Hard Choices Moral Dilemmas In Humanitarian Intervention:

Hard Choices Jonathan Moore, 1998-11-19 Since Somalia the international community has found itself changing its view of humanitarian intervention. Operations designed to alleviate suffering and achieve peace sometimes produce damaging results. The United Nations, nongovernmental organizations, military and civilian agencies alike find themselves in the midst of confusion and weakness where what they seek are clarity and stability. Competing needs, rights and values can obscure even the best international efforts to quell violence and assuage crises of poverty. More attention must be paid to the complexity of issues and moral dilemmas involved. This volume of original essays by international policy leaders, practitioners and scholars brings together insights into the conflicting moral pressures present in different kinds of interventions ranging from Rwanda and Somalia to Haiti, Cambodia and Bosnia. From their various cultural and professional perspectives, the authors cover issues of human rights, sanctions, arms trade, refugees, HIV and the media. Together they make the case that although there are no easy answers, moral reflection and content can improve the quality of decisionmaking and intervention in internal conflicts. Published under the auspices of The International Committee of the Red Cross.

Barnett, 2020-10-15 This book explores the fluctuating relationship between human rights and humanitarianism For most of their lives human rights and humanitarianism have been distant cousins Humanitarianism focused on situations in faraway places dealing with large scale loss of life that demanded urgent attention whilst human rights advanced the cause of individual liberty and equality at home However the twentieth century saw the two coming much more directly into dialogue particularly following the end of the Cold War as both began working in war zones and post conflict situations Leading scholars probe how the shifting meanings of human rights and humanitarianism converge and diverge from a variety of disciplinary perspectives ranging from philosophical inquiries that consider whether and how differences are constructed at the level of ethics obligations and duties to historical inquiries that attempt to locate core differences within and between historical periods and to practice oriented perspectives that suggest how differences are created and recreated in response to concrete problems and through different kinds of organised activities with different goals and meanings Refugees in International Relations
