Health Promotion For All:

Health Promotion for All Stephen Ramirez, 1994      Health Promotion Throughout the Lifespan Carole Edelman, Carol Lynn Mandle, 2006 This comprehensive text provides the most current and accurate health promotion and disease prevention information available. The book addresses health promotion for all ages and all population groups: individuals, families, and communities. It includes extensive coverage of growth and development throughout the life span with an emphasis on normal development as well as the specific problems and health promotion issues common to each stage. A complete unit is devoted to health promotion interventions. It also offers a unique assessment framework based on Gordon's Functional Health Patterns to provide consistency in presentation and an approach in line with the promotion of health. Extensive coverage of growth and development throughout all stages of the life span. A unit on specific interventions for health promotion. Addresses health promotion for all population groups: individual, family, and the community. Incorporates Case Studies that depict actual clinical situations to give students a real life perspective. Innovative Practice examples highlight unique and creative health promotion programs. Summarizes specific clinical interventions in Health Teaching boxes to provide students with how to nursing actions. Think About It clinical scenarios provide critical thinking questions to help readers grasp important concepts. Multicultural Awareness boxes present cultural perspectives important to care planning. Introduces significant issues, trends, and controversies in health promotion through Hot Topics boxes to engage students in critical discussion and debate about these topics. Research Highlights emphasize current research efforts and research opportunities in health promotion. A new Study Questions section with answers and rationales helps you review and assess your understanding of chapter content. Care Plans are presented in a consistent format. Nursing Diagnosis: Defining Characteristics, Related Factors, Expected Outcomes, and Interventions. Healthy People 2010 boxes highlight current national health promotion priorities. A new full color design helps to highlight important features and content. A new companion Evolve website offers case studies with questions and answers, WebLinks, content updates, and a Glossary with search capability to enhance your learning experience.

Health Promotion in the 21st Century Mary Louise Fleming, Louise Baldwin, 2020 From growing levels of obesity to an aging population, how should we respond to the national and international challenges in public health today? In a climate of tightened health funding and greater emphasis on individual responsibility, what is the role of health promotion? This book discusses multiple contexts for health promotion and ways of structuring the delivery of health promotion programs. Analyses contemporary and future thinking about health promotion planning and evaluation models and provides solutions for health promotion in the 21st century. Section 1 looks at key challenges in contemporary health promotion including redefining health and well-being, constraints on health spending, and the economics of health spending. Health priorities and risk factors for specific diseases and features a special focus on Indigenous health. Section 2 covers health promotion settings including individual and population-based approaches, the role of governments and communities.
