Alternative Comics Charles Hatfield, 2009-11-12 In the 1980s a sea change occurred in comics Fueled by Art Spiegelman and Franco Mouly's avant garde anthology Raw and the launch of the Love Rockets series by Gilbert Jaime and Mario Hernandez the decade saw a deluge of comics that were more autobiographical emotionally realistic and experimental than anything seen before These alternative comics were not the scatological satires of the 1960s underground nor were they brightly colored newspaper strips or superhero comic books In Alternative Comics: An Emerging Literature Charles Hatfield establishes the parameters of alternative comics by closely examining long form comics in particular the graphic novel He argues that these are fundamentally a literary form and offers an extensive critical study of them both as a literary genre and as a cultural phenomenon Combining sharp eyed readings and illustrations from particular texts with a larger understanding of the comics as an art form this book discusses the development of specific genres such as autobiography and history Alternative Comics analyzes such seminal works as Spiegelman's Maus Gilbert Hernandez's Palomar The Heartbreak Soup Stories and Justin Green's Binky Brown Meets the Holy Virgin Mary Hatfield explores how issues outside of cartooning the marketplace production demands work schedules can affect the final work Using Hernandez's Palomar as an example he shows how serialization may determine the way a cartoonist structures a narrative In a close look at Maus Binky Brown and Harvey Pekar's American Splendor Hatfield teases out the complications of creating biography and autobiography in a substantially visual medium and shows how creators approach these issues in radically different ways

Writing Pregnancy in Low-Fertility Japan Amanda C. Seaman, 2016-12-31 Writing Pregnancy in Low Fertility Japan is a wide ranging account of how women writers have made sense and nonsense of pregnancy in postwar Japan While earlier authors such as Yosano Akiko had addressed the pain and emotional complexities of childbearing in their poetry and prose the topic quickly moved into the literary shadows when motherhood became enshrined as a duty to state and sovereign in the 1930s and 40s This reproductive imperative endured after World War II spurred by a need to create a new generation of citizens and consumers for a new peacetime nation It was only in the 1960s in the context of a flowering of feminist thought and activism that more critical and nuanced appraisals of pregnancy and motherhood began to appear In her fascinating study Amanda C Seaman analyzes the literary manifestations of this new critical approach in the process introducing readers to a body of work notable for the wide range of genres employed by its authors including horror and fantasy short stories novels memoir and manga the many political personal and social concerns informing it and the diverse creative approaches contained therein This pregnancy literature Seaman argues serves as an important yet rarely considered forum for exploring and debating not only the particular experiences of the pregnant mother to be but the broader concerns of Japanese women about their bodies their families their life choices and the meaning of motherhood for individuals and for Japanese society It will be of interest to scholars of modern Japanese literature and women s history as well as those concerned with gender studies feminism and popular culture in Japan and beyond

Arresting Development Christopher Pizzino, 2016-09-06 Mainstream narratives of the graphic novel s development describe the form s coming of age its maturation from pulp infancy to literary adulthood In Arresting Development Christopher Pizzino questions these established narratives arguing that the medium s history of censorship and marginalization endures in the minds of its present day

readers and crucially its authors Comics and their writers remain burdened by the stigma of literary illegitimacy and the struggles for status that marked their earlier history Many graphic novelists are intensely aware of both the medium's troubled past and their own tenuous status in contemporary culture Arresting Development presents case studies of four key works Frank Miller's Batman The Dark Knight Returns Alison Bechdel's Fun Home Charles Burns's Black Hole and Gilbert Hernandez's Love and Rockets exploring how their authors engage the problem of comics cultural standing Pizzino illuminates the separation of high and low culture art and pulp and sophisticated appreciation and vulgar consumption as continual influences that determine the limits of literature the status of readers and the value of the very act of reading
