Harmless Poisons Blameless Sins:

Harmless Poisons, Blameless Sins Mohammed Mrabet, 1976 Paul Bowles's Literary Engagement with Morocco Bouchra Benlemlih, 2018-01-05 This study argues that Paul Bowles is more perceptive than many American travelers in Morocco. The book provides us with what are perhaps the most sustained meditations to date on Bowles's translation work and his autobiography as well as perceptive analyses of key stories such as A Distant Episode and Here to Learn and his second novel Let It Come Down set primarily in Tangier. The chapter on translation dwells on the complex interactions between Moroccan storytellers and Bowles. The work considers translation as a site where the oral and written colonial and post-colonial scene and English and Maghrebi come face to face; it is a place where things are worked out in dynamic interaction. The chapter on Bowles's autobiography Without Stopping urges us to take this piece of self-writing famously dubbed Without Telling by William Burroughs more seriously, drawing our attention to baroque architectural features of mind and external landscape worlds distorted by mirrors, dreams, and fluid transit where forms morph. The work also highlights the difference between experience and representation of experience through language transformed through the prism of memory. In the chapter on Without Stopping as well as in my discussions of Bowles's fiction, I provide useful elaborations of connections between Bowles's work and that of Edgar Allan Poe. My reading of one of Bowles's best-known stories A Distant Episode brings to the surface a recognition that the tragic fate of the Professor, the story's protagonist, is an outcome of his inability to admit that cultures are not static. The academically trained linguist demonstrates an unwillingness or inability to adapt to change or to read cultural signs accurately. The message is that Morocco is not stuck in time and cannot be held in place by Orientalist fantasies or preconceived externally derived intellectual constructs and assumptions. The book concludes that against the grain of Samuel Huntington's notion of Clash of Civilizations, Bowles's poetic and geographical journey forcefully projects cosmopolitanism and transnational attention, confirming that civilizations and identities open up rather than shut down war or clash. The Routledge Handbook of Translation and Activism Rebecca Gould, Kayvan Tahmasebian, 2020-06-02 The Routledge Handbook of Translation and Activism provides an accessible, diverse, and ground-breaking overview of literary, cultural, and political translation across a range of activist contexts. As the first extended collection to offer perspectives on translation and activism from a global perspective, this handbook includes case studies and histories of oppressed and marginalised people from over twenty different languages. The contributions will make visible the role of translation in promoting and enabling social change, in promoting equality, in fighting discrimination, in supporting human rights, and in challenging autocracy and injustice across the Middle East, Africa, Latin America, East Asia, the US, and Europe. With a substantial introduction, thirty-one chapters, and an extensive bibliography, this Handbook is an indispensable resource for all activists, translators, students, and researchers of translation and activism within translation and interpreting studies. Two Questers in the Twentieth-century North Africa Imen Ayari Cozzo, 2016-09-23 This book offers a unique exploration of the work of Paul Bowles and Ibrahim Alkoni and reveals timely insights into the relationship between the West and the Orient showing that they both challenge and extend existing scholarship on this subject It builds on a sound theoretical platform which serves as a solid foundation for the analysis of the overarching theme Theories of place representation Orientalism and post colonialism are discussed in depth and are linked to the deconstruction and analysis of the selected literary texts helping the reader understand the various quests and motivations of the protagonists of the works of Bowles and Alkoni The first part of the book looks into the work of Bowles and is based on the fact that many of the author's texts revolve around the theme of encounters between Western and Eastern cultures It adopts a specific focus on the North African space which is depicted from a number of different points of view including native French English and American perspectives The second section discusses the work of the Libyan author Ibrahim Alkoni as a quester for a Mythical Identity It introduces the reader to the significance of the desert in both classical and modern Arabic literature and its place in the Arabic cultural imaginary This work is highly original both in its approach and subject matter and as such it constitutes a valuable contribution to the study of comparative literature Arabic literature and postcolonial magical realist literature It offers many original insights into this little studied field demonstrating a successful venture into less trodden terrain The
