Happy Natives A Play:

Three Plays Derek Walcott, 2014-09-09 The three plays in this collection form a triptych the central play a farce is flanked by two dramas Together they span the last four decades of Trinidad's social and political history beginning in The Last Carnival with the colonial life style of a French Creole family faced with the emergence of the Black Power movement and ending in A Branch of the Blue Nile with the conflict among members of a small theatre company in contemporary Port of Spain Beef No Chicken the middle play deals with the corruption of a small town in a hurry to catch up with the industrialization that a new highway will bring The Last Carnival is an entirely new version of Walcott's earlier unpublished play In a Fine Castle It had its American premiere with the Group Theatre Company in Seattle in 1983 Beef No Chicken premiered at the Yale Repertory Theatre's Winterfest series in 1982 A Branch of the Blue Nile was given its Caribbean premiere by State One in Barbados in 1983

Experiments in Freedom Anton Krueger, 2009-10-02 Experiments in Freedom examines ways in which identities have been represented in recent South African play texts published in English It begins by exploring descriptions of identity from various philosophical psychological and anthropological perspectives and elaborates ways in which drama is uniquely suited to represent as well as to effect transformations of identity In exploring the fraught terrain of identity studies the book examines a selection of play texts in terms of five different discourses of identity gender nationalism ethnicity syncretism and race Instead of building a sustained thesis throughout his text Krueger writes in short bursts about a multiplicity of topics extending his explorations rhizomatically into the crevices of a new South African society loath to relinquish its stranglehold on the politics of identity

The Sound of Musicals Steven Cohan, 2019-07-25 Despite having had its obituary written many times the movie musical remains a flourishing twenty first century form and as this volume demonstrates one that exists far beyond the confines of Broadway and Hollywood The Sound of Musicals examines the film's stars issues and traditions of the genre from the 1930s to the present day Featuring sixteen original essays by leading international scholars this illuminating collection addresses the complex history and global variety of the movie musical and considers the delight and passionate engagement that musicals continue to inspire in audiences around the world The contributors address key issues for understanding the movie musical questions of genre and generic traditions questions of history bringing fresh perspectives to a consideration of Classical Hollywood musicals and the musical beyond Hollywood looking at alternatives to the Hollywood model from the New Hollywood and American independent cinema to Bollywood and other national musical traditions Individual chapters consider key musical stars such as Frank Sinatra Julie Andrews and Barbra Streisand film makers including Robert Altman and Christophe Honor and classic musicals such as South Pacific 1958 and Hairspray 1988 In his introduction to the volume Steven Cohan addresses the significance and enduring appeal of this multi faceted genre and considers its recent renaissance with movies such as the High School Musical franchise and the success of the television series Glee

This volume provides an in depth analysis of the work of Indian South African playwright Ashwin Singh which through the diversity of characters from all ethnic backgrounds forges an inclusive South African identity The essays in this volume show how Singh s plays bring South Africa s blatant prejudices and social ills to the forefront as only by confronting unpleasant realities can any far reaching changes actually take place The academics and cultural practitioners who have contributed to this volume approach Singh s work from a variety of angles ranging from history psychology and experimental literary forms to the performance of the plays the relevance of the stage directions and the symbiotic relationship between the playwright and the director The contrast between the climate of optimistic political protest and the complacency and disillusion of the new democratic era is seen to reassess the actions of the past in the light of present outcomes Across the World with the Johnsons Lamont Lindstrom,2017-07-05 During the interwar period Osa and Martin Johnson became famous for their films that brought exotic and far off locations to the American cinema Before the advent of mass tourism and television their films played a major part in providing the means by which large audiences in the US and beyond became familiar with distant and wild places across the world Taking the celebrity of the Johnsons as its case study this book investigates the influence of these new forms of visual culture showing how they created their own version of America s imperial drama By representing themselves as benevolent figures engaged in preserving on film the world s last wild places and peoples the Johnsons films educated US audiences about their apparent destiny to rule contributing significantly to the popularity of empire Bringing together research in the fields of film and politics including gender and empire historical anthropology photography and visual studies this book provides a comprehensive evaluation of the Johnsons their work and its impact It considers the Johnsons as a celebrity duo their status as national icons how they promoted themselves and their expeditions and how their careers informed American expansionism thus providing the first scholarly investigation of this remarkable couple and their extensive output over nearly three decades and across several continents Theatre Record ,2002 Plays and Poems M. M. Busk,1837 Playing Ourselves Laura Peers,2007-03-15 Across North America hundreds of reconstructed living history sites which traditionally presented history from a primarily European perspective have hired Native staff in an attempt to communicate a broader view of the past Playing Ourselves explores this major shift in representation using detailed observations of five historic sites in the U S and Canada to both discuss the theoretical aspects of Native cultural performance and advise interpreters and their managers on how to more effectively present an inclusive history Drawing on anthropology history cultural performance cross cultural encounters material culture theory and public history author Laura Peers examines living history sites as locations of cultural performance where core beliefs about society cross cultural relationships and history are performed In the process she emphasizes how choices made in the communication of history can both challenge these core beliefs about the past and improve cross cultural relations in the present Plays and poems M M.
