Happiness And Christian Hope A Phenomenological Analysis:

Happiness and Christian Hope William A. Marra, 1994-07 Happiness and Christian Hope William A. Marra, 1994

Happiness and the Limits of Satisfaction Deal Wyatt Hudson, 1996 In classical and medieval times happiness was defined as well being a notion that included moral goodness Today happiness is most often defined as well feeling and identified with subjective states such as satisfaction and peace of mind Deal Hudson argues that the prevailing view is dangerous in politics as well as ethics creating individuals with no other sense of obligation than finding personal satisfaction regardless of the moral and spiritual cost to themselves and others Hudson calls for a return to the classical tradition no one should be called happy who cannot also be called morally good However a contemporary version of happiness should also go beyond the classical notion by making room in the happy life for suffering and passion Using the history of the idea of happiness as a backdrop to a critique of contemporary views Hudson examines happiness from philosophical religious psychological sociological literary and political points of view for example he shows how the tension between the two definitions of happiness is at the heart of the Declaration of Independence The result is an excellent overview of the history of an idea as well as a compelling argument for moral and political change in our time Creation Rediscovered Gerard J. Keane, 1998-10 The author covers the basic question the two basic Evolution theories the concept of Special Creation the discoveries of science the fossil record genetics entropy the age of the universe pointers to a Creator and a number of other questions Not enough can be said for the importance of this book to get the fundamentals right regarding our Origins in order that the rest of our thought and all our actions are based upon the truth Hope as Atmosphere Xu Wang, 2022-07-11 In this thesis the phenomenon of fundamental hope is understood as atmosphere As a metaphor hope as atmosphere finds a new expression of hope other than the light metaphor that dominates the discourse of hope Hope is not only the light that illuminates the dark moments of life but also more fundamentally in the air it lies in the sphere in between and saturates each life experience and every living moment As an existential reality hope as atmosphere reveals our hopeful way of atmospheric co existence Communal love constitutes the ground of this hopeful co existence it keeps the hopeful co existence constantly refreshed and open guaranteeing more possibilities of hope On the basis of communal love hopeful co existence shows its ontological meaning as a way towards life The thesis of hope as atmosphere finds resonance and expression not only in Christian trinitarianly based understanding of hope but also in the most central doctrine of co humanity in Confucianism The University Bookman, a Quarterly Review ,1980 The Moral Philosophy of Dietrich von Hildebrand Martin Cajthaml, Vlastimil Vohánka, John F. Crosby, 2019 The Moral Philosophy of Dietrich von Hildebrand is the first full fledged monograph on von Hildebrand s moral philosophy available to date Despite this pioneering effort its aim is not to treat all the themes belonging to this area with equal depth and breadth Rather it focuses on the themes indicated by the aforementioned questions and relates them according to their inner systematic links rather than according to how and when they appear in von Hildebrand's works. It also engages von Hildebrand in a critical dialogue particularly with the ethics of Plato and Aristotle. This book will serve as a very good introduction not just to von Hildebrand's moral philosophy but to his thought in general. Religious Books and Serials in Print, 1980-1981, 1980. The Basics of Technical Writing and Speaking. C. Edward Collins, 1991. Subject Catalog, 1982. Library of Congress, 1982. A Psychological Perspective on Joy and Emotional Fulfillment. Chris Meadows, 2013-11-26. Throughout the history of psychology there have been full investigations of discrete emotions particularly negative ones and a recent wealth of books on happiness but few exist on the emotion of joy. This book takes a unique psychological approach to understanding this powerful emotion and provides a framework within which the study of human joy and other related positive fulfillment experiences can fit in a meaningful schema. A key feature of this book is its development of an experiential phenomenology of joy. This phenomenology is based on more than three hundred descriptions of joy experiences recounted by subjects in an empirical study executed by the author. Types of joy experiences are examined such as excited vs serene joy anticipatory vs completed joy and affiliative vs individuated joy. There is no comparable book or work that clarifies the relationship among major positive states with emotional components including satisfaction happiness and ecstasy. Loss and Hope. Peter Admirand, 2014-05-22. What are the spiritual consequences of abuse and trauma? Where is God? How and why does such senseless suffering occur? What is the relationship between loss and hope? What are the benefits of examining loss and hope from an interreligious focus? These are some of the questions addressed in this volume written by leading international scholars and which also includes contributions by those who have suffered survivors of genocide and state terror. Case studies of loss and hope from around the world are discussed including from the United States Ireland Sri Lanka India Iran Iraq Argentina China and Chile. Religions examined include Buddhism Islam Christianity Judaism and Hinduism. Three interconnected lenses are used to explore new perspectives on loss and hope survivors and victims testimony interfaith studies and ethical approaches. The book highlights the need for responses to atrocity that transcend differences within gender class religion race and ethnicity. The authors stress the need for partnership and dialogue from an interfaith perspective and while neither hiding nor unduly minimizing the extent of losses in the world attempt to establish an ethics of hope in the face of destabilizing losses in the realms of human rights and post conflict resolution. Loss and Hope is the first book to bring together this high level and diversity of scholars living and working all over the world from different faith cultural and ethnic backgrounds examining the universal themes of loss and hope. National Union Catalog, 1982, 1983. Dynamics of Hope. Charlotte Joy Martin, 2002. After clarifying hope itself this book identifies questions about eternal life and everyday living that arise because hope is what it is and answers them by likewise applying lessons learned about hope. BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc. Over the last three decades a major cultural shift has taken place in the attitudes of Western societies toward the future. Modernity's eclipse by postmodernity is characterized in large part by the loss of hope for a future substantially better than the present. Old optimism about human progress has given way to uncertainty and fear. In this book, scholars from various disciplines— theology, the social sciences, and the humanities— explore the move from a culture of optimism to a culture of ambiguity, and they seek to infuse today's jaded language of hope with a new vitality. The Future of Hope offers a powerful critique of today's stifling cultural climate and shows why the vision of hope central to Christian faith must be a basic component of any flourishing society. The first section of the book sets the context with telling cultural criticism of modernity. The second section focuses on affinities between premodern Christian visions of hope and twentieth-century thought. The final section of the book examines the relationship between postmodern thought, Christian tradition, and biblical hope, addressing how Christians in a postmodern world can best articulate their faith. Written by truly profound thinkers, these chapters are diverse in their content, methodologies, and temperament, yet they are united by a deep engagement with both the Christian tradition and the larger cultural and intellectual climate in which we live and work. The Future of Hope can thus be read not just as an attempt at retrieval of hope for today, but as itself one small act of hope in an age when people too seldom take time to think critically and hopefully.

