Epidemiology Nuno Lunet, 2012-03-13 This special issue resulted from the invitation made to selected authors to contribute with an overview of a specific subject of their choice and is based on a collection of papers chosen to exemplify some of the interests, uses and views of the epidemiology across different areas of research and practice. Rather than the comprehensiveness and coherence of a conventional textbook, readers will find a set of independent chapters, each of them of a great interest in their own specialized areas within epidemiology. Taken together, they illustrate the contrast between the attempt to extend the limits of applicability of epidemiological research and the regular scientific activity in this field or an applied epidemiology. Epidemiologists with different levels of expertise and interests will be able to find informative and inspiring readings among the chapters of this book. Who's who in Australia, 2003 Decoding the Ethics Code Celia B. Fisher, 2021-12-17 Revised to reflect the latest edition of the American Psychological Association's APA Ethical Principles of Psychologists and Code of Conduct, Celia B. Fisher's acclaimed Decoding the Ethics Code, Fifth Edition, explains and puts into practical perspective the format, choice of wording, aspirational principles and enforceability of the code. Providing in-depth discussions of the foundation and application of each ethical standard to the broad spectrum of scientific teaching and professional roles of psychologists, this unique guide helps practitioners effectively use ethical principles and standards to morally conduct their work, avoid ethical violations and most importantly, preserve and protect the fundamental rights and welfare of those whom they serve. This edition covers crucial and timely topics with new sections on the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic and strategies for applying the social justice and liberation psychology moral frameworks to ethical decision making, addressing personal biases and the prejudices of those with whom psychologists work and healing and self-care for Black Indigenous and People of Color psychologists, students and trainees. Health and Social Research in Multiethnic Societies James Y. Nazroo, 2006-09-27 This volume presents a ready source of information on the methodological issues facing research on ethnicity, which is highly relevant to a wide variety of health, economic and social issues in modern societies. Straightforward in its approach and accessible to those who are not specialists in studies of ethnicity, Health and Social Research in Multiethnic Societies provides essential and clear guidance on appropriate methods. Topics covered include approaches to conceptualizing ethnicity and understanding the context of ethnicity in modern societies, ethical issues and the political context within which ethnicity research is conducted, engagement with researched communities and with users, more broadly, cultural competence in research, practical issues faced by both qualitative and quantitative research, use of secondary and administrative data sources for research. Using a combination of critical analysis and case studies to illustrate the benefits and pitfalls of particular approaches, this volume provides access to core issues relevant to research with ethnic minority groups. It is a vital resource for those carrying out and using what is a considerable body of research, including students, academics, researchers and research commissioners.
