Bloom, 2000-08-24 Still chiefly known as the extravagant composer of the Symphonie fantastique Berlioz was an artist caught in the crossfire between the academic classicism of the French musical establishment and the romantic modernism of the Parisian musical scene He was a thinker in an age that invented both the religion of art and the notion of the genius who preached and practised it This Companion contains essays by eminent scholars on Berlioz's place in nineteenth century French cultural life on his principal compositions symphonies overtures operas sacred works songs on his major writings a delightful volume of memoirs a number of short stories large quantities of music criticism an orchestration treatise on his direct and indirect encounters with other famous musicians Gluck Mozart Beethoven Wagner and on his legacy in France The volume is framed by a detailed chronology of his life and a usefully annotated bibliography The Gramophone, 2003

The Fatal Three: A Novel (Complete) Mary Elizabeth Braddon, I'm afraid she will be a terrible bore said the lady with a slight pettishness in the tone of a voice that was naturally sweet How can she bore us love She is only a child and you can do what you like with her said the gentleman My dear John you have just admitted that she is between thirteen and fourteen a great deal more than a child a great overgrown girl who will want to be taken about in the carriage and to come down to the drawing room and who will be always in the way Had she been a child of Mildred's age and a playfellow for Mildred I should not have objected half so much I'm very sorry you object but I have no doubt she will be a playfellow for Mildred all the same and that she will not mind spending a good deal of her life in the schoolroom Evidently John you don't know what girls of fourteen are I do Naturally Maud since it is not so many years since you yourself were that age The lady smiled touched ever so slightly by the suggestion of youth which was gratifying to the mother of a seven year old daughter The scene was a large old fashioned drawing room in an old fashioned street in the very best quarter of the town bounded on the west by Park Lane and on the east by Grosvenor Square The lady was sitting at her own particular table in her favourite window in the summer gloaming the gentleman was standing with his back to the velvet draped mantelpiece The room was full of flowers and prettinesses of every kind and offered unmistakable evidence of artistic taste and large means in its possessors The lady was young and fair a tall slip of a woman who afforded a Court milliner the very best possible scaffolding for expensive gowns The gentleman was middle aged and stout with strongly marked features and a resolute straightforward expression The lady was the daughter of an Irish peer the gentleman was a commoner whose fortune had been made in a great wholesale firm which had still its mammoth warehouses near St Paul's Churchyard and its manufactory at Lyons but with which John Fausset had no longer any connection He had taken his capital out of the business and had cleansed himself from the stain of commercial dealings before he married the Honourable Maud Donfrey third daughter of Lord Castle Connell Miss Donfrey had given herself very willingly to the commoner albeit he was her senior by more than twenty years and in her own deprecating description of him was quite out of her set She liked him not a little for his own sake and for the power his strong will exercised over her own weaker nature but she liked him still better for the sake of wealth which seemed unlimited

She was nineteen at the time of her marriage and she had been married nine years Those years had brought the Honourable Mrs Fausset only one child the seven year old daughter playing about the room in the twilight and maternity had offered very little hindrance to the lady s pleasures as a woman of fashion She had been indulged to the uttermost by a fond and admiring husband and now for the first time in his life John Fausset had occasion to ask his wife a favour which was not granted too readily It must be owned that the favour was not a small one involving nothing less than the adoption of an orphan girl in whose fate Mr Fausset was interested It is very dreadful sighed Mrs Fausset as if she were speaking of an earthquake We have been so happy alone together you and I and Mildred Yes dearest when we have been alone which you will admit has not been very often O but visitors do not count They come and go They don t belong to us This dreadful girl will be one of us or she will expect to be I feel as if the golden circle of home life were going to be broken Not broken Maud only expanded O but you can t expand it by letting in a stranger Had the mother no people of her own no surroundings whatever nobody but you who could be appealed to for this wretched girl inquired Mrs Fausset fanning herself wearily as she lolled back in her low chair She wore a loose cream coloured gown of softest silk and Indian embroidery and there were diamond stars trembling amongst her feathery golden hair The flowing garment in which she had dined alone with her husband was to be changed presently for white satin and old Mechlin lace in which she was to appear at three evening parties but in the meantime having for once in a way dined at home she considered her mode of life intensely domestic The seven year old daughter was roaming about with her doll sometimes in one drawing room sometimes in another There were three opening into each other the innermost room half conservatory shadowy with palms and tropical ferns Mildred was enjoying herself in the quiet way of children accustomed to play alone looking at the pretty things upon the various tables peering in at the old china figures in the cabinets the ridiculous Chelsea shepherd and shepherdess the Chelsea lady in hawking costume with a falcon upon her wrist the absurd lambs and more absurd foliage and the Bow and Battersea ladies and gentlemen with their blunt features and coarse complexions Mildred was quite happy prowling about and looking at things in silent wonder turning over the leaves of illustrated books and lifting the lids of gold and enamelled boxes trying to find out the uses and meanings of things Sometimes she came back to the front drawing room and seated herself on a stool at her mother s feet solemnly listening to the conversation following it much more earnestly and comprehending it much better than either her father or mother would have supposed possible
