Hannah's Daughters A Novel Of Three Generations:

Trauma, Memory, and Narrative in the Contemporary South African Novel, 2012-01-01 The contributions to this volume probe the complex relationship of trauma memory and narrative By looking at the South African situation through the lens of trauma they make clear how the psychic deformations and injuries left behind by racism and colonialism cannot be mended by material reparation or by simply reversing economic and political power structures Western trauma theories as developed by scholars such as Caruth van der Kolk Herman and others are insufficient for analysing the more complex situation in a postcolony such as South Africa This is because Western trauma concepts focus on the individual traumatized by a single identifiable event that causes PTSD Post Traumatic Stress Disorder What we need is an understanding of trauma that sees it not only as a result of an identifiable event but also as the consequence of an historical condition in the case of South Africa that of colonialism and more specifically of apartheid For most black and coloured South Africans the structural violence of apartheid's laws were the existential condition under which they had to exist The living conditions in the townships pass laws relocation and racial segregation affected great parts of the South African population and were responsible for the collective traumatization of several generations This trauma however is not an unclaimed and unclaimable experience Postcolonial thinkers who have been reflecting on the experience of violence and trauma in a colonial context writing from within a Fanonian tradition have on the contrary believed in the importance of reclaiming the past and of transcending mechanisms of victimization and resentment so typical of traumatized consciousnesses Narration and the novel have a decisive role to play here

Hannah's Daughters Dorothy Gallagher, 1976 Fugitive Time Matthew Omelsky, 2023-11-03 In Fugitive Time Matthew Omelsky theorizes the embodied experience of time in twentieth and twenty first century black artforms from across the world Through the lens of time he charts the sensations and coursing thoughts that accompany desires for freedom as they appear in the work of artists as varied as Toni Morrison Yvonne Vera Aim C saire and Issa Samb Fugitive time names a distinct utopian desire directed at the anticipated moment when the body and mind have been unburdened of the violence that has consumed black life globally for centuries bringing with it a new form of being Omelsky shows how fugitive time is not about attaining this transcendent release but is instead about sustaining the idea of it as an ecstatic social gathering From the desire for ethereal queer worlds in the Black Audio Film Collective's Twilight City to Sun Ra's transformation of nineteenth century scientific racism into an insurgent fugitive aesthetic Omelsky shows how fugitive time evolves and how it remains a dominant form of imagining freedom in global black cultural expression

The Holocaust in Three Generations Gabriele Rosenthal, 1998-08-13 Through lengthy interviews and observation of family relationships this book investigates how the histories of those involved in the Holocaust as both victims and perpetrators impact socially and psychologically on the lives of the second and third generation Five case studies of survivors families from Germany and Israel present different experiences of persecution and demonstrate to what extent the past defines post

War family dynamics Two case studies of non Jewish German families where the grandparents generation are suspected of having perpetrated Nazi crimes show how guilt and the myth of themselves being victims are pressed on to the succeeding generations