Suffering and the Christian Life, Rachel Davies, 2019-12-26. This volume approaches questions concerning the status and meaning of suffering in Christian life and Christian theology through the lens of a variety of theological disciplines: biblical, historical, practical, political, and systematic theology. Scholars from this range of fields concentrate on a number of questions: Is love intrinsically linked with suffering? Are suffering and loss on some level fundamentally good? How is and how should suffering and diminishment be viewed in the Christian tradition? Featuring leading voices that include Linn Tonstad, Bernard McGinn, Anna Rowlands, John Swinton, and Paul Murray, this volume brings together essays touching on concrete issues such as cancer, mental health, and the experience of refugees, and discusses broad themes including vulnerability, kenosis, and tragedy. In correlating these themes with the examination of texts ranging from Paul's letters to works of the Cappadocians, Thomas Aquinas, John of the Cross, and Mother Teresa, Suffering and the Christian Life offers fresh and accessible academic approaches to a question of vital personal and existential significance.

Who Do the Ngimurok Say That They Are? Kevin P. Lines, 2018-04-12. How do missiologists describe the cosmologies of those that Christianity encounters around the world? Our descriptions often end up filtered through our own Western religious categories. Furthermore, indigenous Christians adopt these Western religious categories. This presents the problem of local Christianities described by Kwame Bediako as those that have not known how to relate to their traditional culture in terms other than those of denunciation or of separateness. Kevin Lines's phenomenological study of local religious specialists in Turkana, Kenya, not only challenges our Western categories by revealing a more authentic complexity of the issues for local Christians and Western missionaries but also provides a model for continued use of phenomenology as a valued research method in larger missiological studies. Additionally, this study points to the ways that local Christians and traditional religious practitioners interpret Western missionaries through local religious categories. Clearly, missionaries, missiologists, anthropologists, and religious studies scholars need to do a much more careful job of studying and describing the contextually specific phenomena of traditional religious specialists before relying on meta-categories that come out of our Western theology or older, overly simplified ethnographies. The research from this current study of Turkana religious specialists begins that process in the Turkana context and offers a model for future studies in contexts where traditional religion and Christianity intersect.
