Healthy Living In Wisconsin:

Healthy Living in Wisconsin Susan J. Montgomery, W. Drew Palin, Mary E. Huntington, 1988-11 Wisconsin's Health, 1909 Healthy Living at the Library Noah Lenstra, 2020-06-18 This broad ranging resource is for librarians who want to begin a new program or incorporate healthy living into an existing one From garden plots to cooking classes to StoryWalks to free yoga more and more libraries are developing innovative programs and partnerships to encourage healthy living Libraries increasingly provide health and wellness programs for all ages and abilities and Healthy Living at the Library is intended for library staff of all types who want to offer programs and services that foster healthy living particularly in the domains of food and physical activity Author Noah Lenstra who has extensive experience directing and advising on healthy living programs first outlines steps librarians should take when starting programs highlighting the critical role of community partnerships The second section of the book offers detailed instructions for running different types of programs for different ages and abilities A third section includes advice on keeping the momentum of a program going and assessing program impacts Lenstra offers tips on how to overcome challenges or roadblocks that may arise An appendix contains resources you can adapt to get these programs off the ground including waivers of liability memoranda of understanding and examples of strategic plans and assessment tools Comprehensive Planning for Healthy Eating and Active Living in Wisconsin Lisa Charron, 2024 Healthy eating and active living HEAL are key targets for public health However most U S adults and children do not eat a healthy diet or get enough physical activity New systems models of HEAL are bringing to light the need to address systems wide drivers of HEAL behaviors Comprehensive plans may be particularly suited to meet this challenge Using the Healthy Living and Active Design Scorecard I evaluated a stratified sample of 116 municipal comprehensive plans from Wisconsin for goals objectives and policies related to HEAL I found that municipalities plan for HEAL to a moderate degree with the highest scores for parks recreation and health care access and the lowest scores for healthy food access and an explicit health focused vision and strategy However even in high scoring areas goals and objectives often lack specific actionable recommendations Using regression analyses I found that the year the comprehensive plan was adopted the primary plan author being a consultant municipal level Democratic voting percentage and having housing and transit identified as a local health priority are consistently associated with better incorporation of HEAL related components Using Welch t tests I also found that when an item in the Scorecard is mandated by state statute it is more likely to be included in local plans I conducted a scoping review to identify interconnections between planning for HEAL and the UN s Sustainable Development Goals SDGs I found interconnections between planning for HEAL and all 17 SDGs I then used multivariate regression analyses to investigate the relationship between comprehensive planning for HEAL and local level indicators for six SDG targets I found that higher planning for HEAL scores are associated with greater walkability target 11 2 park accessibility target 11 7 and food accessibility target 2 1 and lower bicycle and pedestrian danger target 3 6 My results show that there is room for progress in planning for HEAL in Wisconsin Such progress could be facilitated by stronger state level policies the use of consultants and greater collaboration between planning and public health Comprehensive planning for HEAL shows promise as a localized synergy driver or a concrete local level initiative to drive progress on the SDGs
