the volume s longue dur e approach The volume breaks new ground in highlighting the importance of low genres aphorisms proverbs anecdotes and stereotypical figures the pedant the charlatan the mammon in transmitting vices over time Possibilities of Perception Jennifer

Church,2013-07-25 The epistemology and the phenomenology of perception are closely related insofar as both depend on experiences of self evident objectivity experiences in which the objectivity of a state of affairs is evident from within our experience of that state of affairs Jennifer Church offers a distinctive account of perception showing how imagining alternative perspectives and alternative possibilities plays a key role in creating and validating experiences of self evident objectivity Offered first as an account of what it takes to perceive ordinary objects such as birds and trees the account is then extended to show how it is also possible to perceive such things as causes reasons mental states distant galaxies molecular arrangements mathematical relations and interpersonal obligations A chapter is devoted to the phenomenology and epistemology of moral perception including the perception of persons as such and a chapter is devoted to the peculiarities of aesthetic perception including the perception of artworks as such In all of these cases Church argues perception can be literal not merely figurative or metaphorical and substantive not merely formal or deflationary Her account helps to explain the advantages of perceptual versus non perceptual knowledge It also helps to make sense of some historical discussions of the role of the imagination in acquiring and validating knowledge in relation to Plato s cave Descartes explanation of rational intuition and Kant s arguments concerning objectivity causality and the Categorical Imperative The Rationality of

Perception Susanna Siegel,2017 One of the most important divisions in the human mind is between perception and reasoning We reason from information that we take ourselves to have already but perception is a means of taking in new information Reasoning can be better or worse but perception is considered beyond reproach The Rationality of Perception argues that these two aspects of the mind become deeply intertwined when beliefs fears desires or prejudice influence what we perceive When the influences reach all the way to perceptual appearances we face a philosophical problem is it reasonable to strengthen what one believes or fears or suspects on the basis of an experience that was generated by those very same beliefs fears or suspicions Drawing on examples involving racism emotion and scientific theories Siegel argues that perception itself can be rational or irrational and makes vivid the relationship between perception and culture Geometry as Objective Science in Elementary School Classrooms Wolff-Michael Roth,2011-05-09 This study examines the origins of geometry in and out of the intuitively given everyday lifeworlds of children in a second grade mathematics class These lifeworlds though pre geometric are not without model objects that denote and come to anchor geometric idealities that they will understand at later points in their lives Roth's analyses explain how geometry an objective science arises anew from the pre scientific but nevertheless methodic actions of children in a structured world always already shot through with significations He presents a way of understanding knowing and learning in mathematics that differs from other current approaches using case studies to demonstrate contradictions and incongruences of other theories Immanuel Kant Jean Piaget and more recent forms of radical social constructivism embodiment theories and enactivism and to show how material phenomenology fused with phenomenological sociology provides answers to the problems that these other paradigms do not answer
